Political Lecture by a Pious Wife. The following we find in the Buffalo Republic, and as there are Wide Awakes in this town old enough to have wives, perhaps they may read the lecture with profit:

Scene-In bed; face to the wall; strong smell of coal oil. Time, three in the morning. A pretty time, indeed, for you to come home, sir! Where have you been all night? You smell as if you had been in search of Symmes' and came up to the city. From one, we smell as if you had been in search of Symmes' that on board no other person than at the symmetry of the strong in the symmetry of the sy les F. Scheffer witnessed, according to an and statements, the brutal and cowardly in a new statements, the brutal and cowardly in the new statements are new statements. Here I've been lying awake for the last five hours, waiting for you to come? Wish I wouldn't bother you—tell me in the morning? I want to know now. It's near enough morning to know where one's husband has been all night, and particularly if he comes home perfumed clear through, as you are. You mustn't good wife me. That won't answer. Suppose you were a woman, and your husband should go off every night in the week, and come home as you do, and I wish you would get up and let some fresh air into the room, or I shall certainly sufficate—what would you say?— Don't you imagine there would be a row in the family. Been with the Wide Awakes? I hould think as much. You're a wide awake fool, that's what you are. I've always thought you had about sense enough to parade the streets with those nigger lovers. Why did I marry you? That is a pretty question.— Didn't you swear that you'd shoot yourself if I didn't take pity on you? I'm sorry I didn't allow you to shoot, or hang, or drown your-self. It would have been the best thing I ev-or did in my life. What is it smells so?— Nothing? Don't tell me nothing-it never smelled so in the world. Hud to carry a torch? That's sweet business for a man who pretends to be a father of a large family. Next thing I shall expect to hear of you is that you've been splitting rails for general circulation. I know nothing about politics? Don't, eh? I don't want to know nothing about politics if have to neglect my family and carry stinking torches for the benefit of a lazy man in Illinois who is trying to be President. Want to sleep? I thought you were a Wide Awake. I suppose you've kept awake to-night on whiskey, havn't you? Where have you been all this time?—the town clock has just struck three. Been to Tondwanda to raise a liberty ole? That's a sweet note! Why didn't the Wide Awakes of Tonawanda raise their own pole? I expect Republicans are scarce in that section, and you've been trying to make a great splurge. Well, you can't fool anybody. I believe I know something about politics myself, and I know that you are drunk. That's what you are. Must go to sleep? must you? Why didn't you think of that before. I've had no sleep to-night, and you never once thought of me. You're an old brute, and just such a man as ought to vote for an old rail splitter.
