The great point in the treatment of all human mala-dies is to get at the disease in the direct mannor. All medicines are estimated by their action upon the organ requiring relief. This is the important fact upon which Inhalation is based. If the stomach is diseased we take median distributed in the stomach of the stomach is diseased we take median distributed in the stomach of the stomach is diseased we take median distributed in the stomach of the stomach is diseased we take median distributed in the stomach of the stomach is diseased we take median distributed in the stomach of the stomach based. If the stomach is diseased we take medicine directly into the stomach. If the lungs are diseased, preather or inhale medicated values are the lungs. Medicines are the pors directly into the lungs. Medicines are the autidotes to disease and should be applied to the very seat of disease. Inhalation is the application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, for it gives us direct access to those air cells and tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of administering medicines. The reason that Consumption, and other diseases of the lungs have heretofore resisted all treatment has been been because they had never been approached in a direct manner They were intended to act upon by medicine. They were intended to act upon the lungs and yet were applied to the stomach. Their action was intended to be local, and yet they were so administered that they should act constitutionally, expending immediate and principal action upon the unoffending stomach, whilst the foul incers within the lungs were unmolested. Inhalation brings the medicine in direct contact with the disease, without the dis-anvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simple that it can be employed by the youngest infant or feeblest invalid. It does
