

THE OCAST.
BY MISS M. RYAN.
The Sun is hidden in the west,
The northern blast is keen and cold; While in my room my garments are Laid out in vain for me and rest—Men sell their charity for gold.
I shiver in the chilling blast
And sadly wander up and down, While men of wealth, who hurry past,
A scornful look upon me cast,
And all they give me is a frown.
The true, I'm old and weak and poor,
My garments too are worn and thin;
My feeble frame can scarce endure
The pangs of want, but I am poor, And none will take the wanderer in.
I paused before your stately dome
And meekly craved a crust of bread;
But ah! from out that gorgeous home,
A servant came, who said me begone,
With curses on my aged head.
With home and friends I once was blest
And fortune, fair but flitting dame,
Her lavish gifts upon me pressed,
While honor sat, with lofty crest,
Upon my high reputed name.
Then while I lived in pomp and pride,
My officers filled with shining gold,
My friends were always at my side,
And gathered round on every odd—
'Ab! then I was not poor and old.
But why recall the buried past,
Or all my cares and troubles tell?
Misfortune, like a chilling blast, Swept o'er my home and I was cast A pensioner on the world to dwell.
The friends who crowded round me then,
Now spurn me from them as a pest;
I ask relief, but seek in vain for them,
They sell their charity for gold.
And yet I suffer not alone, There's many more who cry for bread;
The muffled piper, the dying groan,
All tell of life's misery.
Oh God! do thou in mercy give The gifts our fellows sorely need, Supply our wants, our cares relieve,
When life is o'er our souls receive
To dwell within thy heavenly fold.
Uses of Adversity.—It teaches us not to trust in uncertain riches which make them selves wings and fly away." It throws men upon their own resources, and thus elicits talent and genius, which also had been observed or buried. It awakens sympathy not felt before.
It creates more energetic and better men, It makes the idle industrious, and the spendthrift economical; the mere consumer becomes a producer, and thus moral and physical health is promoted. It has been observed that those also are disclosed by adversity; its possessor being qualified thereby for various pursuits, is not cast down nor destroyed. He gathers up the hidden treasures of his mind, his energy, his spirited energies thus brought into requisition, smiles upon his misfortunes, and makes them a capital upon which he builds a new fortune more lasting and more secure than any other he could have. And if this result happens to some and not to others, there are consolations which are accessible to all—they are found in humble submission to the will of Him, who in his hands and control the destinies of all men.
After all, the last is the best use of adversity.
WHY TUSCALOOSA ALWAYS VOTED AGAINST GEN. JACKSON.—Old Hickory crossed the border river at the close of a campaign at Carthage in Tuscaloosa county. There he halted and rested for the recruit and refreshment of the sick and wounded for a few days. The citizens of Tuscaloosa, then a small village, got upon their feet, and in a moment the deputation of militia officers, armed cap-a-pie went to Carthage to extend the invitation to Jackson. They found him busy, on foot, near the main road, dismounted, and with well set phrases, their speakers invited him to get up "For how many hours have you made provision?"
asked Jackson. "For all my men."
"No only for yours and officers?"
"Then," replied the old hero, "I, nor officer of mine will eat a dinner not provided for all my men." Then turning on his heel abruptly, he left them.
The poor militia men were sadly discoranted and mortified at the rebuff. But worse was in store for them. A quarter-master, or his assistant, had been selected from the ranks of the delegation, and claimed them for public service. Furious, they appealed to the General.
He declined interfering; other men's horse were taken, why not theirs? was suggested.
The militia then went on, and were informed that the militia were to be furnished with meat for their march in the hot and dusty weather.
No conveyance, however, could be had. The generals, colonels, majors, of the Tuscaloosa militia, walked to Tuscaloosa.
"And that is the reason," naively said my informant, "why Tuscaloosa always voted against the old General.—Mobile Mercury."

McEneaney's Celebrated LIQUID GLUE
THE GREAT ADHESIVE.
Most useful article ever invented, for house, store and office, surpassing in utility every other glue, gum, mastic, or paste of animal or vegetable origin.
ALWAYS ready for application; adhesive on paper, cloth, leather, furniture, porcelain, china, glass, marble or brass.
For manufacturing Fancy Articles, Toys, &c., it has no superior, not only possessing greater strength than any other glue, but also being more quickly dried, leaving no stain where the parts are joined. NEVER FAILS.
Within the last three years upwards of 2,500, 000 bottles of this glue have been sold in every part of the United States, and the great convenience which it has proved in every case, has deservedly secured for it a demand which the manufacturer found it, at times, difficult to meet; and he thinks it well to be able to please every variety of taste, at such low prices as were never offered before in Carlsruhe.
Agents wanted in every town in the United $500 Reward—Great Race.

THE great race between the Clothing Stores of Carlisle, resulted in the complete triumph of the lowest bidder, at 60 cents. The store room lately occupied by Wise & Campbell, corner of North Hanover and Louthier sts.
It is now conceded by all and every one that they stand unparalelled among the clothing dealers in Carlisle, having succeeded in convincing their friends, that they can sell Clothing cheap and get up, according to the latest styles, from 20 to 25 per cent. cheaper than any other house is possible to furnish them for the winter season.
They are now having a large and splendid assortment of Ready-made Clothing.
Furnishing Goods, Cloth, Cassimeres and Vestings, Also, Hats and Caps, and every thing in their line for Men and Boys. Their materials were selected with the greatest care, purchased at the lowest cash prices, and at such houses only, who never deal in anything like auction trash. Their friends may therefore rest assured that articles purchased of them will and must give satisfaction. Clothing made at the shortest notice in the most fashionable style, and for that purpose secured the services of an experienced Cutter, and laid in a splendid assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, &c., which for beauty and durability cannot be surpassed.
To the citizens of the surrounding country we would say, give us a fair trial. All we ask is a fair look at our stock and we will not fail to convince you that our Clothing is better made, of better quality, and at a lower price, than you can get elsewhere. Also, a large lot of Trunks, Carpet Bags, Umbrellas, &c.
We have in store for all of you
OF AN OLD STORE you shall hear Let talking drums and cannon roar Proclaim the news from shore to shore Great bargains now for all of you Rare waders then we now will sing At first we'll speak of CLOTHING rare, Such trophies, sure will make you stare,
We have bargains now for all of you
The Gents will our compliments receive,
And call they must the wonders to believe.
In Pants we have all kinds of styles,
One dollar and upwards, right on rails.
In Summer Goods—for soon 'twill come—
'Twill give you bargains all for fun.
Frocks and Over-coats so very fine,
Great waders now for all of you line, Hosiery, Suspender, Under-shirts for all,
All kinds of Gloves to please all who call.
But we cannot stop to enumerate,
We have bargains now for all of you great.
Our stock too in the Furnishing line Is plentiful, cheap and fine.
