a heavy job before them, for the crops of the entire valley present a most encouraging appearance. The yield, it is estimated by many will be nearly one third greater than last year, and of the very best quality. If the prices of grain continue anything near what they now are, our farmers will make their "etarnal fortunes" from the produce of this year. Well, although it's a little hard on us town folks to bay $8 and $9 for a barrel of flour, still we like to see the honest tiller of the ground receive a good recompense for his labor, for when he of a higher grade of officers than captains, ospers money becomes plenty, and all kinds of business takes a start for the better

THE NEWVILLE FAIR.

Circumstances beyond our control prevented our being present at this fair as we intended, but we learn from those who were that it wa highly creditable one to the Literary Society by which it was projected, and a source o gratification to the citizens of Cumberland county, particularly to those of Newville. This triumph, for such it evidently was, must be peculiarly gratifying in view of the adverse cirumstances under which it was achieved, difficulties being interposed and prognostications of the number of three thousand, whose pay is failure delivered with a show of more than or- greatly increased, and inducements to good racular wisdom, by those who lacked not only enterprize to engage in it themselves, but even the taste to appreciate it when consummated by others -- which last deficiency was, perhaps
