

PATRICK HENRY.

A man stands on the floor of the House of Delegates of Virginia. He turns an eye of fire toward him...

The grandeur of that scene cannot be compassed in one glance. He stood amid a grave and prudent body of men...

Who would dare, if he inclined, to stalk forth from their midst, and throw down the gauntlet to the mightiest Empire of the world...

He opened his lips. His heart, big with the destinies of the world, struggled for a moment with doubt...

THE FASHION OF ENVY. Of all the spies, human or animal, envy is the most preserving, cunning, observant and indelible...

Whatever we do or say, is straightway snapped up by this lurking insidious meddler, distorted and disarranged by this oldest born of Malice...

Envy is the lowest, vilest, meanest of all the passions that ever swayed the human breast. And white Faith, Love, Hope, Justice, and all their sister virtues...

THE STORM—A FRAGMENT. The night was most tempestuous. Ever and anon the forked lightnings flashed from out the dark, overburdened clouds...

Again the earth was wrapp'd in the sable mantle of darkness! I strove to speak, but the thunder's rattling tones my utterance. I strove to step, but my limbs had fettered...

Again the earth was wrapp'd in the sable mantle of darkness! I strove to speak, but the thunder's rattling tones my utterance. I strove to step, but my limbs had fettered...
