Personal Liberty Laws.

South Carolina is not the only State in the Confederacy that has made the attempt at nullifleation. The attempt has been made and successfully carried out in ten of the Northern States to nullify the Fugitive Slave Law, which conduct actually tramples upon the Constitutional rights of the South.—
To show that this statement is true, we subjoin an abstract of the laws in those States, as taken from the report of a Republican Committee of the last Legislature of New York, which recommended the passage of a similar law in that State. According to these laws, ten Northern States are virtually out to these laws, ten Northern States are virtually out duress or by threats.

10WA. have nullified the acts of Congress and refused to perform their obligations under the Federal Constitution. Here is the abstract of the laws referred

By the laws of this State it is provided that if a fugitive slave shall be arrested, he shall be defended by the Attorney of the Commonwealth, and all expenses of such defence paid out of the public treasury. The buildings belonging to the State are forbidden the reception or securing fugitive slaves, and all officers are forbidden, under heavy penalties, from arresting or aiding in the arrest of fugitive slaves. If a slaveholder or other person shall years, or fined not exceeding $1000. If a slave-holder take a slave into the State, the slave is thereby made free, and if the master undertake to exerpise any control over him, he is subjected to impri sonment for not less than one year, or fined not exceeding $1000.

NEW HAMPSHIRE. Your Committee have not had access to a com-plete series of the laws of this State. But a gene-ral index, which has been consulted, shows that a law exists by which all slaves entering the State, are doclared free, and any attempt to capture or hold them is declared to be a felony.

year, or a fine not exceeding $1000. It also forbids the use of all public jails and buildings for the purpose of securing such slaves. The attorneys for the State are directed, at the public expense, to defond, and procure to be discharged every person arrested as a fugitive slave. The habeas corpus act also provides that fugitive slaves shall be tried by jury, and interposes other obstacles to the execution of the Fugitive Slave act.

The law further provides that all persons the

The law further provides, that all persons unlawfully capturing, solving or confining a person as a fugitive slave shall be confined in the State Prison not more than ten years, and fined not exceeding $1000. Every person held as a slave, who shall be brought into this State, is declared free, and all persons who shall held or attempt to held as a slave any person so brought into the State in any form or for any time, however short, shall be confined in the State Prison not less than one nor more than fifteen years, and fined not exceeding $2000.

MASSACHUSETTS. The laws of this State forbid, under heavy penal-ties, her citizens and State and county officers from executing the Fugitive Slave act, or from arresting a fugitive slave, or from aiding in either; and denies the use of her jails and public buildings for such purposes.

The Governor is required to appoint Commissioners in every county to aid fugitive slaves in recovering their freedom when proceeded against as fugitive slaves, and all costs attending such proceedings for directed to be really as the first state. are directed to be paid by the State.

Any person who shall remove, or attempt to re-move, or come into the State with the intention to remove, or assist in removing, any person who is not a fugitive slave, within the meaning of the Constitution, is liable to punishment by a fine not less than $1000 nor more than $5000, and imprisonment not less than one nor more than five years. Their habeas corpus act gives trial by jury to fu-gitive slaves, and interposes other impediments to the hunting of fugitive slaves.

CONNECTICUT. This State, which as late as 1840 tolerated slavery within her own borders, as appears by the census of that year, prohibits, under severe penalties, all her officers from aiding in executing the Fugitive Slave act, and vacates all official acts which may be done by them in attempting to execute that law.

By the act of 1854, sec. 1, it is provided that every person who shall falsely and maliciously declare, represent or pretend that any person of the to freedom is a slave, or owes service or labor to any, with intent to procure, or to aid person or persons, with intent to procure, or to aid and assist in procuring, the forcible removal of such free person from this State as a slave, shall pay a fine of $5000, and shall be imprisoned five years in the State prison.

SEC. 2. In all cases arising under this act, the truth of and declaration, representation of that any person being or having been in this State, is or was a slave, or owes or did owe service or labor to any other person or persons, shall not be deemed proved, except by the testiment of at least two creditable witnesses testifying to facts directly tending to the truth of such declaration, protonce or representation, or by legal equivalent thereto.

SEC. 3 subjects to a fine of $5000, and imprisonment in the State prison for five years, all who shall seize any person entitled to freedom, with intent to have such person held in slavery.

Sec. 4 prohibits the admission of depositions in all cases under this act, and provides that if any witness testifies falsely in behalf of the party accused and prosecuted under this act, he shall be fined $5000, and imprisoned five years in the State

RHODE ISLAND.

The statutes of Rhodo Island provide that any one who transports, or causes to be transported, by land or water, any person lawfully inhabiting there-in, to any place without the limits of the State, ex-cept by due course of law, shall be imprisoned not less than one nor more than ten years. They also prohibit all officers from aiding in executing the Fugitive Slave act, or arresting a fugitive slave, and deny the use of her jails and public buildings for securing any such fugitives.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Prior to 1847 non-resident owners of slaves were allowed to retain them in Pennsylvania not exceeding six months. In 1847 this privilege was revo-ked. Slaves are also allowed to testify in all cases in the Courts of Pennsylvania. It is further provided by law, that any person who violently and tumultuously seizes upon any negro or mulatto, and entries such a negro away to any place, either with or without the intention of taking such negro be-fore a District or Circuit Judge, shall be fined not exceeding $1,000, and imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding three months. The law also punishes with heavy fine, and imprisonment in the peniten-tiary, any person who may forcibly carry away or attempt to carry away any free negro or mulatto from the State. The sale of fligitive slaves is prounder heavy penalties, and a trial by jury secured to them. onio.

The laws of this State were for many years of a very hostile character to slave hunting, but they were repealed in 1858. Measures have, however, been recently initiated to re-enact them.

MICHIGAN. The laws of this State are peculiarly stringent and effective. They not only deny the use of the jails and public buildings to secure fugitive slaves, and require the attorneys for the commonwealth to defend them at the expense of the State, but the law of Connecticut in relation to the punishment of perof Connecticut in relation to the pullishment of policy of Connecticut in relation to the pullishment of policy on some first of the pullishment of the policy of the policy of the pullishment of the pullishment of the pullishment of the policy of the pullishment of the pullishme The habens corpus act also provides for a trial by jury of claim to fugitives. WISCONSIN. Rollowing the example of her sister States of the North, this State has in some particulars exceeded all the rest. She has directed her district attorneys, in all cases of fugitive slaves, to appear for and defend them at the expense of the State. She has required the issue of the writ of habeas corpus, on the mere statement of the district attorney that a person in custody is detained as a fugitive slave, and directs all her judicial and executive officers who have reason to believe that a person is about to be arrested or claimed on such ground, to give notice to the district attorney of the county where the person resides. If a judge in vacation fails to discharge the arrested fugitive slave on habeas corpus, an appeal is allowed to the next circuit court. Trial by jury is to be granted at the election of either party, and all costs of trial, which would otherwise fall on the fugitive, are assumed by the State. A law has also been enacted, similar to that of Connecticut, for the punishment of any one who shall Following the example of her sister States of the naw has also been enacted, similar to that of Connecticut, for the punishment of any one who shall falsely and maliciously declare a person to be a fugitive slave, with intent to aid in the procuring the forcible removal of such person from the State as a slave, "provided that nothing in this chapter shall be construed as applying to any claim or service from an apprentice for a fixed iime." STRENGTH AND FEROCITY OF THE AFRICAN GORIL LAS.—Dr. Du Chaillu is probably the first and only white man who has dared to wage war with gorillas. The apies of Borneo and Sumatra are infants in comparison with them. The fur-famed chimpanzee is a great decide creature, which can never be named in the same day with the gigantic savage of Central Africa. Think of it! The gorilla is six feet two inches in height, and three feet between the shoulder blades. The paw is that of a giant, three times the size of the human hand. The finger measures six inches in circumstreament the kernel. sures six inches in circumference at the There is an immense ridge running perpendicular over the cranium; this and the great jaws are packed with muscles of predigious strength. The creative heat ture has large arms, altogether disproportioned to the hody. It is covered with black hair, and has a matted lock on his head, which it has the power of bringing over its face. It has almost the sagacity of a man and almost the ferocity of a fiend. The male is terribly pugnacious; the female always flies. When they make their attack they heat their breasts with their fists, making a sound which can be heard a mile. Their cry, which has a terrific re-semblance to a human voice, can be heard three niles amid the reverberation of the hills.

As they approach their adversary they endeaver to intimidate him. One would think this was easily done. That fearful sound, those frantic eyes, glaring with the intelligence and malignity of a demon, were enough to shake nerves not easily disturbed from their equipoise. Our here lost five or six men in these strange engagements. Think of the tremendous strength that with one blow of the arm could crush the ribs like pipe stems, and tear out a piece of the side; and that with a single movement of the jaw could crush the barrel of a gun as if it had been a stick of candy! Another fact! There are no lions in the beat of the gorilla.

SAVING SEED CORN.—There is hardly any one thing more important in practical agriculture than the selection of seed of the various crops. When we consider the influence which the seed has upon the erop, both in quantity and quality, and the conse-quent effect upon the profits of the farm, we may well be surprised that more attention is not given to so important an item in the farm managem

Now is the time for saving seed corn. There are as many ways of doing this, almost, as there are farmers, each having a way peculiar to himself.— Some will carefully select from the standing corn the best filled and longest ears, taking care to reject all which are not in all respects first rate. Others will do the same thing at harvest, sometimes allow ing the corn to remain too long in bulk for the safe-ty of the seed thus selected to remain several days ty of the seed thus selected to remain several days in heaps before taking proper care of it. And others again, although their numbers we trust are few, will select their seed promiscuously from the bulk of corn in the spring of the year.

That the month of September is the best for selecting seed corn, while the stalks are still standing, and while the best filled and finest cars are easily distinguished, we have no doubt. It is thought too by many, and perhaps with good reason, that seed selected from stalks producing two or more cars, will be more likely, especially if the practice is pursued several years in succession, to produce in a sued several years in succession, to produce in a like manner and thus increase the yield per acre.— This method would cause but little extra labor, especially if the seed is gathered while the corn is yet standing.—New Yorker.

A tall, raw-bone Yankee was riding a dim nutive specimen of the donkey tribe through the muddy streets of Gotham, and the animal being very stubborn, Jonathan found it quite difficult to accelerate his pace. He used the persuasive elo-quence of a hickory stick, and at each blow he would drawl out "Git up Boneypart!"

A little Frenchman in passing, heard with rage the name of his illustrious countryman applied to the ugly beast, and commenced heaping a volley of curses on the head of the offending Yankee.
