LITTLE BY LITTLE.

"Little by little," as an acorn said. As it slowly sank in its mossy bed ; "I am improving every day, Hidden deep in the earth away." Little by little cach day it grow; Little by little it sipped the dew Downward it sent out a thread-like root : Up in the air sprung a tiny shoot. Day after day, and year after dear, Little by little, the leaves appear; And the slender branches spread far and wide, Till the mighty oak is the forest's pride.

Far down in the depths of the dark blue sea An insect train work ceasely; Grain by grain, they are building well, Each one alone in its little cell. Moment by moment, and day by day, Never stopping to rest, or to play. Rocks upon rocks they are rearing high, Till the top looks out on the sunny sky; The gentle wind and the halmy air Little by little, bring verdure there ; Till the summer sunbeams gayly smile On the buds and flowers of the coral isle.

"Little by little," said a thoughtful boy, "Moment by moment, I'll well employ, Learning a little overy day, And not spending all my time in play. And still this rule in my mind shall dwell, "Whatover I do, I will do it well." Little by little, I'll learn to know The treasured wisdom of long ago; And one of these days perhaps we'll see That the world will be better for me." And do not you think that this simple plan Made him a wise and a useful man?

Stratagem.

Three ragged, wretched topers stood shivering upon a street corner. They had not a pen-ny between them, and neither had drank a drop within half an hour. They debated th deeply interesting question-how to obtain the next glass of grog. After much miserable muttering over the poverty of the times, and many ticable suggestions, one of them saidshop and drink."

"Drink !" replied his companions ; "that's ensily said; but whose to pay ?" "Nobody. Do as I tell you. I'll take the responsibility." Following the speaker's directions, his two companions entered an adjoining runmery and called for whiskey skins. The place was kept by a Dutchman. After he had waited on his Wash Hair Invigorators, and Hair Dye. man movements. Some of the old ladies had their olive branches in their lips, and appeared to be 'doing their hair,' while a partiarchal looking old fellow paced backwards and for-wards, with a fussy sort of look; he was evi-dantly on sentry, and seemed to think himself of no small importance. This estimate of his dignity did not appear to be universally acknow ledged, as two or three young baboers at close times, with the most grotesque movements and expressions, they would stand directly in his path, and hobble away only at the last moment. One daring youngster followed close on the look state and a set on the last moment. path, and hobble away only at the last moment. And if the Federal Government should interfere to prevent them from changing their Constitution, they would be justified and sustained in resisting that Government by force of arms."

MAPLE SUGAR .- Already the papers are call. ing the attention of farmers and others to the important and profitable business of making maple sugar. Last year the amount made had the effect of reducing the price of cane sugar. As the maple is known to be more healthy and when made into molasses more palatable than that from cane, all who have the means of producing it, should give early attention to this variety. branch of spring labor.

A BEAURIFUL EXTRACT .- There lies in the depth of every heart that dream of youth and the chastened wish of manhood, which cares nor honors can ever extinguish—the hope of one day resting from the pursuits which absorb us; of interposing between old ago and the tomb, some tranquil interval of reflection, when, with feelings not subdued, but softened; with passions not exhausted but mellowed, we may look my on the past without regret, and on the goods in common use. future without apprehension.
