

ODDS AND ENDS.

A RELIC—The Editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer recently saw a relic which had a pocket knife upwards of eighty years old.

CLAY AND SEWARD—A gentleman, just from Michigan, informs us when Senator Seward went recently to that State to defend the notorious conspirator, Cass, met him, and playfully remarked:—“Now Mr. Seward, don't preach any of your higher law doctrines here; if you do, I shall preach noise and confusion.”

AN OLD SALT—Capt. James West, of the steamship Atlantic, left New York last Saturday, on his two hundred and first voyage across the ocean.

When travelling, put your watch and wallet at night into your stockings, and then place the stockings under your head.

Phylloxera, like medicine, has abundance of drugs, few good remedies, and scarcely any specific.

RUFUS CHASTE.

We don't know who the author of the following "Pen and Ink Portrait" is—but wherever it may be, we think it ought to have something done for him!

Rufus Chaste is a picture to look at, and a crowd to look at. He is about seven feet six, or six feet seven, in his socks; supple as an eel, and wiry as a cork screw.

He is a compound of wrinkles, "a cork screw," and jurisprudence. He has small, keen, piercing black eyes, and a head shaped like a much resembling a bag of wool in "admirable disorder," or a brush-heap in a gale of wind.

He has no particular shape, and his wit and legal "doge" have set many a judge, in a saloon, and so confound him to speak plain English, or tell the truth for the rest of their natural lives.

He is a great one for twisting and turning, and for jumping and kicking up the dust, when steam's up, his oratory is first rate, and his arguments ingenious and forcible.

He generally makes a ten strike—judge and jury—at the end of every sentence. He is a great one for twisting and turning, and for jumping and kicking up the dust, when steam's up, his oratory is first rate, and his arguments ingenious and forcible.
