THE CAPTURE OF KERTCH. On the 24th, the Allies landed at Kertch, on the 25th their steamers passed the Straits, and the dags of the West floated over the Sca of Arolf. Despatches received by the Govern-ment, last night, announces that on the 26th the flotilla appeared before Berdiansk, the best harbor on the Sca of Azoff, and a grain depot; and here; as elsewhere, when assailed, the one-my burned his stores of corn, and destrayed four war steamers that lay in the harbor. A-bove a hundred sail vessels used in the trans-port trade had been destroyed by our crusiers. The Allies on the 27th shelled the fort of Ara-bat, and blew up the magazine. This attack on Arabat effectually closes the road across the Putrid Sca. Only one Russian steamer, we are told, remains in the Sea of Azoff; and, äs the Allies will not leave the work half dan, no doubt they will visit Marianopol, and Tagan-reg, aid corey place accessible to the guns of the steamers, and complete the work of des-truction. THE CAPTURE OF KERTCH.

The arcamers, and complete the work of des-truction: Day by day the pressure thus placed on Southern Russia will be felt, not only at Sebas-topol, but far inland: and the merchants of Kazan and Nishini and Norgorod will feel the eff its of the occupation of the straits of Kr. ch, and the scaling of the Sea of Azoff. It will also be felt on the plateaus and in the valleys of the Caucasus, and the heroes of Schamyl will respond to the stimulus, from the Casipian to the rocks of Anapa. Nor will its echoes be faint in the palaces of St. Peters-burg, hor without effect at Vienna and Ber-lin.

burg, hor without effect at Vicuma and Ber-lin. But the actual operations, although not without glory, are small in comparison with the effects they may reasonably be expected to produce on the large theatre of the war around Sebastopol. There is now no outlet for the Russian army in the Crimea, except by the isthinus of Perekop: no prospect but of sustain-ing as best they can with diminished recour-ces, the stout light they have made for the last eight months, of capitulation or retreat.-No doubt the gallant soldiers who have so stillly defended Sebastopol will not now falter in the performance of their duty, because their perils are greater, and their chances of revisiting their homes decreased. The greater task of the Al-lies in the Crimea has yet to be accomplished, and we much mistako the character of their fors if the latter yield to the sufreunacy of val-or and number without a desperate resistance. Mrs. Barnum asked mowhat country I was from. That was none of her business, as my buby was born here in New York. What difference did it make if I did come from Ir.land ? She asked me what kind of a looking man my husband was, and I told her she might go to him if she filted, and see for herself. Only for her I would have got a prize. She thought I was poor, because my child and myself were not dressed as fine as some who were there, and that is another rea-son why my baby was rejected. But I can tell Mrs. Barantm I am not as poor as she might think me. My husband owns four houses and lots up town. AN UNEXPROTED GOOD.--If adversity has its evils, it also has its benefits. The New York Courier says, a physician in large.prac-tice was asked by a stranger if New York was healthy at the present time.
