Within the last two or three years Sir Frederic Thesiger (now Lord Chancellor Chelmsford) made terms, in court, for a client, contrary to her desire and her interest, and without her immediate knowledge. She had the court moved on the ground of her non consent, a new trial was granted, and the verdict was for the ful amount she had originally claimed, and which her counsel, Thesiger, had talked away from her, probably from laziness. Our Next Congressman.

Mr. Editor-It seems to us, since the inquiry has gone forth, that there is but one sentimen has gone form, that there is out one semificient in reference to the re-nomination of Hon. John A. Ant, for Congress. Now, we think Perry should yield to Cumberland, if from no other consideration, she ought to do it as a debt of grafitude, when she recollects the base and un feeling persecution conducted against J. ELLIS BONHAM, as pure a man as ever the sun shone upon. This man was taken from us in the prime and vigor of life, but not without having first obtained a place in the heart of every true Ame obtained a place in the heart of every true Ame-rican citizen. He was firm to the last, contend-ing for the principle of "perfect political equal-ity of all men, the absolute right of every man to be guided by his own pleasure and judgment, so long as he transgressed no law, and his equal claim to a fair participation in the enactment and repeal of overy law." Many who, professed to be his friends and to be united, to him by friendship and principle, were secretly weaving snares to destroy him:--orsalten as he was by many, he found a friend Jonn A. Ant, with sufficient courage and ottimess of soul, not merely to give assent, but the success of as wild a political fanaticism as that which characterized the disciples of Robescirre. Much as we respect the rights of Per perror. In then as we respect the rights of Fer-ry, we ask, are there on good reasons why she should not yield to Cumberland? We might offur many reasons, but let one suffice. When Democracy and despoism met face to face, ready for a desporate and dreadful struggle, who
