VIOLATION OF THE SAUBATH .- The New York Observer, a religious paper, in recording a recent frightful collision on the Hudson River Railroad, and wonderful escape of the passengers, makes the ful

wonderfol escape of the passengers, makes the fol-lowing comments: "In making a record of this occurrence, we can not forbear to allude to the oircomstance, that since of this Company departed from their original determi-nation to keep the Subath, and have been running trains upon that day, these occurrences have greatly increased. The same was true of the New Haven and other roads. This former enjoyed a romarkable exception from disaters, while it continued to ro-sect the Sabbath, but the chafter was marked by a series of occurrences, the most remarkable of which was the dreadful Norwalk tragedy. We believe this read has now discontinued its Sunday trains. We do not regard this world as the place of retri-bution, nor do we look upon over c clanuity in the light of a judgement, but the chaft, but it it to except the special notice of those who are accustomed to regard the band of God in connection with it man affairs. Nothing is gained by appropriating to secular fabor, and to purposes of secular gain, the time which God claims as his own. He frowns open those who flue violate his holy day. We would in this connection reproduce the custom which we are informed is very common open our Railroads, even those on which there are no Sunday trains, of taking this day for making tepairs, cape cially where such reprints would interfore with the ordinary business of the Roads. We do not believe that any of these violations of the Subbath, by which men are compelled to work seven days in the week, will in the end be found to be profitable, oven in a temporal point of view."

Another convenient mode is to act in two sho elakes, 2 inches apart, so as to admit the ends of it boards to lap between them. The secret of th plan is that the animisis cannot see where fluxy a going to light. Another great improvement on sto fear to leap where they cannot see where fluxy a going to light. Another great improvement on sto fences is to plough two furrows on each side of it fence, torning the first furrow against the fonce at showelling the outer furrow above the inner at against flux will; this prevents the under stoon for shaving with the frost, and makes a drain to car the water from under the wall; on this plan the is no necessity to dig a foundation. The above mode is well'adapted to this kind of fonces, we a obliged to build where our fields are stony and t stone not of a good quality, in such cases the w ought to be 3 feet at bottom and 3 to 3 high, tapp ing so as to be not breader at top than about inches. I have had a quantity of stone fonces, at no effet but by taking the above plan I now am convic they are the only one flux one faces as there a and model complaint as there is about them, it ap and model complaint as there is about them, it ap and model complaint as there is about them, it pars strange that this plan has not long since be adopted. Y at is not so strange when I cannot to flact, for I myself, have for years been trying to pariments, and have near succeeded until I (in case to flact, for I myself, have for years been trying to present the set of the store stance as there a	e is also upon this land a number of graited 17068 of is choice fruit.
