The Great Maryland Black Cat Case.

This wemendous case is now pending before * a judicial tribunal of the State of Maryland, and presents' many remarkable features of the inge-nuity and speculative capacity of the detendant in the case. For the benefit of the legal proin the case. For the benefit of the logar has Sussion and gentlemen generally who may wish to enter a new field of speculation, I will give short history of the case as I heard it.

Some few years ago a gentleman of Maryland conceived the idea that an immense fortune could be realized by the rearing of black cats for the sake of their skins. The principal obacle to the plan was the impossibility of keeping the animals together and preventing them from wandering off, as their activity, assisted by the penetrating qualities of their claws, would enable them to defy any enclosure; and at last, after much thinking, the idea suggested itself to his mind that water was the only barrier that the cats could not pass. Being in possession of an island that appeared to be just suited for the experiment, he found all obstacles to the success of his plan removed, and set about organizing the affair

He employed an agent, and put out a circular, in which he stated that he would give so much a head for every black cat that could be got.-This advertisement was circulated through all the counties bordering upon the Chesapeake Bay, and the negross got hold of it. In a very short time all the black cats through those counties were stolen by the negroes and sold to the agent, who had depots established at different convenient points. Old ladies missed their favorite cats, and mourned them as dead-but the negroes, incited by the price offered, spared none. In this way one hundred and fifty black cats were collected and transported to the is-hand; and the agent took up his abode there like another Robinson Crusoe, as superintendent and guardian of the cats. Those animals appeared to onjoy themselves vastly when first put on the island, and spent their time in citheir playing with each other, or hunting birds or ground mice; but at last their game failed them, and, having no other supply of "food, they became hungry and desperate, and roamed about the is-land in large bands, yelling for food. They at Last became dangerous, and the agent wrote to his employer a statement of these facts, accom-panied by a request to know how he was to feed them. He wrote back for the agent to set a couple of negroes to work to catch and open oysters for the cats, which order was carried out. The cats, having the alternative of oysters or starvation before them, very naturally chose the former; but, not being accustomed to such unnatural food, a species of cholera broke out amongst them, and one-half died.

calamity drove the survivors mad, and they either committed suicide, or, in a fit of desperation, swam to the main land. At any rate, they disappeared, and were nover heard of The agent then wrote again to his employer to acquaint him with the result of this new treat ment, which news was accompanied by a mod-est request for the payment of his wages--for this cat experiment occupied a space of upwards of a year. The latter was so indignant at the conduct of both the agent and the cats that he fatly refused, and the consequence of his refu-sal was a suit brought by the agent to recover his wages. This suit has been defended for some two years, and during its progress I have become acquainted with the facts.

As far as the theory of the speculation went, twas a magnificent idea. The skin of the black cat is worth in Boston 50 cents. The cats, I am told, cost the agent just that sum. It was supposed that they would increase exactly ten fold per annum. Then say, first year, num-ber of cats, 150; second year, 1,600; third year, 15,000; from which there could be ob-latined 5,000 tons for sale, bringing $2,500, and logales $10,000 tons for sale, bringing $2,500, and leaving $10,000 stock cats remaining, which, at the above ratio of increase, would give the fourth year the enormous sum of 100,000 cats upon the island, after which all the surplus, over and above the last number were to be caught in box traps and the skins sold to the Boston furriers. This stock of 100,000 cits were to produce 1,000,000 per annum, and the revenue consequently to be derived from the 'sland would be in the neighborhood of $500, 000 per annum.

The principal drawback to the enterprise was the uttor inability of the cats to organize or the original sottlers into large hunting paralse or sub states wall the mit o large hunting paralse or source or source of the mit of large hunting paralse or source of the sources will be brought to bear in organizing the original sottlers into large hunting packs— and thus enable them to successfully pursue the sources of the source of the sources of the source of the sources of the source of the sources o and thus enable them to successfully pursue the Buttons, &c., &c., squirrels and ground mice with which the island,
