appointees to office.

In regard to this complaint, we confidently assume, that in the choice of a public servant the body of the people demand only the democratic test: "Is he capable, honest, and faithful to the constitution?" That the officers appointed by the President are such as the people require, if felt and demonstrated in the ability with which felt and demonstrated in the ability with which their duties are everywhere performed, and the harmonious action which prevails throughout the multifarious and diversified branches of the public service. Their integrity has been mani-fested by the detection of a long list of habitual public service. Their integrity has been manifested by the detection of a long list of habitual frauds upon the government, and the prosecution and conviction of the offenders; the promptness and accuracy which their reports, returns, and accounts exhibit, prove the sonse of their responsibility which universally prevails; and their ready and co-operative subordination to the strict accountability to which they are held is the surest pledge of their fidelity to the constitution and the laws.

Who, then, are the complainants; who vex the air and burden the press with their olamors?—Certainly no class of our enterprising, useful, industrial, or producing population. Does the inerchant, the trader, the manifacturer, the mechanics the farmer, the operative, the laborer, the scholar, the soldier, or the sailor complain? No one of all these. Who, thou, are the malcontents?—These men are not statesmen; they are parasites, whose patriotism never rises beyond the ambition for place with a view to emoluments, lawful and unlawful, which it offers. Jealous of their whose patrictism never rises beyond the ambition for place with a view to emoluments, lawful and unlawful, which it offers. Jealous of their fellow-citizens intrusted with office, they would sacrifice their best friend to procure his position. What a contrast to these are the thousands of able and patrictic men, whose honorable aspirations have been necessarily disappointed—who partake the sentiment uttered by the patrictic Greek on the loss of his election, "It hank the gods that Sparta has so many worther sons." To such men the people know how to do justice, and their aspirations cannot fail of success when the public service requires their aid.

But the class of discontents of whom we have spoken are unworthy of the public confidence. They are the would-be aristocrats of the republic, who demand all the emoluments of public service without capacity to earn them; who aspire to all the offices without qualifications to fill them, and claim all the honors without the virtue to deserve them.

What, then, are their present aims? In their own phrase, "to break down the administration." And what does this mean? To deprive it of the confidence, and consequently the support of the people; to render it inefficient to promote the public good, in order that general discontent and disaster may prevail. Upon its ruins they hope to rise into power and place.

in falvor of the bill itself, which the old admires of the Journal's sayings will do well to ponder on:

"And, after all, the main principle of the Nobraska bill is certainly in itself right. We do not see how any man of good sense, who examines the subject, can come to any other conclusion. We can see no reason why the general government should say that the people living on one side of the parallel of latitude shall have the privilege of deciding for themselves whother they will have a certain institution or not, but that the people on the other side of the parallel shall not have that privilege. Such a discrimination appears to us to have no foundation in justice, reason, or common sense. We cannot but regard it as odious and wrong. Give the people of all territories the power to choose their own institutions, or give it to none. We cannot have too much sectional pride to be willing oven to submit to the discrimination which they advocate. How can northern folks remote a submit to the discrimination which they advocate. How can northern folks should'nt have the same privilege of self-government as southern folks—that persons living north of thirty-six thirty, should be denied powers freely exercised by all persons south of thirty-aix thirty, should be denied powers freely exercised by all persons south of thirty-aix thirty? When before was it known that the people of any portion of the country contended zealously for admired to their own tection of powers, principles and rights, belonging to other sections? Will our northern friends do us the favor to bestow a thought or two, and a word or two upon this view of the subcet."

IMPORTANT TO JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.—The Legislature at the last session passed the following "act relative to the duties of Alderman and Justices of the Peace of the Secretal counties of this Commonwealth, shall be required to return to the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of the several counties of this Commonwealth, shall be required to return to the Clerk of the Cour

HORRIBLE HURDER AT LAUREL, DEL.

SATURDAY MORNING, July, 22.—We have just received in ell'gence of a horrible murder perpetrated at or near Laurel, Sussex county, on Thursday night last, by a negro slave. We have not gained the full particulars, but give them as far as we have ascertained.

It seems that a man by the name of Anderson had a negro hired by the name of Samuel Calaway, who had seduced his daughter, and upon the fact being discovered, Anderson threatened to shoot the negro, whereupon the negro left. Anderson, however, went to the negro's master, purchased his time and got a bill of sale. He then sold him to a trader by the name of Tindale, who employed two men, named—Collins and — Hearn, to take him, and the negro having left his clothes at Anderson's, he (Anderson) sent him word that he could return and get them. The negro kept his clothes in a granery or some other out-house, wherein Colins and Hearn had secreted themselves for the purpose of tying him when he entered to get them. The negro came and Anderson went with him to this house, and when the negro entered, he (Anderson) clesed the door, and the two men inside attempted to scize him, when the negro knocked Collins down with a club and stabbed him to the heart with ha butcher knife, killing him almost instantly.

Upon hearing the scuffle, Anderson rushed in, and the negro fell upon him and Hearn, cut-ing Hearn's throat in such a horrd manner, killing him almost instantly.

All pop hearing the scuffle, Anderson rushed in, and the negro fell upon him and Hearn, cutting Hearn's throat in such a horrid manner, that his life is despaired of, and inflicting a fearful pash in Anderson's stomach, which exposed his entrails. Anderson's wound has been sewed up, and his physician has some slight hope of his recovery, but Hearns, it is feared, is beyond recovery. The negro isstillat large, and the devernor has offered a reward of $200 for his detection. We have no doubt but he will be caught, as it is suprosed he is not out of the State yet. We cannot describe him; he is however, nearly six feet high, and stout built. The Delaware Journal says: We have heard that the negro is concealed in a large swamp; which is surrounded by hundreds of people armed. It is feared that the people will lynch him if taken. It is said, from good authority, that the daughter of one of the citizens near Laurel is enciente by this fellow.

They are the would-be aristocrats of the republic, who demand all the emoluments of public service without capacity to earn them; who as pire to all the offices without qualifications to fill them, and claim all the honors without the virtue to deserve them.

To deprive it of the confidence, and consequently the support of the people; to render it inefficient to promote the public good, in order that general discontent and disaster may prevail. Upon its ruins they hope to rise into power and place.

The Nebrasha Question.

For many years past few journals have been more popular with the Whig party, particularly of the Northern States, than the Louisvilled Journal. The bitter but often witty flings of Parmices at democratic men and measures, have at one time or another found a place in the columns of perhaps every. Whig paper in the land, and been eagerly quoted and endorsed by the rank and file of that party. At the outset of the Nebraska agitation, the Journal opposed the new high and the ground of the danger of its renewing a bitter sectional strife, but it now decidedly denounces the absurd project of repealing it, and concludes an article on this subject with the following unanswerable argument in favor of the bill sterif, which the hold admirers of the Journal's sayings will do well to ponder on:

"And, after all, the main principle of the Nebraska bill is certainly in itself right. We do not see how any man of good sense, who examines the subject, can come to any other conclusion. THE MARRIAGE STATE: thall Happiness and Health, or Misery Steleness, attend it ?

MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS! Reflections for the Thoughtful.

Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field; of the insects of the earth, evincing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchasfed to them.
Many such are husbands and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the inspiness of a confiding and affectionnte wife, with perhaps a family of children.

WIFE LINGERS FROM YEAR TO YEAR WHE LINGERS FROM YEAR TO YEAR.

In that pitiable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhiberating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.

She may not be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; as her pride, ambilion and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not adual to it; but she is nevertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always ailing.

Thus, day after day, and month after month transpire. Her health daily sinks, till hanly order the ope of recovery no longer remains. And thus
