The European Question.

The European Question.

It is very hard to comprehend that European war in which France and England have hitherto blayed in concert such a feeble and contemptible part. Hitherto they have been moving like haals to the scene of action, striking incidental shift apperficial blows, firing long shots, inconsequently shearing off, to mark the exact effect ipon the great barbarian; and the majority of those concerned in the extraordinary business. At this moment, when it was to be expected they would have made some demonstration connected with the Russian retreat from the Principalities, they stand in the back ground, and we see Austria, the reluctant and treacherous power, compa potentially into the front of the business. reluctant and treacherous power, conntially into the front of the business.

with the Russian retreat from the Principalities, they stand in the back ground, and we see Austria, the reluctant and treacherous power, coming potentially into the front of the business.— England and France move naide, as if the Danupian question was nothing to them, and allow Austria to be the arbiter of the argument—allow of Francis Joseph to make a treaty with the Turk is (signed on 14th June), in which the two Western Powers have no share. They are thus pushful out of the debate, and the Emperor of Austria tells the Sultan & will see that the Provinces are properly evacuated. All f this has the look of a cowardly shuffling dodge, unworthy the pretensions of two such powers as France and England.

All this proves that the Western Powers dread the extremities to which was would force them. They see that the Car has the sympathies of till German Powers and other despotic governments, and they consent, at the suggestion of Austria, that Nicholas shall by treated like a sullen and headstrong boy, whom it is necessary to hunior in order to bring him round. Austria tells the two others that it would not answer at all,—nor would she hereself consent to it—that the Caar should think it was the Westerns who obliged him to quit the Principalities. No—it must appear that he drew back when Austria, the friendly power—whom he understands and who understands him—made a show of carnestly desiring it. Nicholas does not retire for fear of the French and English. Let them not take such a thing into their heads. Under these circumstances it is very likely that the Caar may liften to terms. But, first he may let the Powers fire at the stone walls of Sebastopol or Anapa, or even land troops on the Grimea. But he could treat at any time, by merely giving a consent to do so. It is probable that the Westerns will continue the war as they have begun it, dreading the airmed adhesion of the German Powers to the Caar, dreading the necessity of appealing to the Hungarian or Italian democracy, and still hanging, in a shilly shally mann

All that are promulgated with reference to it is that the document is simply a treaty of amity and peace, and not a full commercial treaty. Still it contains some features which are of great importance to us in a commercial point of view. The treaty, known as the "Treaty of Kamagova," is drawn up in four languages—English; Datch, Chinese and Japanese. The treaty provides for the opening of Simoda, is land of Niphon, lat. 34 deg. 48 min. N., lon. 188 deg. 58 min. E., Napakiang, Loo Cheo Islands; and Kakadade, on the Island of Yesso, near Matsmal. Simoda has been surveyed by Lleu. Butt. The harbor, though small, is easy of access, and will be useful to our whalers.—
Provisions and assistance are to be supplied to all American ships visiting the coast, and distressed scamen are to be provided for and protected. A treaty of commerce, and an established tariff, will be negotiated shortly; and thus the whole benefits of the trade of these two ports opened to the commerce of the United Biates. It may be some time before the barrier of national exclusiveness is broken down which has for so many ages guarded Japian, still this is the entering wedge, and Yankee enterprise and energy may well be trusted to perform the balance of the work. From our ports on the pacific, a line of steamships will soon branch off to these ports, and thus China and Japan will be come as famaliar on Clange as London and Perisar of the present time.—Philadesphia-Argus.

The Hon. Levi Hale, one of the Judges The Flour market has undergone no change.

The Whigs are rallying all their forces, says the Washington Examiner, combining with all the isms and parties of every hue and shade in the State, in opposition to the Democratic candidate for Governor—the pure, the honest, the incorruptible Bigler. By every means, fair and unfair, by calumny, fraud, misrepresentation, unholy and corrupt alliances, they are determined, if possible, to defeat this sterling determined, if possible, to defeat this sterling and unfair, by calumny fraud misrepresentative determined, if possible, to defeat this sterling and unfair, by calumny fraud misrepresentative determined, if possible, to defeat this sterling and determined, which occasion solved addresses, (English and corromonies, on Salnyday flethed, with the Cumber and unfair, where the Oorner Stone of the beat defeated by def Democrate, and true hearted son of Pennsylvania. There are evidences, the most unmistakable, of a coalition, as corrupt as it is unnatural, ble, of a coalition, as corrupt as it is unnatural, between the Whigs, the Know-Nothings, and various other factions, joined by a few faithless and recusant Democrates, to sacrifice Governor Bigler, and, with him, to defeat and overthrow the great Democrate Party. There is only one way—but that is a most effectual one—of preventing the success of these schemes of the opposition. It is for the Democracy to stand together, to present an undivided front to the foe, to move in concert of action and harmony of feeling, in support of their noble candidate. Is he not worthy of such support? When had Pennsylvania a better Governor than William Bigler? His constant opposition to the undue expansion of the paper currency has probably saved the State from a financial crisis such as is impending over other States whose rulers have been less wise and prudent. His watchful care to prevent the unnecessary increase of monopolies and special corporate privileges, his undeviating honesty of purpose as manifested in his vetoes against every species of favoritism, fraud, and corruption in the Legislative Halls—in short, the warm-hearted zeal, and incorruptible fidelity with which he has watched over, guarded, and protected the interests of our good old Commonwealth and the rights of the masses, ought to endear him to the people, and, certainly, entitle him to the cordial support of every true Democrat. There is no doubt that the Democracy are strong enough to carry him safely through the fiercest fires of the opposition, and to elect him triumphantly over all the combinations of isms, schisms, and heresis, that can be arrayed against him. With the Democracy, therefore, rests the question of Gov. Biglers's re-election. As he has ever been true to them so, we honestly believe, and implicitly trust, they will be true to him.

A Reform in Legislation.

A Reform in Legislation.

The destruction of the omnibus system of Legislation was effected during the last session of the legislature by the determined manner in which Gov. Bigler took ground against it in his last annual message, and the people will find, when the pamphlet laws are published, that they will contain the novel and meritorious feature of each act embracing a distinct subject clearly set forth in its title. The omnibus system has been the great curse in our legislation, under cover of which the most outrageous franch have been perpetrated, and the most odious schemes of wrong and villany sanctioned. The most unjust provisions have repeatedly been insidiously inserted in bills whose general tenor was objectionable, and it is thus that the legislation to the capital stock of said Railroad Company.
