THE BRIDE'S NEW HOME.

Far from childhood's sunny bowers,
A new home meets the fair young Bride;
New duties claim her every hour,
And stranger cares attend her every side.

THE LONGEST NIGHT IN A LIFE.

BY CHARLES DICKENS.

It was one of those old-fashioned writers, in the days of George, when they lay on the streets of London, when railways were unknown, and the electric telegraph had not been dreamed of save by the speculative Countess of London.

OUR COUNTRY—MAY IT ALWAYS BE RIGHT—BUT RIGHT OR WRONG, OUR COUNTRY.

CARLISLE, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1854. NO. 44.

"As you always are, uncle," a merry voice exclaimed. "We all say at Hawtree, that Uncle Atherton can never be wrong."

connected with the business she had still to get through, haunted her; and difficulties that did not occur to her till now, arose up before her.

THE DEPOT EVE.
The jig is up and I am flung
Sixty-high, and worse than that.

Joking and Repenting.
Not many months since, a party of young gentlemen, candidates for orders, as the phrase goes, were travelling per rail to the Cathedral city of...

Lamarline's Mother.
It was the fate of the father of Lamarline, the great living French poet and orator, to be mixed up in the French revolution.

Odds and Ends.

- The first step to greatness is to be honest.
Son and Daughter—no longer the ruled but the rulers.
What kind of a man do women like best? Why a husband-man of course.
There is nothing more uncertain, than a certain age.
In a woman, an ounce of heart is worth a pound of brains.
Contentment gives a crown when fortune hath denied it.
What would the telegraph line be good for on a fishing excursion?
The first law of gravity: Never laugh at your own joke.
We should like to know how many spokes there are in the wheel of fortune?
How many men meet who "might be" something, and how few who are!
