and the servant inquired whether room could be afforded. The publican replied that there was one room for the lady, but that the gentleman could not be accommodated, the large guest room being overfilled. After some visible reluctance he own ed that the gang of Haburak was dinaking there. The lady became terrified and entreated the primes not to remain; but it had grown dark, the rain was pouring down, the horses were worn but, and the steep defacent of the road was so very dangerous, that it was most hazardous to proceed. The Prince wrapped in his white officer's cloak, under which he kept his pistols in readiness, stepped into the said down at the table, facing the window, while his servant likewise armed, kept watch outside the base stepsion witch, while a dat are and addit the start of the stepsion and the stepsion was adding at the start of the road was so very dangerous, that it was most hazardous to proceed.
