Shocking Saicide, in Michigan,

The Michigan papers relate the particular the self-destruction of Mr. John B. Morris of Batavia, at Charlotte, Easton coun ormany, in that State. The following is the shock.

Morris had been for the last three month Air. Morris had been for the jast three months thoring under an aberration of the intellect, and had several times wandered into the woods and had several times wandered into the woods at night, causing a turn-out of the citizens for the purpose of dinding him. On the day previous to the suicide, he remained in his room laring nearly the whole day with the door fas-

med. About 6 o'clock in the evening his adopted Mr. John Morris, asked at the door for ission, when the old gentleman stated that on as he had taken some opium he would is soon as he had taken some opinim he would pen the door, at the same time initimating that eintended to take enough to put him into his ast sleep. His son remonstrated with him in very way that he could, but the door was not minastened until the opinim was taken. As Mr. John Morris opened the door to pass in, the old John Morris opened the door to pass in, the old John Morris opened the door to pass in, the old John Morris opened the door to pass in, the old i, who had stationed himself close behind door, struck him a severe blow over the chead with a piece of iron, which, stunning a considerably, and cutting quite a gash in forehead, clusted him to desist from enterthe room at that time. In a few minutes erwards, the old man jumped out of the beding window for his stocking feet, (the ground a covered with snow,) and ran for the rods. 7 o'clock in the evening some of the about 7 o'clock in the evening some of the achieves bucceeded, by following his tracks, in inding him under the log-way at a saw mill. nown as Mod Hill, about a mile and a half at of the village. Had he remained there an inding the state of the sta out of the village. Had he remained there an hour longer, it is thought he would have froz-en to death, as he was already quite stupid from the effects of the opium. Getting him home, comfortably to bed, it was hoped that the stupefying effects of the opium would keep him quite during the rest of the night. But about, 3 o'clock in the morning, he arose, went to the closet and took out his razor. His wife, Mornic who slept in the room, saw the. n the closet and took out his razor. His wile, Irs. Morris, who slept in the room, saw the azor movement, and earnestly besought him o give the razor to her. Placing his foot agass the door, and, leaning against it, he with ne stroke severed the right half of his neck utting from the back bone to the windpipe,—Irs. Morris, who stood within about four feet him, and seeing that the horrid deed was bout to be committed, instantly shricked for cip, but too late, for, just as Mr. John Morris, be soon partially nushed open the door to en he son, partially pushed open the door to ener, the gushing blood fell through upon him he victim closed up the razor, placed it in his ft hand, and fell upon the floor and expired.

Oliver Cromwell's speech to the parliament then he turned it neck and heels out of doors. s worth reprinting as a specimen of the vigor us elequence of that strong headed and strong armed man:

"It is high time for me to put an end to your sitting in filits place, which ye have dishonored by your contempt of all virtue, and defiled by the practice of every vice. Ye are a factious crew, and enemies to all good government. Ye are a pack of mercenary wretches, and would, like Esau, sell your country for a mess of pottage, and like Judas, betray your God for a few pieces of silver. Is there a single virtue now remaining among you? Is there one vice you do not possess? You have no more religion than my horse. Gold is your God. Which of of you have not bartered away you conscience for bribes?

of you have not bartered away you conscience for brikes?

"Is there a man among you that has the least care for the good of the commonwealth? You gordid prostitutes! have you not defiled the sacrod place, and turned the Lord's temple into a den of thieves? By your immoral principles and wicked practices ye have grown in tolerable odious to a whole unation. You who were deputed here by the people to get their grievilances redessed, are yoursdives become the graciest grieviances. Your country, therefore, calls upon me to cleanse this augean stable, by putting a final period to your inquitions proceedings in this house, and which by God's help and strength He has given me, I now intend to do. I command you, therefore, upon the peril of your lives, to depart immediately out of this place. Go! Get you out! Make histe! Ye venal slaves begone! Take away that shining bauble there, the speaker's mace, and lock up the doors!"

It the past year's experience be regarded as an index to the future, and the subject viewed abstracity as a mere question of dollars and cents, there would not seem to be much encouragement. As has been stated already, the principal transporters abandoned the Main Line in July last. Should this state of things continue, it becomes apparent from a comparison of the receipts with the expenditures the past year, that on that portion of the Line west of the Junction the State would be largely the loser. But will this state of things be permanent! To But will this state of things be permanent? To arrive at a proper conclusion of this question, it will be nessary to look at the duses which produced it. The most prominent among these (except the competition of the Pennsyl-Vania Rallroad, which has already been discussed;) is the uncertainty that has been felt among business men as to whether the State would retain the ownership of the line. Two successive Legislatures have passed bills for the sale of the Main Line; and although no sale has been effected, yet the constant agitation of the subject has deterred capitalists from embarking in a business involving the expenditures of But will this state of thing; be pe sale of the Main Line; and although no sate make been effected, yet the constant agitation of the zubject has deterred capitalists from embarking in a business, involving the expenditures of thousands which they had no guarantee might not be swept. Another Horrible Accident on the Hudson River Railroad he Drawbridge at Spuyten Devil Creek Gave. Way!—Four. Cars and Two Engines in the Water!—In Engineer, Fireman, Two Pas-tengers and a Boy Missing!—Several Scalded and Badly Injured!

We are again compelled to announce anothe arful accident on the Hudson River Railron by which certainly three or more persons have lost their lives. As far as we have been able to lost their lives. As far as we have been able to ascertain, it appears that the Sunday night train, which left Albany at quarter past four, on reaching the bridge over Spuyten-Devil's creek, caused the bridge to give way, and part of the train, consisting of two engines, two freight ears, the mail and baggage car, and one passenger car, were precipitated into the water. The bridge gave way just this side of the draw. A train with thirty cars had only a few hours before crossed over safely.

purings gave way just this side of the draw. A train with thirty care had only a few hours before crossed over safely.

The train had three passenger cars attached but only one went over, and partly in the water. The passengers were thrown upon one another in the front part of the car, when it went down. As the remaining cars caught upon one of the iron bars, it prevented them from going over, and also the first passenger car from going entirely into the water. Had it not been for this, there would have been many lives lost.

The engineer and fireman of the first engine are missing. They were seen on the engine as she went down.

On the second engine, the engineer and from an were horribly scalded, and they would, no doubt, have been drowned, had it not been that they were rescued by the passengers.

The passengers in the first car succeeded in getting out by breaking out the window glasses and using the side of the car as a ladder. All are reported to have gotten out safely, with the exception of two men, who it is said, were seen standing on the iront of the car, outside the door. They have not been seen since.

And a number were badly bruised, but to what extent we have not yet been able to ascertain.

The name of the engineer lost is James Pari-

Mr. John Upton, the Messenger of Wells, Butterfield & Co.'s American Express, was among the injured. Ho was severely bruised—his ancle dislocated, and one of the small bones of his leg was broken. Ho had in charge nearly a million of dollars, but notwithstanding his severe injuries, he refused to leave his Express, and remained in the cars seven hours in the cold with the Express matter. No instance of courage and endurance like this has ever been on record.

courage and endurance like this has ever been on record.

The cars next the engine probably saved the lives of many people. The engineer and fireman of one of the engines have not been found. The mail bags are all under water, and the mails are wet. The first engine passed over the bridge in safety. The first hone has a baggage car. The last car was raked inside—the sents, stove, and all were swept to the rear end. The second cat was undisturbed. The Conductor was in this car, and was not injured.

The passengers all speak in the highest terms of the conductor and baggageman. Old and experienced railroad men, who have seen many railroad accidents, say this wreck presents a sight never before equalled, in the way of the pilling up of cars, engines, &c. M. Farl, mail agent was badly burt.

The passengers walked across the temporary bridge, and were conveyed to Thirty-street by a special train.—N. Y. Express.

It is said that Dr. McClintock was once regarded by the "regulars" as a demi-God, but as he saw fit to put out a lot of medicines on his own responsibility, all manner of abuses is heaped on him. Is he not the same talented Doctor new, that the great medical journals represented him formerly? We have great respect for the profession, and have received from them every mark of favor, and we are now submitting to them our views and we tender them our medicine, but have no sympathy with the jealous, timid and backbiting among them, and ask none of their favors. We feel persuaded we shall benefit them more than they can us, and that the people will award us the distinction due an immensely valuable discovery.

Agents Wanted.

THE undersigned will give constant employment from this time to the lat of April next, to twenty-five business men, at $2,50 per day. They are wanted as travelling agents to visit all the most populous parts of the State to obtain subscribers for a valuable publication, and to deliver the work. Each agent upon starting out may take any amount of the work he pleases by giving approved security to pay over the proceeds of his sales, deducting therefrom his salary, and returning within a given time any of the work he may have unsold. I am aware that in this business some men's services are worth twice as much as others; those who believe they can make more than two dollars and fifty contaper day by selling for a fair per centage, may have that chance.
