The mortification of the Republicans at Mr. Lincoln's recent speeches increases with every fresh emanation from the Presidential trip od. They begin when it is too late to realize the truth of the allegations of the Union men of Illinois as to the incompetency of Lincoln for the Presidency. During the canvass, his supporters appealed triumphantly to his published speeches as proof of his ability. It now appears, as suspected at the time, that these speeches were carefully prepared by Mr. Judd and other friends of Mr. Lincoln, revised and re-revised, polished and re-writ-ten, to such a degree that they who heard them on the stump could not recognize them in print. This was a part of the game of de-ception played by the republicans upon the people, to foist a man upon the country for its chief magistrate who was never regarded, by his most intimate acquaintances, as anything more than a jocose, cunning, country politician. I am assured by those who know him well, that a more illiterate man it would be dfficult to find, even among the self-made law-yers of Illinois. His chief characteristic is an immense 'gift of gab,' and a wonderful command of language, unaccompanied by a corresponding copiousness of ideas. The election of such a man at such a crisis is undoubtthe only relief for the American people is to shorten sail, caulk the hatches, put in the dead-lights, send down the top-masts, and prepare for a hurricane.

The New York Evening Post advises the postponement of the Morrill Tariff bill until

"It is evident from Mr. Lincoln's speech a Pittsburg, mule in the midst of a strongly pro-tariff people, that he desires no hasty ac-tion. His own mind is not made up as to the policy he will pursue on the general subject. Of the Morrill Tariff itself he professes that he knows nothing, and he recommends memthe bearings of the bill before committing themselves by a vote. Towards himself, as the chief of the new administration, and the person who is to take the responsibility of a new order of things, it is most unfair to deeide the revenue measures of the future, be-fore he has been able to give those matters the mature thought their importance de-

So it appears that Mr. Lincoln's Pittsburg speech gives immense satisfaction to the freetraders, and is taken as evidence that he does not desire the passage of the Morrill bill. If it does not pass the Scnate before the 4th of March, its defeat will justly be attributed to

The following is an extract of a letter from Mr. Roberts, who is now in Brazil, superintending railroad operations in that country: "I learn that some accounts of my being sick, in Brazil, have been published in the Ledger, and some other newspapers. Let me assure you that I have not been sick; the cliassure you that I have not been sick; the climate agrees with me very well, but I had a return of the abscess, (which laid me np in Philadelphia,) that confined me chiefly to the house here, for several months, but which, thank Providence, is now considered radically cured. My general health has remained sound all the time. Our work is now better organized than it has been at any previous period, for which we have mainly to thank our partner, Jacob Humbird, Esq., who has devoted himself indefatigably and intelligently to his onerous duties.

ELECTIONS.

OPPOSED TO WAR. -The Paris correspondent deputies have arrived in Paris from the departments, and it appears from their conversation that their constituents are all anxious that peace may be maintained. The French population in the departments are unanimous in their expression that the Emperor has done quite enough for Italy, and that France can quite enough for Italy, and that France can with the enough for Italy, and that France can quite enough for Italy, and that France can with the enough for Italy, and that France can quite enough for Italy, and that France can with the enough for Italy, and that France can quite enough for Italy and others for county Penitentiary, Nonemaker & Early a find better employment for her blood and treasure. The deputies who have spoken on the question of the unity of Italy are of opinion fect of time, and not by brute force.

The Senate of North Carolina, on the 8th inst., laid the resolutions of the Pennsylvania Legislature on the table, because they were regarded as "offensive to the South."-Gen. Dockery, one of the strongest Union men in the State, applied this language to them. and said he thought they should be treated with silent contempt.

Mr. Lincoln fears "the great confidence in his ability is unfounded." Every speech he makes is calculated to strengthen such an opinion.
