hearts of our countrymon, no such party could over have oxisted. The recollection of Montgomery, Lafayette, De Kalb, Kosciusco, and a long list of foreigners, both officers and solders, who freely shoot their blood to secure our libertles, would have rendered such ingratitude inhossible. Our revolutionary army wissibled with the brave and patriotic natives of their lands: and George Washington was their commander in chief. Would we have ever closed the door against the admission of foreigners to the rights of American citizens.—Let his acts speak for themselves. So early as the 26th of March, 1790, General Washington, as President of the United States, approved the first law which ever passed Congress on the as President of the United States, approved the first law which ever passed Congress on the subject of naturalization; and this only required a residence of two years, previous to the adoption of a foreigner as an American citizen. On the 29th January, 1795, lhe term of residence was extended by Congress to five years, and thus it remained throughout General Washington's administration, and until after the accession of John Adams to the Presidency. In his administration, which will ever be known in history as the reign of terror, as the era of alian and sedition haws, an act was passed on the 17 th of June, 1798, which prohibited any foreigner from becoming a citizen until after a residence of fourteen years, and this is the law, or else, perpetual exclusion, which Gen. Scott preferred, and which the Native American party now desire to restore.

"The Fugitive Stave Law is all the South has obtained in this compromise of 1850. It is a law founded both upon the letter and the spirit of the Constitution, and a similar law has existed on our statute books ever since the administration of George Washington. History teaches us that but for the provision in favor of fugitive slaves, our present Constitution never would have existed. Think ye that the South will ever tamely surrender the fugitive slave law to Northern fanatics and abolitionists!

"And now, fellow-citizons, what a glorious party the Democratic party has ever been!—Man is but the being of a summer's day, whilst principles are eternal. And when the campanga resulted in triumph. Prosident Pierce tendered to Mr. Buchanan's the Court of St. James singularly important and it has happened that during Mr. Buchanan's stay in London, several great questions of a various and complicated character have disturbed the intercontase between the two countries. However important to both the cultivation of continued peace and good will, the fact that Great Britain sees our growing progress with jealousy and alarm, and the fact that we behold her pragmatical interferace upon this continent, wherever an opportunity is presented to her, with indignation, render our relations with Great Britain of the most delicate character. The very intimized of our business commections, constituting as it does, the real cord which binds us together, is api, moreover, to come in conflict with poiltual considerations and the confusive of James of the Great Britain of the most delicate character. The very intimize of our business commections, constituting as it does, the real cord which binds us together, is api, moreover, to come in conflict with poiltual consideration and the confusive of the substitution on the one hand and American progress on the other. It has become prover bild that the sciection of a wise, able and experienced man to represent the United States at the British Court, is one of the first duties of an executive, hardly secondary to the solection of its own chief calcing the properties of these observations. They felt that in the American minister they had a man upon whose side character and wise convols they could confidently bean. Their had a man upon whose side character and wise consistently fixed upon him. Every steamer brought news occasioning the greatest anxiety to the commercial and other classes.—On more than one occasion collision seemed to be inovitable, but every panic passed off. The correspondence of Mr. Buchanan, such of it as has been published, exhibits on his part a vigilance, a discretion, an industry, and at the sum time a dignity of character, that have made his mane a favorite name in every section of our beloved Union. In the later troubles which have given used to so may be everyoned and set. time a dignity of character, that have made his name a favorite name in every section of our beloved Union. In the liter troubles winch have given rise to so much excitement and disconsision in Congress and the country. Mr Bichanan has towered in all the dignity of his high character and intellectual superiority. He will chave his post to give wit to his successor, having established renewed kind relations between the two countries and having Swed upon the two countries and having Swed upon the hearts of the Logista people the impress of a republican character which has never, for a single moment, yielded its simplicity and its truth to aristocratic blandishments. Courted and fluttered during his stay, he studiously as stained from paying tribute to English vanity. In all circles, and on all occasions, he display so their administration their advantage to address the subscribers, as we would act as agents for the et nall circles, and on all occasions, he display ed his American dignity and his American particular. Buchanan, with no disrespect to other candidates, that he is this day regarded as the very strongest man whom the Democratic party could nominate for the Presidency. The divided household of our political friends in New York would, we believe, find in his natio; the olive branch of harmony and pence, the Democrate of Ohio would, under his banner; advance to that victory which their patriotic offorts so well deserve; and Pennsylvania, standing between these two greantic States, would pronounce for such a candidate, with such a majority as would recall the days when these three commonwealths constituted the very fortress of the Democratic. constituted the very fortress of the Democratic party in the free States,

During Mr. Buchanan's absence of nearly three years, while politics raged at home, he proudly abstained from interfering with the struggle for the Presidential succession. From the time he set foot on English soil, ha wrate struggle for the Presidential succession. From the time he set foot on English soil, how rote back to his friends, that in no contingency would he place himself in the field as a candidate for the Presidency. There was nothing of grief in this resolve, nothing of disappointed ambition, it was the calm and deliberate judgment of a mind, which, having plooked espetully over the political past and future, had come to the conclusion that the day for the scramble for Presidential honors had passed away—at least with him—and that he was determined to apply himself to other pursuits. We assert, that, if every private letter, writen from London since his absence, by James Buchanan, in the unsuspecting confidence of his heart, should now he published, and laid before the American people, there would not be found one line, no, not one syllable, manifesting a desire for the nomination of the Democratic Convention, or suggesting any way by which it might be obtained by himself. Even since he has become formidable as a candidate, his letters are animated by the same generous spirit. And the very fact, that he has taken this course, from a conscientious belief that it would be out of place for him to struggle for the nomination, has made him acceptable of the present and to the procession and the same contents of the present and on the same contents of the present and the belief that it would be out of place for him to struggle for the nomination, has made him ac-ceptable to the masses in every part of our country. Absent he is, it is true, but his image is before their eyes wherever they go. In dis-tant lands, it is true, but his counsels have been tant tands, it is true, but his counsels have been felt as if he were present among us. Contending with the giants of foreign diplomacy, it is true, but the thoughts and the words he left behind him, are his living representatives. The people will judge of him by the record, by the people will judge of him by the record, by the scharacter, by his andannted patriotism, and by the trophies with which he returns to his native shores, to be crowned, as we'venfidently tive shores, to be crowned, as wetconfiden hope, with the highest honors of the Republ of the new store of ARNOLD 4: SON, in the store room, lately, occupied by Wise 5 Camp-bell, corner of North Hanover and Louther sis. It is now conceded by all and every one that they stand pre-eminent among the clothing deal-ers in Carlisle, having succeeded in convincing their friends, that they can sell Glothing made and got up, according to the latest styles, from 20 to 25 per cent. cheaper than any other house now on haid a large and splendid assortment of Ready-made Clothing.

Furnishing Goods, Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings. Also, Hats and Caps, and every thing in their line for Men and Boys. Their materials were selected with the greatest care, purchased at the lowest cash prices, and at such shouses only, who never deal in anything like auction trash. Their friends may therefore rost assured that articles purchased of them will and must give satisfaction. Clothing made at the shortest notice in the most fashionable style, having for that purpose secured the services of an experienced Cutter, and laid in a splendid assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, &c., which for beauty and durability cannot be surpassed. To the citizens of the surrounding country we would say, give us a fair trial. All we sake is hair look at our stock and we will not fail to convince you that our Clothing is better made, of botter materials, botter trimmed, cut with more taste, and last though not least, cleaper than you have ever bought elsewhere. Also, a large lot of Trunks, Carpet Bugs, Umbrellas, &c.

All hall creation far and near,
Of Annoto's Store you shall hear;
Let pealing drums and cannon's roar Proclaim the news from shore to shore;
Great bargains sure, are on the wing,
Rare wondors then we now will sing:
At first we'll speak of Crornino rare,
Such trophies, arie will make you stare,
Of broad and narrow cloth so cheap
We'll take a moment's time to speak.
Delighted too you can't but be
With prices and their quality;
Dress and Sack Conts—aye, Vestings too,
What bargains now for all of you!
The Gents will our compliments receive,
And call they must the wonders to believe.
In Pants we have all kinds of styles,
One dollar and upwards, piles on piles.
In Summer Goods—for soon 'twill come—
We'll give you bargains all for 'un.
Frocks and Over-coats so very fine,

In Summer Goods—for soon 'twill come— We'll give you bargains all for fun. Procks and Over-coats so very fine, Great wonders you shall see in every line.
