Firtable.—If you wish to know who is the most degraded and the most wretched of human beings, book for a man who has practised a vice so long that he cures it and clings to it; that he pursues it because he feels a great law of his nature driving him on towards it; but, reaching it, knows that it will graw his heart, and make him roll himself in the dust with angulab.

Dassiza says he would not mind living a bachelor, but which he comes to think that bachelors must die—that they have got to go down to the grave "without any body to cry for him"—it gives him a chill that frost-bites his philosophy. Dabster was seen on Taesday evening going convy to a milliner. Putting, this, fact to the other, and we think we "smell something," as the fellow said when his shirt took fire.

THERE appears to exist a greater desire to live long than to live well! Measure by man's desires, he cannot live long enough; measure by his good deeds, and he has not lived long enough; measure by his will deeds, and he has lived too long.

(T) As modesty is a woman's greatest ornamer so the want of it is her greatest deformity.

GRUMBLERS.—Some men are habitual and consti-tutional grumblers. Nothing pleases them, nothing goes right with them. They grumble at the weather, the hard times, and are always envying the success of others and cursing their own bad luck. We heard of a fellow the other day, who picked up a quarter the street, and then swore that if any other person had found it, it would have been a half engle!

Norming like love and hunger to drive a man may or make him happy. Next to a feast upon a seven tenn year old pair of sweet lips under a grape vin by mocalight, is a foray upon a platter of cold beans after fishing for suckers all day. The one fills the postic heart, and the other a hungry stomach.

"SHARFFRARE haunts me night and day," said a stage-strutting hero. "That he is so eternally haunted," remarked a by-stander, " is not to be wondered at at all, for hr has most cruelly murdered him in every thing he has undertaken."

( ) Ho that never extends his views beyond the raises or rewards of men, will be dejected by nelect and envy, or infatuated by honor and applause. A GENTLEMAN, who has been successively engaged a three professions, was asked the comparative advantages of them for acquiring property. He replied
—" The man who will give but a four-pence to save his sool, will give twenty-five cents for relief from sickness, and a dollar to have his own will."

Josta WinsLow was one of the early Governors of Massachusetts Colony. It is said that at his func-ral, the Rev. Witherell, of Scituate, prayed that "the Governor's son might be half equal to his father." Gad Hitchcock observed afterwards, that "the prayer was so very reasonable, it might have been hope that God would grant it, but he didn't!"

How siven we dreaded in our schoolboy days, to be punished by sitting between two girls! Ah! the force of sducation. In after years we lourned to submit to such things without shedding a tear. "I Loven my wife," said Mr. Caudle, "and for the first two menths, I felt as if I could have eat her up. Ever since, I have been sorry I didn't."

The Knickerbooker for August gives a good remark of an Indian, approprise of imprisonment for debt. One of his tribe, acquaintest with civilization, was showing him through a jail. What him do? awked the savage, pointing to a debtor. 'He no pay his skins,' said the other, alluding to the Indian currency. 'Well,' said the questioner, 'how him get skins, locked up in great house?'

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. This Medicine has attained that high character which is necessary for all medicines to attain, to induce counterfeiters to put forth a spurious article at the risk of the lives of those who are innocently de-caved.

Look well to the marks of the Genuine !—They have the written signature of C. W. JACKSON upon the wrapper, and the name blown in the bottle, without which they are spurious.
