The following official report has just been made public: ABLINGTON, Department N. E. Virginia, action on the 21st, at Bull Run, as came within my charge. As the officers of the Medical Staff were attached to the different regiments, and on duty with them, I deemed it proper to remain with and accompany the General com-manding and staff from the beginning to the termination of the battle, in order that I might be enabled to visit in this way every part of the field where the killed and wound ed might be found.

After the action had fairly commenced, and the wounded and the dead were seen lying on the field in every direction I despatched Assistant Surgeon D. L. Magrader to the rear with directions to prepare a church, which I had observed as we passed before arriving at the scene of action, for the reception of our wounded, and also to send the ambulances forward as rapidly as possible to pick up the wounded and the dead.

In a very few minutes the ambulance made their appearance, and continued throughout the day to visit every part of the ground which was accessible, in order to be within reach of those parts of the field where the fighting was going on, and wounded were to

It is due to the ambalance drivers to say that they performed their duties efficiently, and the results of their operations also show how absolutely necessary these means of conveyance are to the comfort and relief of the wounded, in giving them shelter and water when ready to perish with heat and thirst.
By means of the abulance, also, the men who go to the relief of their wounded comrades, are separated but short time from their companies, as, having deposited them in the ambulances, they can then return to their proper positions.

As the General Commanding visited almost every part of the ground during the conflict, with a view to encourage or direct the movements of the troops, my position as a men ber of his staff gave me every opportunity of seeing the result of the action

I therefore embraced the opportunity thus afforded to give direction, when needed, to the dead and, wounded, and also to those carrying off the wounded where they could find the needed conveyance.

The stretchers were found very useful and comfortable to the wounded, and were in constant requisition in conveying them to the nearest ambulance.

So far as I am informed, the medical staff belonging to the different volunteer regiments discharged their duties satisfactorily I observed Acting Surgeon Miles busily engaged in dressing wounded men under the shade of a tree in a part of the field where the fire from the enemy was very hot. He addressed me in a brief inquiry, as I passed, relative to the safety of his father, and then resumed his oc-

Surgeon C. C. Kerney, of Col. Hunter's dixision, and Assistant Surgeon D. L. Magruder, attached to the Commanding General's staff, did good service in the hospital church I have mentioned, and also, in two houses near the church, where the wounded had been placed after the church had been filled se officers remained busily engaged in their duties until the enemy's cavalry made its appearance, stird but narrowly escaped capture when they left. Drs. Smith and Winston, atstached to the New York Eight, remained with their sick, sacrificing selfish considerations for their sick, sacrificing selfish considerations for their own safety is order that their wounded might thin the neglected, and are now prison of September, 1861.

No. 1.—Alot of ground on the north side of Main an abandon their clearge. The conduct of sufficient data, the reports of the regimental surgeons are positive ophenous not yet being received, to express a positive ophenous to the number killed and surge two story as positive ophenous to the number killed and surge of so and extending in the action of the 21st. There would be prematured in the action of the 21s wounded in the action of the 21st. There were, no doubt, many concessed from observation, mader cover of woods and bushes, but judging from the number that I saw in various parts of the field, and allowing a wide margin for those unobserved, I should think that the killed and waunded on our side did that the killed and waunded on our side did fore the day of sale, will call on deorge L. Sponster, the present tenant.

The impossibility of making a careful survey of the field after the hattle must be my ology for the briefness and want of detail ir this report. I may mention, before concluding, that I met on the field Colonel Heintzelman, U. S. A., with a minic hall in his arm. I extracted the ball as he sat on his horse, and applied the necessary dressings. I attended to a number of cases on the field where, from bemorrhage and other circum necessary.
