late, to recede from the perilous position in Marion Hall Against the World hate, to recede from the periods position in which you now stand; I appeal once more to your reason and patriculum. I ask you in the name of our common country, in the name of the Constitution and of the Union, to desist from this rebellion. I appeal once more to your love of country, to your regard for its peace, prosperity and reputation, to your affection for your wives and children, and to all those patriotic motives which ought to influence American citizens, to abandon this contemplated revolution. If you have wrongs across them, through the peaceful instrumento influence American citizens, to hombor his contemplated revolution. If you have wrongs redress them through the peaceful instrumentality of the ballot-box, in the mode prescribed by the laws of your country.

As all arguments heretofore so often addressed by me to you, have failed as yet to produce any effect upon you. I have deemed it necessary for your own safety, and that of the Territory, and to save you from the perilous consequences of your own acts, under the authority vested in me by the President of the United States, to order an adequate force of the troops of the United States into your immediate vicinage, to perform the painful duty of arresting your revolutionary proceedings. Let me implore your not to compel me to appeal to that military power which is required in the last resort, to protect the government of your country. You cannot carry your rebellious purposes into effect without coming into unavoidable and open conflict, with the troops and government of the United States.

Let me adjury you, then, once more, to abandal the progression of the present of the convention of the present of the process.

and open connect, with the troops and governinent of the United States.

Let me adjure you, then, once more, to abandon these proceedings before you involve yourselves in the crime of treason, and subject the people of the city of Lawrence to all the horrors and calamities of insurrection and civil war.

If you will now desist from this projected revoaution, the past will be forgotten as far as practicable; but if you persist in passing these taws and carrying them into execution, thus defying and superseding the government of your country, the deplorable consequences must be upon your heads and those of your associates. It will be my purpose, if you still persist, to spare all bloodshed as far as practicable, and subject the leaders and projectors of sist, to spare all bloodshed as far as gracticalike, and subject the leaders and projectors of this revolutionary momement to the punishment prescribed by law. I will accompany the troops to Lawrence with a view to prevent, if possible, any conflict, and in the sincere hope that the revolutionary movement contemplated by you, and now so nearly accomplished, will, ere it is too late, be abandoned by you.

If you can be influenced by no other motives, the evident fact that the power of the government is adequate to prevent the accomplishment of your purpose, should induce you to desist from these proceedings.

That the same overruling Providence who holds in his hands the destiny of our beloved country may now incline your hearts to peace, and influence you to abandon this fatal enterprise, is the sincere wish of your fellow-citizen.

R. J. WALKER,

Governor of Kansa Territory.

The Kensus Constitution. The Louisville Democrat, thus speaks of the Kansas Constitution, and we are sure its re-

men:

As to submitting the Constitution to the peol ple after it is made, that—mark it—will be done, and it is idle to oppose it. The pro-slavery men in Kansas will insist upon it. We wenture to say that no delegate is elected, who did not promise to submit his work to the popular vote before it was presented to Congress. It is rather late in the day to expect a generous confidence to be carried so far by the voters of any State or Territory, as to induce them to take work of a Convention, without a chance to examine it before it is fixed upon them as their organic law. A Constitution is rather too important to justify such confidence. If the Convention should, perchance, make an anti-slavery Constitution, after all, these men would change their opinions, and demand its submission to the people. We hold that the submission of the Constitution after it is made, to the popular vote is right and proper. It is a necessity. Delegates cannot be elected to form a Constitution, by any party, who do not promes to submit their work to a popular vote.
