A BROKEN HEART.

A UROPERATY. One of the most distressing, heart-rending events has received in the neighborhood of Beth-d, Bethel township, Delaware county, Pa., near the Delaware line, that we over recolloct having heard, or read of, either in the pages of romanco or the more startling incidents of real life. The consequence has been, that a young and lovely woman, a bildo of only five months, died a fow weeks ago of a broken heart. A Mr. C., a highly respectable farmer living In the noighborhood, courted and matried the daugh-ter of another highly respected and wealthy farme-living, as we stated above, in Bethel township,-He took her to his home, whore his cousin, who bade har welcome. But she scon found that somo other tio was drawing her hueband's inflortions from her. Ho left her to sleep alone at night, which she often passed in toers. She scon saw enough to confirm her supjetione that his cousin, with him she engaged in the enjoyment of illicit love. She immediately addressed him, telling that during that time he must send his cousin that during that time he must send his cousin are the to the would the towns for a week that during that time he must send his cousin that with him she engaged in the enjoyment of illicit love. "Yes.'

"Then," said the man, "I've won; for by your own confession, I have proved that this side' of the river is the 'other side.""

The dumb-founded antagonist, overcome by this profound logic, immediately forked over the money and sloped.

Modesty.

We agree with the old exercise, that modesty is a quality that highly adorns a woman. But affected modesty, like the following, we cannot abide Yesterday a lady went into a store on Chartres street, and after fidgetting and riggling about, she put her cambric handkerchief to her face, and with tremendous mental effort, asked the clerk if he

a fremendous menial effort, asked the elerk if he had any hose confiners for sale. 'The gentleman be-ing quite ignorant of the meaning of the modest and fair customer, was rather embarrassed, but not wishing to appear altogether green, said that none of the article was on hand, but insured the lady that an invoice of a large lot on the way from France had been forwarded, and they would soon arrive

"Why, la !" said the lady, "there they are with olasps; it is a pair of those slocking fighleners that I want," pointing with her parasol to a lot of opring garters.
