Mr. Box of vice Presidents and Secretaries and Bon-nam, the Demoratic candidate for Congress; was present and addressed the large assemblage.

The Gazette thus speaks of Mr. B.: The moeting was addressed by our candidate for Congress, J. ELLIS BONHAM, Eag., with his usual ability. During his visit to York Mr. Bonham confirmed the good opinion proposition protection which will be supposed by the proposition of the confirmed the good opinion proposition of the proposition o

Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee.

On the next evening, Mr. Bonham addressed an enthusiastic meeting of Democrats in Fryseltown, over which Joon Myens presided. His remarks elicited frequent testimonials of applained, and his and ence at the close were fired any with the spirit that bodes no good to whigery and its allies. Mr. Bonham was followed, in an adilicality of the German language, by H. L. Fishtza, Esq., whose remarks were received with onthusinatic cheers. Charles M. THE MASS HEETING AT PHILIDELPHIA.

30,000 Persons Present.

The Philadelphia papers are filled with glow ing accounts of the Constitutional gathering of the Democrats of the city on Monday the 18th. John Romiss, Jr.; presided over the main as-semblage. Benjamin Rush at the auxiliary, the crowd being so immense that one set of speakers could not be heard over it at once, and thus two meetings were forced into organization. The Public Ledger, an entirely neutral paoer, thus confirms the statements of the Do cratic Press, in respect to the enthusiasm and magnitude of this meeting:

"The Democratic Mass Meeting, held in Insuch—and who, with their parents and grandparents, shall have been born on the American soil, and of Paments Mostletto The Catholic Religions.

Who now are Americans and sustain American principles? The Americans of 1776 would not allow any man to support a measure which might in the least interfere with another's religious rights. The Know-Nothings do themselves, and require others to interfere with such fights. The Americans of 1776 required an oath to be taken by those elected to the Convention that they would not interfere with the religious rights of any man. The Know-Nothings require an oath that their members will interfere with and deprive certain men of their religious rights. But we have further and as equally strong proof that the Know-Nothings method and the product of the square was a dense mass of men and women. Crowds were passing it and out constantly, and the greatest enthusiasin prevailed.

The speakers were all well received, and the fact that they made short and more pointed

The New Castle Journal informs us that the citier of that paper had an opportunity of hearing Judge Pollock address a few of the people in the folling Mill of the Césalo Iron works. As a speaker, he will hardly compare with a third rate lawyer. There is nothing about him like humor, acither has he the power to condense thought essential to produce conviction in the minds of his audience.
