Senator Bigler's Speech.

We publish on our first page, a full report of the able and argumentative speech recently delivered by Senator Bigler, at Clarion. To use the language of the Pittsburg Union, "It is a clear, manly, and conclusive answer to the positions assumed by Judge Wilmot, and shows the fanatical and impracticable character of the appeal which he is now making to the people of Pennsylvania. Whether Wilmot has gained anything by inviting Senator Bigler into the contest by his frequent allusions to his political course remains to be seen. In our humble opinion, he would have done better to let it alone. The efforts of the republican candidate to make capital out of the slavery question in a gubernatorial canvass are falling lifeless. He has utterly failed, thus far in his course, to produce a solitary demonstration of enthusiasm.—The people of Pennsylvania are mostly practical thinkers, and they regard the single speech of Wilmot as a ridiculous attempt to revive an exploded issue for the purpose of effecting his own election to office."

The following sketch of Hon: Stephen A louglas, by the editor of a Republic the Newburyport (Mass) Herald, is graphic and amusing. It appears that he was a pas-senger with Judge Douglas on a trip in the cars from St. Louis to Chicago, at the close of the celebration of the opening of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad in June last :

They did under stand, and then voted as their judgment dictated. We supposed, and the people believed, the question had been settled at the polls, and that the verdict they had rendered had decided it forever. It was admitted by all that to continue the discussion after the people had passed judgment upon it, would be unwise as it would be useless. For several months after the election, the opponents of democracy remained passivo. They had been defeated, and, as all were led to believe, their principles defeated with thom. They had fought the battle (upon issues presented by themselves,) and had lost it.—Why, then, we ask once more, do our opponents desire to fight the contest over again?

Instead of discussing the subject of slavery in the territorios, let Mr. Wilmor define his poposition in regard to State affairs. Yesterday was a day of great excitement and nuch disappointment to many in New York. Preparations had been made to present Geneal Jackson's gold snuff-box to Major Dyckman, and Andrew Jackson, Jr., had come on with the relic; but during the morning, owing to the opposition of Col. Burnett's friends to the award of the committee, he addressed the Committee a letter positively delining to give up the legacy of his father, until the public shall decide with greater unanimity who has been the most valiant in the defence of his country. It was said that Mr. Jackson would start for his home yesterday afternoon, with the box in his possession. He called upon the Mayor, with Councilman Van Tine, at 10 o'clock, and the following letter was promul-

It is truly gratifying to know that the work goes bravely on in this county. Our party here is in a perfectly healthy condition. Gen. Packer will receive the united and cordial support of the Democracy from the Round Top to the Susquehanna. The County Ticket is equally well received and will be triumphantly elected. The opposition papers are doing their very best—putting in their "biggest licks"—to infuse a little hope in their disprited ranks, but it is utterly unavailing. They are perfectly satisfied that they left not a stone unturned, nor a duty unperformed last fall, and yet they were defeated. They are conscious that ins cad of gaining strength since then there has been a considerable falling off from their party. All their boasting and bragging of their journals cannot convince them that it is otherwise.—
The abuse of our candidates cannot do it.— The abuse of our candidates cannot do it.— Falschood and defamation are tutile. The decree of the people has gone forth and the tri-umph of the Democracy is inevitable.—Perry County Democrat.
