his footman. Now that is the bright side of our your stage-driver: why must there be two sides to everything? Before the party halted, after the first days journey, the jaded horses thought they had gone as far as profitable and it was contrary to their sense of right that they were pressed on. Our hero on the box coaxed whistled, patted, and at last whipped them, but still they dragged heavily on; when at length, losing all patience, the pleasant sounds that had cheered the insiders were changed. There did not seem to be passion in his tones, but having tried all other motives to speed, the driver now began to swear, as if profanity could impel forward a worn-out horse. "God," and "Jesus," that "dearest of all names above," were repeated with shocking frequency and carelessness. Some of the passengers were unmoved, but others could say with the prophet, "The reproaches of them that reproached Thee, fell on me."

Among the passengers was an aged minister. He said nothing at the time, but when they stopped for the night he made himself quite familiar with the young driver; asking him questions about his business and his horses, manifesting an interest in all that he found interested him.

When ready to start at break of day, he asked permission to sit on the box, that he might see the country and talk with him, "For," said he, "I'm very fond of the company of young men." This familiarity and condescension completely won the heart of honest John; and in the kindest manner he gave all the information in his power to the old gentleman.

"You're a minister, are you?" he asked, after a little while. "Yes, my friend, I am a Baptist minister.

"A Baptist minister, are you?" he cried; why my mother's a Baptist; and when I get home I'll tell her about you;" and strong filial love beamed in his eye "Then your mother is a Baptist; is she good woman?" asked the old man.

"Indeed she is sir," replied the affectionate son; "I owe her everything. I don't know a single thing which she did not teach me."

"Are you sure of that my young friend?"
"Yes, sir, for my father died when I was yery small, and left us very poor. We were three or four miles from a school, and as I was her all, sir, she couldn't trust me so far from her all day. So she taught me at home till we moved away from there; and then I was old enough to go to work. Yes, sir, I will tell it to her credit; she taught me all I "Did she teach you to swear, my son?" cried the old gentleman, in a stentorian voice, and clapping his hands heavily on the driver's shoulder, "Tell me, did your mother teach you to swear?" The youth looked thunder-struck. He colored deeply and hung his head in silence.

"Come my son," said the minister, "you have told me that your mother was a Baptist; I want to know whether she is the right kind of a Baptist or not; did she teach you to

The young driver looked up. There was none of that dogged insolence which we sometimes see in persons who have been justly reproved; no look of defiance, which said plain as words could say, "I can swear if ] lease. I'm my own master, and it is not you in his sin he showed the gentle touches of that humble mother's moulding hand.

"I'm mortified, sir," he said, that you teard me swear last night to my horses. I not swear in her hearing."

"And yet you can do so in the hearing of the God you insult, of the Saviour who died for you!" replied the old man. "God forgive the child of a praying mother for such impi-ety!"

"Sir, I declare, with His help, that you have heard my last oath," said the young man deeply moved.
"When I left my daughter's house," said the Minister, she put a noble great loaf of fruit-cake in my trunk. THE WORK TO BE DONE .- In order to achieve the triumph that awaits the Democratic party in 1860, many things are requisite, which should at once engage the attention of every true Democrat. These are well summed up by the Boston Post, as follows:

F. Kindly feeling and a conciliatory policy towards those who have hitherto been separated from us rather by diversities of organization, or of personal preference, than by radical antagonism of ideas and purposes. Early and universal organization, by States.

counties, townships and villages, or election districts, under the lead of men of worth and 3. Prompt, persistent efforts by each organization to impel kindred organizations in every neighboring county or township, but especial-ity in those where we have hitherto been weak. 4. The systematic and universal circulation and diffusion of Democratic newspapers and

5. Seasonable and effective precautions a gainst frauds on the ballot-box, especially in districts where our adversaries have an overwhelming preponderance.

OUGHT MARRIED PEOPLE TO SLEEP TOGETHER -Hall's Journal of Health, which claims to be high authority in medical science, has taken a stand against married people sleeping togeter, but thinks they had better sleep in adjoining rooms.
