Interesting Letter from Col. Fremont. The National Intelligencer contains a lette from Col Fremont, addressed to Col. Benton, and from Uol Fremont, addressed to Col. Benton, and dated Parawan, Utah, where he arrived on the 8th of February, the day previous to writing.— Parawan is the little Salt Lake Settlement com menced years ago, and now contains a popula tion of 400 souls, by whom Col. Fremont and his men were hospitably received. In this letter, Col. Fremont says :

ter, Col. Fremont says:

"Until within a hundred miles of this place we had deguereotyped the country over which we passed, but were forced to abandoq all qurileavy baggage to save the men, and I whall not stop to send back for it. The Delawares all came in sound, but the whites of my farty were all exhausted and broken up, and more or less trost-bitten. I lost one, Mr. Fuller, of St. Louis, Missouri, who died on entering this valley. If died like a man, on horsoback, in his saddle, and will be buried like a soldier, on the spot where fell."

The winter has been usually severe in the region through which the expedition passed, and so far as the snows are concerned, the main condition of the exploration has been fulfilled; and in this connection Col. Fromont remarks:

"We entered the mountain regions on the Huerfano river on the 8d of December, and issuants of the control o Huerfano river on the ou of December, arriving od from it here on the 7th of this month, arriving was want through the ca from it here on the ven of this month, arriving here yesterday afternoon. We went through the Coochatope Pass on the 14th of December with Coochatope Pass on the Ann of December Wind four inches—not feet, take notice, but inches— of snow on the level, among the pines and in the shade on the summit of the Pass. This decides what you consider the great question, and fulfils the leading conditions of my explorations; and therefore I go no further into details in this let-

After speaking of the vast deposits of iron, coal,

After speaking of the vast deposits of iron, coal, and timber within a few miles of Pawawan, and expressing the opinion that a great and powerful interior State will spring up immediately should Congress decide to carry the Pacific Railroad through that region, he adds:

"In making my expedition to this point I save nearly a parallel of latitude, shortening the usual distance from Greene river to this point by over a hundred miles. In crossing to the Sierra Nevada I shall go direct by an unexplored route, siming to strike directly the Tejon passes, at the head of San Joaquin valley, through which in 1850 I drove from two to three thousand head of cattle which I delivered to the Indian Commissioners. I shall make what speed I possibly can, going light, and abandoning the more elaborate survey of my previous line to gain speed."

A Historical Anecdote.

The following is said to have been found in a ancient history of Connecticut:

"Soon after the settlement of the town of New Haven, several persons went over to what is now the town of Milford, where finding the soil very good they were desirons to effect a settlement. But the premises were in the hands of the Indians and some conscientions scruple arose as to the propriety of deposing and expelling them. To test the case, a church meeting was called, and the inatter was determined by solemn vote of that sacred body. After several speeches had been made in relation to the subject, they proceeded to pass votes; the first was the following. "Voted that the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." This passed in the affirmative, and "Voted that the earth is given to the saints." This was also determined like the former,—men con. Thirdly, "Voted that we are the saints," which passing without a single dissenting voice, the title was considered indisputable, and the Indians were soon compelled to evacuate the place. Soon after the settlement of the town of New dians were soon compelled to evacuate the place, and relinquish the possession to the rightful

THE LITTLE FRENCHMAN .- We pick up a good THE LITTLE FRENCHMAN.—We pick up a good deal of fun now and them, says the Dutchman, in omnibuses. In going up Greenwich street the other day, we had for a fellow passenger a Fronchman—a brisk little fellow, elegantly studded with gimerackery and patent leather. In getting out of the stage, he requested the driver to hand him a little mahogany box, alled with jeweiry. In complying with the request, the driver, either accidentally or by design, dropped the cabinet, and it came to the ground with a bump sufficient to knock its brains out. The Frenchman was petrified. For a moment he could not find language sufficient to give vent to his feelings. At guage sufficient to give vent to his feelings. At last he opened upon him:

says a thing she doesn't mean. That she is fond of scandal. That she can't keep a secret. That she—she of all persons in the world—is in love. That she doesn't want a new bonnet.

The Wrong Side of the Head.—Robert Kettle, of Glasgow, was of a joyous nature. Every object seemed to beam upon him; and the very things which would have irritated others only excited his mirth. Having left some temperance tracts at the house of a friend, he found them, on calling a few days after, serving the purpose of paper-curls to one of the young ladies.

"Well," said he, "I see you have made use of the tracts; but immediately converted confusion into meriment by adding: "Only, ye hae put them on the wrang side o' yer head, lassic."

To CATCH RATS .- Take your bed and place it floor where the rats are most troublesom on the noor where the rate are most tromesome; then place bits of cheese, sweetnests, &c., on the plllows and clothes; get in bed and blow out the light and lay still; the rats will soon make their appearance, and when they get fairly at work on the cheese, &c., make a Gran!

If you want to astonish people, say little and look much. A "masterly" silence has been the making of many a man. There's Mr. Mumjurn is accounted a tremendous philosopher, all because he kept his tongue on the inside of his teeth; while Mr. Speadum makes as great a fool, just for talking things right out on a four with heart.

The Whig Candidate for Governor.

The Whig Candidate for Governor.

We have never telt a disposition to misrepresent a political opponent, and we trust we never shall. We do not think, upon a full survey of our course in regard to Mr. Policek, that we have misrepresented him—if we have, it is because we misrepresented him—if we have, it is because we misrepresented him—if we have, it is because dwe misunderstood the Congressional record, which appears too plain to be misconceived or misconstrued. The confidence and the eloquence of the Telegraph have failed to convince us that we were wrong, and we feel obliged, by a proper regard for truth and consistency, to adhere to it the statement to which we have aided to give currency, that Mr. P. voted against an increase of pay to the volunteers. The section stricken out proposed to pay to privates of mounted volunteer corps twenty dollars per month for their services and the use and risk of their horses; and the amendment adopted, against which Mr. Pollock voted, proposed to pay to each mounted private forty cents per day for the use and risk of his horse, except horses actually killed in action. Of course those forty cents per day were in addition to their regular pay as privates, and would have amounted to $12 per month to each man; which, if we understand the subject at all, would have been $2 per month more than the section stricken out added ten nore for use and risk of horses, whereas the amendment adopted gave each private, as we have already shown, twelve dollars for use and risk. If we are wrong in this, we have been mistaken from the first, and will cheerfully make the correction as soon as we shall be convinced of the error.—We desire Mr. Pollock to stand fairly before the people; it is not necessary to resort to fraud or fallschood to defeat him, and if it were we should is lend no countenance to the use of such means. It is enough for the democracy to know that he is the representative of whig ideas, and that he lend no countenance to the use of such means. It is enough for the democracy to know that he is the representative of whig ideas, and that he sympathises with and has in return the sympathies of all the abstractionists and agitators in the state. This is enough to defeat even a better man than Mr. Pollock.—Harrisburg. Union.

On the 9th of March last, a fatal duel was fought near Sacramento, between P. W. Thomas District Attorney, of Placer county, and Dr. Dickson, Physician to the State Marine Hosiptal, in this city. The weapons were duelling pistols, distance thriteen paces. Dickson fell at the first fire, the shot passing directly through the body just below the amplies. He died at midnight. The occasion of the duel, was that Thomas refused to accept a challenge from Dickson's principal, J. P. Rutland, and a clerk in the State er's office, whose claim to gentle Thomas denied.

REPORTERS IN TURKEY.—The English press has its representatives in every section of the globe where movemements of interest to the world are taking place. In the Turkish camp. world are taking place. In the Turkish camp, for instance, some of the papers have their own regular reporters. It is is said that the London Morning Chronicle is represented by Captain Maxwell, an officer in the service of the East India Company, who handles the pen with as much ficility as the sword. The captain took an active part in she battle of Oltenitza. Mr. Crowo, of the London Illustrated News, may always be seen about the camp or at the outposts, with sketch book and pencil in hand, drawing scenes of camp life. The Daily News, too, has correspondents both at Widden at Rutchurk.

NICARAGU.—This State has formally announced her severance from the Central American confederacy, and constituted herself a Republic, thus abandoning all hope of reforming the old league. A new constitution has been adopted, which increases the Presidential term to four years, and gives him almost unlimited powers. The army has been greatly increased, and the pay more than doubled. The Commissioners sent to arrange the boundary dispute with Honduras, failed to do so, as Honduras still insists upon her ultra territorial pretensions. Another revolution was at the last dates apprehended in Nicaragua, the result of which upon property Nicaragua, the result of which upon propert was much feared.

THE MARRIAGE STATE: Shall Happiness and Health, or Misery Sickness, alloud it? MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS!

Reflections for the Thoughtful. Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field, or the insects of the earth, evineing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchasfed to them. Many such are bushnafs and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the happiness of a confiding and affectionate wife, with purhaps a family of children.

WIFE LINGERS FROM YEAR TO YEAR
I that pittable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhiberating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.
She may not be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; as her pride, ambition and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not admit of it; but she is novertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always alling.
Thus, day after day, and month after month transpire. Her health daily sinks, till finally even the epe of recovery no longer remains. And thus

THE BLOOMING BRIDE.

THE BLOOMING BRIDE,

Jut a few years ago in the flush of health and routh, and buoyaney of spirits, rapidly, and appacently inexplicably, becomes a feeble, sickly, debilitated wife, with frame cunscited, nerves unstrung, spirits depressed, countenance bearing the impress of suffering, and an utter physical and mental prostration.

Sometimes this deplorable change may and does arise from organic or constitutional causes. But
