Superstition in Abyssinia.

Mr. Pierce, in his Residence in Abyssinia, says: "I cannot help adverting to a practice which is not unfrequent, but which might appear fabulous to any one who has not witnessed it. When a woman has one who has not witnessed it. When a woman has had one, two, or more children, and they have all died, she will, in hopes of saving the life of another, just born, cut off a piece from the tip of the left en, roll it up in a piece of bread, and swallow it; and others will keep one side of the head shaved until the child is grown up. For some time I was at a loss to conjecture the reason why a number of grown pieple of my acquaintance had one car ent; and when told the truth, I could scarcely believe it un-til T went, into the house of a neighbor, though contil I went into the house of a neighbor, though con that were into the notion, purposely to see the operation An old woman cut of the tip of the car, and put in-to a kind of victual called "sherro," when the mother of the infant opened her mouth to receive it and swallowed it, pronouncing the words, "In the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.""

Old Time Winter Scenes.

The old red sleigh with its long box that never was full, for down in the straw wrapped in the robes, or on one or another of the four seats it contained, there was always room for one more. What a group of bright, young faces there used to be in it! Faces in hoods, in caps and in blankets; hearts that have loved since; hearts that have been broken: hearts that have mouldered. And away we went over the hill, and through the vale, under the moonlight, and under the vale, out-der the moonlight, and under the cloud, when the stars were looking down; when the sun kindled the world into a great white jewel; but those days have gone forever away; and the sweet old necklace of bells, big in the middle of the string, and growing small by de-grees, has lost its power over the pulses. In that old sleigh brides have gone away before now-those that were married to man hood, those that were married unto death. Great ships have gone over the waters with less of hope and happiness than that rude craft has born over the billows of winter; swan-like shapes now glance along the arrowy way; but give us, for its sweet memories of Yesterday, the old red sleigh. Then, the days when we were "coasters;" and down the big hill, by the maple wood, through the little pitches, far into the valley we came with merry shout, each the solitary Palinurus of his own small craft. How like a flock of swallows we were, dashing down the declivity, in among a group of sleds, side side with a rival, shooting by like an arrow, steering in gallant ahead like a jockey, and on our way up with a sled in tow, ere the par-ty had reached the valley below.

And then it was, when the wind had swept away the snow from the pond and stream, and the ice was glair, that we put on the "rock-ers," and darted hither and thither, and cut sixes and eights, and curves without number, and drew the girls that we loved, and whirled them like leaves over the highway of crystal.

And the schools where we spelt each other down, and the schools where we sang Windham and Mear, and the schools where we ciphered and wrote, and "went up;" gone, all gone, teacher and taught, like the melting snows under the rainbows of of April.

A. MAMMOTH FROG .- In blasting some rocks, latoly, in England which the geologists say were depos-ited long before the creation of man, the bones of a frog were found, which must have weighed, when alive, from 800 to 1000 lbs.
