AT $2 00 PER ANNUR

VOL. 39.

CARLISLE, PA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1852.

NO. 10.

Poetical.

Across the plain glittered a not less confident, and ill more numerous host—under the nees and order-

| Company | Comp

life; but I shall lose too many of those brave follows to morrow."

The whole camp had risen, and there could be no more sleep that night. Napoleon again mounted who has all his life long kept peace in his mind, and calling his Marshals, and Generals together, gave them his orders, and the whole army waited for daybreak. Towards morning a thick fog overapread the vast plain of Austrilitz, and covered both armies. This omen cast a gloom a for moment over the French battalions. But when the sun came up it rolled the mists into heaven, and flooded the field of Austrilitz, with splendor. A single glance told that both armies were ready for conflict.

Napoleon was at this instant surrounded by his Lieutensnite, and at a word Marshals Davout, Lance, Soult, and Bernadotte, and Prince Murat flew to lead their divisions to battle; while Napoleon himself with the battislions of his Guard, and ten battalions and the organizations of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the could decide the fortones of the day. Such were the

The young man that left town a few days age, says his mother would have been no relation to him, if his father had nt married her.

The heart has its reasons, which reasons, does

The Way they Kill and Pack Hogs in Ohio State.

Yankee Sullivan and Johnny Walker are to have boats, which are sure to do it scener or later.

8300 a side.

The Information Conference of what is good, are the two listing will make a man feel "juley about the heart," it is to talk valvet to a pair of sky-collistrue, and the practice of what is good, are the two most important objects of life.

If anything will make a man feel "juley about the heart," it is to talk valvet to a pair of sky-collistrue, and the practice of what is good, are the two orders in a clover field. Time—a moopahing most important objects of life.