

TERMS.—One Dollar and Fifty Cents, paid in advance; Two Dollars if paid within the year; and Two Dollars and Fifty Cents, if not paid within the year. This notice is not paid in advance in any instance. No subscription is discontinued until arrears are paid in full at the option of the Editor.

Advertisements.—Accompanied by the cash, and not exceeding one square, will be inserted for one Dollar, and twenty-five cents for each additional insertion. Two of a great length in proportion.

Job-Printing.—Such as Hand-bills, Postings, Bills, Pamphlets, Blankets, Labels, &c., &c., executed with accuracy and at the shortest notice.

American Volunteer.

CARLISLE, PA., THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1866. VOL. 42. NO. 51. AT $2.00 PER ANNUM.

Poetical.

The Heart's Guests.

When age has cast its shadows O'er life's declining way, And the evening twilight gathers Around our dearest ones...

Miscellaneous.

THE DUELIST'S DOOM.

Stevens came to Mississippi when but a youth of 18. He then possessed the mildest manners and strictest personal morality, and was particularly noted for that hardworking habit of his countrymen in general.

How do you know I lie?

How do you know I lie? You are to me a total stranger; I am positively certain that I never saw you before in my life.

A Maiden's First Love.

Human nature has no essence more pure—the world knows nothing more chaste—has never known the mortal love more young and holy, than the transient affection of a young virgin's soul.

She Never Leaves Him.

Look at the career of man as he passes through the world; of man, visited by misfortune; of man, left by his fellow-men; of man, who has seen his affections unrequited and alone!

THE LOVES OF THE MOAS.

Let us first sketch the history of the lion's life, beginning with his marriage, which takes place toward the end of January.

Our Country—May it Always be Right—But Wrong, Our Country.

From the Westminster Review. THE LOVES OF THE MOAS.

From the Westminster Review. THE LOVES OF THE MOAS.

Our White Dove.

A friend forwards us the following story drawn from fact, which, as it happened a few years since, during one of those stormy seasons...

Tribute to Printers.

The chaplain of the New Hampshire Penitentiary, in reviewing the events of his life since his connection with that institution, pays the following compliment to journeymen printers...

De Quincy, the Opium Chewer.

It is related, as an instance of De Quincy's carelessness in money matters, that having been arrested for a debt of twenty pounds, he was dragged to jail, where he remained for two weeks.

Wearing Jewels.—Female Loveliness.

WEARING JEWELS.—Female Loveliness never appears to so great advantage as when set off with simplicity of dress.

Orisental Extract.

From the interesting letters of the Eastern correspondent of the National Intelligencer, we extract the following remarks, gathered during a brief visit to the Metropolis of the Ottoman Empire.

A Railway Romance.

A singular affair occurred on the West Valley Railway (Durham, England) other than a gentleman from Birmingham found himself seated in a first class carriage, his wife and the only other passenger in that compartment.

Our White Dove.

A friend forwards us the following story drawn from fact, which, as it happened a few years since, during one of those stormy seasons...

Tribute to Printers.

The chaplain of the New Hampshire Penitentiary, in reviewing the events of his life since his connection with that institution, pays the following compliment to journeymen printers...

De Quincy, the Opium Chewer.

It is related, as an instance of De Quincy's carelessness in money matters, that having been arrested for a debt of twenty pounds, he was dragged to jail, where he remained for two weeks.

Wearing Jewels.—Female Loveliness.

WEARING JEWELS.—Female Loveliness never appears to so great advantage as when set off with simplicity of dress.

Orisental Extract.

From the interesting letters of the Eastern correspondent of the National Intelligencer, we extract the following remarks, gathered during a brief visit to the Metropolis of the Ottoman Empire.

A Railway Romance.

A singular affair occurred on the West Valley Railway (Durham, England) other than a gentleman from Birmingham found himself seated in a first class carriage, his wife and the only other passenger in that compartment.

Our White Dove.

A friend forwards us the following story drawn from fact, which, as it happened a few years since, during one of those stormy seasons...

Tribute to Printers.

The chaplain of the New Hampshire Penitentiary, in reviewing the events of his life since his connection with that institution, pays the following compliment to journeymen printers...

De Quincy, the Opium Chewer.

It is related, as an instance of De Quincy's carelessness in money matters, that having been arrested for a debt of twenty pounds, he was dragged to jail, where he remained for two weeks.

Wearing Jewels.—Female Loveliness.

WEARING JEWELS.—Female Loveliness never appears to so great advantage as when set off with simplicity of dress.

Orisental Extract.

From the interesting letters of the Eastern correspondent of the National Intelligencer, we extract the following remarks, gathered during a brief visit to the Metropolis of the Ottoman Empire.

A Railway Romance.

A singular affair occurred on the West Valley Railway (Durham, England) other than a gentleman from Birmingham found himself seated in a first class carriage, his wife and the only other passenger in that compartment.

Our White Dove.

A friend forwards us the following story drawn from fact, which, as it happened a few years since, during one of those stormy seasons...

Tribute to Printers.

The chaplain of the New Hampshire Penitentiary, in reviewing the events of his life since his connection with that institution, pays the following compliment to journeymen printers...

De Quincy, the Opium Chewer.

It is related, as an instance of De Quincy's carelessness in money matters, that having been arrested for a debt of twenty pounds, he was dragged to jail, where he remained for two weeks.

Wearing Jewels.—Female Loveliness.

WEARING JEWELS.—Female Loveliness never appears to so great advantage as when set off with simplicity of dress.

SHE DIDN'T WANT JEWELS.

A gentleman was lately seen making long visits at the palace of the Champe Elysees, but it was not to examine the productions of his own industry, nor to gather up any amount of money which are always taking place in the crowd.

The Exhibition of Industry seemed to him to be a good occasion and an excellent field to make this trial. To the palace in the Champe Elysees he went to make his observations, which he kept up day after day.

Thousands of young ladies expressing themselves thus, showing their own vanity, their coquetry, came before him, and every evening as he quitted his post, passive and melancholy, he said with a sigh: "They are all the same; I must still remain a bachelor."

Words of Truth and Sobriety.—There is at this time such a vast field of education, that it is really refreshing to come across an article like the following, which we clip from a late number of Life Illustrations.

Wasn't Much on Figgers. An old woman keeping a so-called "cook-house," was one day accosted by a wag who said: "How do you like these oranges?"

As "ONCE AGAIN."—An old acquaintance of ours in the country indulges in a very elegant style of description and illustration, in his ordinary conversation.