troops suddenly occurred, and a regular stampede took place: It is thought that Gen. M'Dowell under took to make a stand at or about Centreville; but the panic was so fearful that the whole army became demoralized, and it was impossible to check them either at Centraville or Fairfax Court House.

Gen. M'Dowell intended to make another stand at Fairfax Court House, but our forces being in full retreat, he could not accomplish

Beyond Fairfax Court House the retroat was kept up until the men reached their regular encampments, a portion of whom re-turned to them, but a still larger portion coming inside of the line of entrenchments. rge number of the troops in their retreat fell on the wayside from exhaustion, and are scattered along the entire route all the way from Fairfax Court House.

The road from Bull's Run to Centreville was strewed with knapsacks, arms, &c. Some of the troops deliberately threw away their guns and appurtenances, the better to facilitate their travel.

Gen. M'Dowell was in the rear at the re treat, exerting bimself to rally his men, bu with only partial effect.

The latter part of the army, it is said, mad their retreat in good order.

He was completely exhausted, having slept but little for three nights. His orders on the field did not at all times reach those for whom they were intended. It is supposed that the force sent against our troops consisted, according to a prisoner's statement, of about 30,000 men, including a large number of cavalry. He further say that owing to the reinforcements from Rich mond. Strasburg and other points, the enemy' effective force was 90,000 men.

They were left two miles the other side of Centreville.

Such of the wounded as were brought to the Centreville hospital were left there, after having their wounds properly dressed. The surgeon in attendance there was F. H. Ham-

The panie was so great that an attempt to rally them to a stand at Centreville was entirely in vaia. If a firm stand had been made there, our troops could have been reinforced, and much dienster prevented. Gen. M'Dowell was thus foiled in his well arranged plans.

It is sufficient that all the provision trains droves of cattle were saved by being driver back in advance of the retreat.

THIRD DISPARCH. Washington, July 22.

The following is an account of the inauguration of the panic which has operated so disastrously to our troops. It receives unusual interest from the subsequent events.

All our military operations went on swimmingly, and Col. Alexander was about erecting a pontoon across Bull Run. The enemy were seemingly in retreat, and their batteries being unmasked one after another, when a terrific consternation broke out among the teamsters, who had incautiously advanced immediately after the body of the army and lined the Warrenton road. Their consterna tion was shared in by numerous civilians who were on the ground, and for a time it seemed as if the whole army was in retreat. Many baggage wagons were emptied of their con-tents and the horses galloped across the open fields. All the fences were torn down to allow them a more rapid retreat. For a time e perfect panic prevailed which commuica-ted itself to the vicinity of Centreville, and every available conveyance was seized upon by the agitated civilians. The wounded soldiers on the road side cried for assistance, but the alarm was so great that numbers were Eseveral similar alarms occurred on previous occasions when a change of batteries render ed the retirement of the artillery necessary on our part, and it is most probable that the alarm was owing to some the fact.

The reserve force at Centerville was imme diately brought up, and marched in double quick step in the following order? Col. Einstein's 27th Pennsylvania regiment with two guns; the Garibaldi Guards and Blenher's First Rifle regiment, with its batteries, follow-ed at several miles distant by the DeKalb regiment.
When our courier left at half past 4 o'clock,

When our courier left at hall past 40 clock, b. m., it was in the midst of the excitement. Two new masked batteries had been opened by the rebels on the left flank, and that portion of the divison had its lines broken, and demanded immediate reinforcements. The right was in good order. The battery erected on the hill side directly opposite the main battery of the enemy was doing good execu-tion, and additional guis were being mount-

On his arrival at Fairfax Court House our courier was overtaken by Government messengers, who reported that our army was in full retreat toward Centreville. They were in full retreat toward Centreville. They were followed by less agitated parties, who started that the report of the retreat was owing to the fact that the alarm among the teamsters had communicated itself to the volunteers and men, and, in some instances to the regulars, and the lines were thus broken, and that a retrement of our forces across Bull Run was rendered necessary.
