OUR WATERING PLACES.

At this season of the year, when the denizen of the cities and large towns, anxious to escape for a time from the brick and mortar and confined atmosphere of their town residences, are looking about them for eligible and pleasant country retreats, we deem it proper to direct summer resort within the limits of the picturesque and fertile Cumberland Valley. There is no section of the State, which, for beauty of charms, seldom fail, with each returning summer, to make a short sojourn in its pleasant and the cordial welcome which here greets the stranger makes him at once feel at home and within a short distance of Carlisle, we would

- Intest From Europe.

By the Asia, we have foreign advices to the Kertch by the Allies, previously reported .-The Russians must have relied for their security in this direction on the ship sunk at the mouth of the harbor, which the winter storms had washed out, but it is still inexplicable how a point of such immense importance could have been so inadequately protected. Advances are still being made, towards Sebastopol. The Mamelon and the White Tower have been taken. The Tchernaya, it seems, has not been crossed, and the Allies are still on their own side of the river. There are conflicting accounts of the progress made at Genitchi, but it was still in possession of the Russians at the last dates. The conferences at Vienna have been formally abandoned, but Austria is stiff holding herself in position to mediate. It is not probable, however, that negotiations will be speedily resumed. The British and French ets were in the vicinity of Cronstadt on the 4th of June, but as Admiral Dundas ascertained that new fortifications had been creeted since last year, it is not likely that any immediate attack will be attempted. The complecations between France and England, on the subject of the railway across the Isthmus of Suex, are not yet disposed of. Louis Napoleon has approved of Benedet fi's proceedings, and actually promoted him. It is said the King of Sardinia, and possibly the Sultan of Turkey will visit the Queen of England on he projected visit to Paris.
