Reported for the Volunteer Proceedings of the Court.

SECOND WEEK. Jacob Eminger vs. Samuel Benson, co-obligor in a joint and several note with William Fagan. - This was for the purpose of recovering the amount of a note for $100, alleged to have been given by William Fagan, with Samuel Benson as bail. Fagan being dead, this action against Benson (who denied that he had been bail on the note in suit,) butadmitted having bailed him at other times, Fagan being an uncle of Mrs. Benson. Defendant disputed the fact that the signature attached to the note was ever put there by him, or by his order. Jury found for the plaintiff Parker for plaintiff, Hepburn, Hays and McGlaughlin for defendant.

William H. Eckels vs. Samuel Eberly .-Trespass on the case. Jury called January 21 to determine a question in regard to language, and language which, under the present state of things, as concerning the opinions of a man in this section of country against or in favor of the war, disruption of the Government, and the right of one State against the defendant for charging him with the neighborhood where he resides that he was a Secessionist-in favor of the Southern Confederacy, and that if a war was the end, and he had to fight, that he would fight for the South, &c. In consequence of these reports, said by plaintiff to have been originated by defendant, he was injured in his business, (being a storekeeper at Sporting Hill. in this county,) store house owned by Eberly, the defendant: that his customers left him, not wishing to deal with any person who was represented to have Southern feelings. That in addition to this less of custom and a consequent reduction of his stock, &c., his life and property were put in great peril, a mob raised, threatening him with personal violence, or, in other words to "clean him out;" one of the neighbors saying that if he found him to be a Secessionist he would thrust a knife into his (plaintiff's) bowels. &c.

The defendant also wrote to the plaintiff the following letter, dated Sentember 4, 1861.

Mr. Wm. H. Eckels-Sir: I am now invery little: I did think that I could save you. but I am sorry to say the way it now stands there is not a single doubt, in my mind but what your sympathy and feeling run South-

One of the reports was that he had rejoiced at the death of General Lyon. Eberly then said that he referred him me; that he had heard me read in the store of the death of General Lyon. I told Mr. Eberly that I distinctly recollected having read it; it was not the first time I had read it, but the first time Eckels heard it; he man-if are moving, and it is likely that in a few ifested no pleasure; if he had I would have days they will complete a strong military noticed it, as I had heard him charged with having Secession principles before. cousin. It was the last week in August, or first week in September, that I went to Mr

Basehore's; when I came there Mr. Eberly had just arrived; met Eberly and Basehore both at the buggy; Eberly asked if he heard anything of Eckels? B. said he had; comenced talking about the battle when Lyon fell; B. said that he had heard that Eckels rejoiced when he heard General Lyon fell: B. remarked that he didn't know how correct the report was. The doubt in both their minds led to the conversation that Eckel's wife had two sisters in Maryland; that there might be some truth in the report of Eckels rejoicing over General Lyon's death, &c. Mr. Eberly then said "by appearance Mr. Eckels was too much of a Secessionist for him; he would not suffer any one to live under him who had 'secesh' principles;" this was said when the conversation had nearly ended. H. Ostott, sworn.—I came to the store of Eckels about the 17th or 18th of September; Mr. Eberly charged Mr. Eckels with being a essionist; Mr. Eckels asked him how he could prove that, he replied he could prove it easily; Mr. Eckels walked around the counter; Mr. Eberly shook his finger at Eckels. d said "I can prove you to be a Union man in your head and a rank Secessionist in your heart." Mr. Eckels replied what does your hible teach you—" out of the heart the mouth speaketh." Mr. Eckels asked Eherly whether both him and Basehore said he was a Secessionist; Eberly said "Yes, we both say that you are a true Union man in your head and a rank Secessionist in your heart, and we can prove it to you in any court." Eberly part of the VAN WYCK committee.

told Eckels there was a lady in his store the evening he hung his flag out. She said Mr. Eckels had said, "you could make him hang out his flag but can't make him change his sentiments." Mr. Eckels asked who the lady was; Eberly replied Kate Basehore, and she is willing to swear to it in any court. I was in the store upon another occasion; Baschore and Eckels were there; Eckels asked Eberly whether he had not said he was a Secession White Wheat, per bushel, whether he had not said he was a Secession-ist; Mr. Eberly said he did not recollect it; Basehore said, "Sam, it's no use being so Cons, stubborn, for we both said it." 3.—The North British Review, (Free Church.)
4.—The Westminster Review, (Liberal.)

4.—The Westminster Review, (Liverall)
5.—Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, (Tory.)
These periodicals ably represent the three great political parties of Great Britiain—Whig, Tory, and Radical—but politics forms only one feature of the fine that a boy or girl 10 or 12 years of age can perform the services of Washing with case, and do it in 1-4 character. As organs of the most profound writer, on Science, Literature, Morality, and Religion, they stand, as they ever have stood, unrivalled in the world of letters, being considered indispensable to the scholar and the professional man, while to the intelligent reader of every class they furnish a most correct and satisfactory record of the current literature of the day, throughout the world, than can be possibly obtained from any other source.

THIS machine is so very simple in construction, and efficient and easy in operation, that a boy or girl 10 or 12 years of age can perform the services of Washing with case, and do it in 1-4 chine. This is a great saving to those that hire; also, to the bone and muscles of those who are combined to the day, throughout the world of the current literature of the day, throughout the world, than can be prossibly obtained from any other source.
