Twenty Years Ago.

- I met a girl the other day The image of a nymph I loved Some twenty years ago.
- The blushing cheek, the sparkling eye, The hair of raven flow—

 Ah, how they set my heart a-blaze

 Some twenty years ago.
- I spoke—her answer did not much Of wither wisdom show— But thus the lovely Mary talked Some twenty years ago.
- What! could a shallow heart like this My heart in tumult throw? I must have been a little green
- Some twenty years ago. I met the lovely Mary since—T Her charms have vanished though— Her wit and wisdom are-the same
- As twenty years ago. Fond boy! who now wouldst gladly die To please some simpering Miss— Who knows but thou wilt think of her,

Some twenty years from this! Has Anybody Seen Sam?

Has any one seen him, sure enough? We are in carnest in this inquiry. The "lusty young giant" of three years since; that miraculous young man whose clothes were made of star spangled banners; who took exclusive possesion of our national fowl, and was wont to take his ride upon the back of that great bird—where is he? He used to be "around," and we received weekly notifications of the where-abouts of his "footprints," but now alas! we see nothing about "Sam? in any of the "intense American" prints. Miraculous young orators, who, three years ago, were wont to "stir up the great American heart" with their culogies of "Sam," are now as silent as the culogies of "Sam," are now as silent as the harp which is supposed to be hanging on Tara's walls. "O no, they never mention him!" Where is Sam? That remarkable young man who essayed to rule America! who had such a fear for the pope and Catholic school marms, who was so great on Smelling Committees and Washington Monuments—has anybody seen him? Will none of those old fogies who so suddenly discovered "Sam?" was the boy for their money; who believed that the office should seek the man, and who had their eves opened eck the man, and who had their eyes opened all of a sudden to the new and startling doc-trine that Americans should rule America; will none of these old gendames tell us the present locality of the young giant? He can't be dead for there is abundant testimony that he is immortal. Didn't Garret Davis says so and don't Garrett know? Don't the Louisville Journal say so? and who can gainsay what appears in the Louisville Journal? He can't be dead.— Oh, no. He has a great work to perform yet. He has to change the naturalization laws, elect Mr. Filmore President, suppress popery, put Americans on guard, and rule America. Garrett Davis and the Louisville Journal, said Sam would do this and Sam will do it or burst. But the question comes up again, where is Sam?— Is he sleeping? Has he gone North to see his brudder Sambo? or is he unwell himself? Has arry borry seen him?-Frankfort (Ky.) Yeo-

Perseverance.

Of all men, give us the thorough go ahead Anglo Saxon, whom no difficulties can subdue, no failure dishearten. It is the mark of a weak mind to despair. Had Wellington, at Waterloo, or Taylor, at Buena Vista, fallen back, as many other commanders would have done, the day would have been lost; but they had that indomitable perseverance so characteristic of the true Anglo Saxon, and keeping their ground won victory. "Hard pounding, this," said Wellington, as he threw himself into a square to escape a charge of the French curassicurs, "hard pounding, this, but we will see who can pound the longest." "Fall back-never," exclaimed General Taylor, when, as the column of Mexicans five thousand strong came on, it was proposed that the artillery should take up of Mexichns five thousand strong came on, it was proposed that the artillery should take up a new position, "never! but give them a little more grape, Captain Bragg." In those heroic words we see the secret of success on the part of both these great commanders. So, in ordinary life, it is the man of dogged resolutions who wins the day. One of our wealthiest merchants was once surrounded with difficulties from the surrounded with difficulties from was once surrounded with difficulties from Sewing Silks, Patent Thread and Spool Cotton; had contemplated insolvency, and had his spirits qualled an instant, he would have gone down to an irretrievable ruin; but he kept a firm front, rallied all his resources, and went thro' the terrible crisis with flying colors. Never despair, young man! There is always hope. Weak men are subdued by occasions, says celebrated writer, but great men conquer them. on examination, speak for themselves. Memorable words! We may say of life what Byron said of liberty:

"For freedom's battle once begun, Bequeathed from bleeding sire to son Though baffled oft, is never won."

A large Elk passed through Tunkhannock, Pa, one day last week, destined for Philadelphia, where, we understand, it had been sold for the sum of $1000. The owner represented its weight at six hundred pounds, (nearly as heavy as a small horse,) and would trot a gress, and Fine Cut Tobacco and Snuff, the best mile in two minutes and a half. It was broke to the harness, and would drive well in a buggy. We learn it was taken from the wilds of Nebraska, and is only two years old.

WEALTHY EDITORS.—New York editors are not the only rich editors in the country. Kendall, of the N. O. Mr. Joseph E. Hoover—A trial of your Liquid Air. Joseph E. Hoover—A trial of your Liquid Hair Dye will convince the most skeptical, that it is a safe, elegant, and efficacious preparation. Unlike many others, it has in several instances proved serviceable in the cure of some entances cus eruptions on the head, and I have no hesi-tation in commending it to those requiring such an application. Very respectfully,

J. F. X. McCLOSKEY, M. D.
