

From Gen. McClellan's Army.

The Advance within fifteen miles of Richmond. The Rebels Drive Across the Chickahominy. An Artillery Fight on the "Bull Run" Bridge. The Expedition of the Associated Press.

White House, Va., Sunday, May 19. The advance guard of our forces on the Chickahominy river at that point yesterday.

When our troops arrived within half a mile of the bridge, which is burned, they were opened upon by a brisk fire from the rebel batteries on the opposite side of the river.

At this point our troops will experience considerable difficulty in crossing, as the country is low and swampy on both sides of the river.

A reconnaissance was made yesterday by one of the gun-boats, with two companies of infantry under Major Willard, and one section of Ayers' battery, up the Pamunkey river, a distance of 25 miles from here, at a point known as Russell's landing.

They found the steamer Logan, one propeller, and fifteen schooners in flames. They were laden mostly with corn, which was being unloaded. Some gunboats, an mortar, and a distance of 25 miles from here, at a point known as Russell's landing.

The train for the past three days has been next to impassable, owing to the recent heavy rains. A division train was 36 hours making its way five miles, with teams doubled together, and with the assistance of a large number of troops. The advance of the train from this point must necessarily be slow.

From here it loses the benefit of the river transportation, requiring all the supply trains at the disposal of the Quartermaster's department to furnish so vast a body of men with subsistence.

The bridge between here and the enemy has been destroyed, and every imaginable obstruction has been placed in the way of our advance.

The Richmond Dispatch, of the 12th, has a lengthy article on the evacuation of Norfolk, and the conduct of the war generally. It says by abandoning detached posts which are within reach of the enemy's fleet, and which it is therefore impossible to defend, we are enabled to concentrate powerful forces upon essential points, and to battle the enemy in every attack of vital importance.

The same paper makes mention of a terrible panic in Richmond, on Friday, on the approach of our gun-boats to the city. It is contended to concentrate powerful forces upon essential points, and to battle the enemy in every attack of vital importance.

This being Sunday, the Army of the Potomac has ceased its labors, the troops remaining in camp enjoying a day of rest.

Rebel Evacuation of Pensacola.

Burning of the Navy Yard and Forts—Our Gun-boats in Front of the City—Its Surrender Demanded.

BEFORE GOVERNOR MAY 18. The Mobile Advertiser and Register of the 10th, contains the following dispatch:—

PENSACOLA, May 10.—At 9 o'clock last night, the rebel navy yard and forts were set on fire and destroyed. When the enemy discovered what was going on, Fort Pickens opened a furious bombardment, and kept it up during the conflagration, but without doing any damage to the rebel boats.

All the public property, with the exception of the Custom House, which is incapable of being burned, was moved, but all the miserable Confederate property was saved. The railroad track leading out of the city towards the military camp, was broken up.

These "merchants" would like very much to get rid of all their Southern funds. We need not say the quality of "S. S." having been paid for washing, &c., in this trash. It is not worth a son to them, and our boys have too much of it to buy any more as curiosities.

Captain Boggs tells a good story of Farragut. It seems that before the bombardment of the forts below New Orleans, the commanders of the English and French vessels were near at hand had desired to communicate with the forts. This was agreed to. After the foreign captives returned, they informed Captain Farragut that it was useless for him to attempt to take the forts—that no wooden vessels could reduce them or pass them. Farragut replied: "I was sent here to make the attempt; you may be right—but I came here to take New Orleans—to pass the forts; and I shall try it!"

Successors Prisoners Refusing to Return. Eight hundred Confederate prisoners taken at Williamsburg and West Point, were brought to Fortress Monroe on Tuesday, and an exchange was made with those who arrived from Richmond. Sixty-five of them refused to be exchanged, but have taken the oath of allegiance, preferring to remain out of the realm of Secession. Others would have done the same had they not families in the South, who needed their assistance.

A special dispatch from Washington in the New York Herald, which is possibly true and probably not, says that the recall of General Hunter is fully determined on. His proclamation will be made the subject of a communication by the President to Congress, and in that way to the country, unmistakably condemning the course of Gen. Hunter, and clearly announcing the policy of the Administration in the conduct of the war.

A friend of ours, who amused himself last summer, by camping out on the Peninsula, and came near being set up by the musketoes and other insects, says the worst wish he has to Jerk Davis is that the Government may sentence him to this spot for life.

A young lad, named Alexander Kennedy, had his foot cut off by attempting to ride on the cars from the bridge to the tunnel at Phoenixville a few days ago. In jumping off he was thrown under the wheel.

The address of the Ladies' Repository says "the nation wants a man," and the Millard Journal asks if that lady has not "confounded her own personal want with that of the nation?"

The Congressional conservative movement recently organized in Washington is participated in by twenty-seven Union members, thirteen democrats and two republicans.

First of all, we ask for material aid in money, or such an equivalent thereof, as will enable us to maintain our army. Clothing and provisions will be accepted as substitutes for money, when the latter cannot be obtained.

Second we need men. The ranks of our army in the field are fast being thinned by the casualties of battle, the sickness incident to camp life, and the expiration of the terms of enlistment. We cannot close our eyes to the fact that the loss of our men is a serious one. Let us see that we do not help our cause by their willingness to fight in battles, and if need be, pour out their blood in its support.

Third, We need the encouragement of the people by a more liberal display of patriotism than has yet been made. The timid submission yielded to the invader wherever he appears is in striking contrast to the boast we have hitherto held of the readiness that prevailed on every hand to welcome the hirelings of a foreign power to the property of the people if our hands be to be overruled and people subjected, let us be our own conquerors and leave a smouldering waste to reward them for their toil and pains. Burn every hamlet, village and city. Give the torch freely to your cotton and business. Let the products of your lives be laid waste. Fly yourselves before this invader where resistance shall no longer avail. Thus by determination and spirit in the cause for which we are enlisted, you will give encouragement to continue the struggle. Whoever the enemy gains a victory, let it be a bootless one, so that the hands now led on by the hope of plunder will be disappointed and discouraged; and we shall be cheered by the manifestations of patriotism.

One more word to the people. Shake off the lethargy that hangs over you? Strike for the freedom of yourselves, and your families, and for your homes. Strike promptly and boldly, and our Confederacy may yet be finally established.

This is our last and only resource those who receive this circular will also be commissioned as agents of the Government, to advance its purposes as indicated, and full letters of instruction will be furnished them.

JEFFERSON DAVIS, President of the Confederate States of America.

A BRAVE ACT.—At the battle of Williamsburg, Captain Watson, of the Thirty-eighth New York Regiment, was wounded in the shoulder, and also had his leg broken. His regiment and company remained with him to the end of the battle, and for a moment during an onslaught of the Rebels, the Rebels advancing, one of the soldiers aimed at these officers, when they bellowed out: "Shoot at the main part of the building, but don't shoot at our Captain, who is wounded, and we will not leave him, no matter what happens to us."

The Lieutenant-Colonel of the Tenth Alabama Regiment, upon hearing these words, said to the soldiers: "Don't shoot them, they are our brave boys for that." The soldier fell back, and the Thirty-eighth, making a charge upon the Rebels, scattered them and the officers were saved.

OLD MANSIONS AND CEMETERIES.—Directly back of the camp of Colonel Averill's Third Pennsylvania Cavalry are two wings of an old mansion, formerly used, in the olden times, as the Governor-General's mansion. The main part of the building has been moved, leaving the two wings standing, making two distinct residences. One of them is about undergoing repairs, and when completed will be a fine residence. One of the buildings is the site of the above cemetery. The former residence of the dwelling is a Surgeon in the Rebel army, Judge Beverly Tucker, when living, resided in this property. His widow resides a short distance in front of this old homestead, in a magnificent mansion.

In the cemetery attached to the old Episcopal Church the names of many who appear in our Revolutionary annals are interred. Several of the Randolph family and the Blair family are consigned here. The old church is now a hospital filled with mutilated Rebels.

Spokes Opened.—Several of the citizens opened their stores, exhibiting goods for their goods. They take our Treasury Notes, and in one instance wanted our men to take "South Carolina Scrip in change." These "merchants" would like very much to get rid of all their Southern funds. We need not say the quality of "S. S." having been paid for washing, &c., in this trash. It is not worth a son to them, and our boys have too much of it to buy any more as curiosities.
