

THE BATTLE AT HANOVER COURT-HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 22, 1862. Gen. McClellan telegraphs to the Secretary of War that the battle of Hanover Court House resulted in a complete rout of the rebels, and more are coming in. The 500 prisoners are set down at 1,000. Our loss killed 100 of their dead. Our loss in killed and wounded, and missing, of which 53 were killed.

Evacuation of Corinth. THE PARTICULARS.

GEN. HALLACK'S HEAD-QUARTERS, May 30. During nearly all last night the moving of cars and the suppressed sound of steam whistles, and the sound of muskets, were taken to be a foreboding omen, and that this was not an ordinary movement, but that it was not considered worthy of more than a passing remark.

About 5 o'clock this morning several explosions were distinctly heard. Immediately afterwards skirmishes were thrown out, and a general advance of the United States army commenced, when it was found that the enemy had left his western stronghold and fled in every direction. The sound of muskets was untraced. There being some twelve or fifteen tracks of railroad running from the depot to the entrenchments, with side tracks and switches, the enemy was enabled to move off with great rapidity.

From all information that can be gleaned from the prisoners taken, it is thought that the evacuation was effected at sundown last night, the enemy retreating in three directions—East, West and South.

It is thought that the evacuation of Corinth was intended to throw himself on both flanks. At this hour Corinth is held by our army as an outpost.

Our cavalry are seeking for the enemy. The force sent from Gen. Pope's command upon and dispersed the enemy eight miles below Corinth, on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, while in the act of burning the bridge at that point.

Forty prisoners were captured. The enemy's rear-guard destroyed the railroad depot at Corinth and a church, and in the process saved some fifty of the houses. A few babes of cotton were consumed. They also broke open many of the stores and burned the contents.

A large force of the United States cavalry, under Colonel Elliott, was sent out on Wednesday morning, by a circuitous route to destroy a bridge on the Mobile and Ohio railroad south of Corinth.

Through this expedition has not yet returned word from the prisoners that it was known in Corinth last night that a bridge had been destroyed, forty miles south by a body of our cavalry.

They also state that one of the 20-pounder shells fired from Gen. Pope's column in the night yesterday, exploded in their camp killing eighty men and a hundred horses, and that a 20-pound shell, thrown into Corinth as an experiment by Gen. Pope, destroyed a locomotive and killed several men.

It is thought, among the military men, that the destruction of the bridge south of Corinth, the uncomfortable proximity of our falling shells and the possibility of Federal successes on the Mississippi, were the causes of the evacuation.

The enemy's works were certainly of very great strength, and capable of a stout resistance. OFFICIAL DISPATCH FROM GENERAL HALLACK.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The following dispatch was received this morning at the War Department: HEADQUARTERS, CAMP NEAR CORINTH, May 30, 1862.

To the Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War: The enemy's position and works in front of Corinth were exceedingly strong, and he cannot occupy a stronger position in his flight. This morning he destroyed an immense amount of public and private property, stores, wagons, tents, &c. For miles out of the town the roads are filled with arms, baggage, &c., thrown away by his flying troops. A large number of prisoners and deserters have been captured, estimated by Gen. Pope at 2,000.

Gen. Beauregard evidently distrusts his army or he would have defended so strong a position. His troops are generally much discouraged and demoralized. In all their engagements for the last few days their resistance has been weak.

A Dispatch from Gen. McClellan. A TERRIBLE BATTLE!

The Rebel Forces Repulsed on the Chickahominy.

GEN. PETTIGREW AND COL. LONG CAPTURED.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The following dispatch was received at the War Department this afternoon: From the Field of Battle, June 1st, 10 o'clock, noon.—To the Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War. We have had a desperate battle, in man and arms, which has been engaged, against greatly superior numbers, and, at one o'clock, the enemy, taking advantage of a terrible storm, which had flooded the valley to the right bank.

Casey's Division, which was in the first line, gave way unaccountably, and this caused a temporary confusion, during which the guns and baggage were lost, but Generals Heintzelman and Kearney most gallantly brought up their troops, which checked the enemy, and at the same time, however, succeeded by great exertions in bringing across Sedgwick and Richardson's Divisions, who drove back the enemy at the point of the bayonet, covering the ground with his dead.

This morning no enemy attempted to renew the conflict, but was everywhere repulsed. We have taken many prisoners, among which are General Pettigrew and Colonel Long. Our loss is heavy, but that of the enemy must be enormous.

With the exception of Casey's Division, the men behaved splendidly. Several fine bayonet charges have been made. The Second Excelsior made two today.

GEORGE B. MCLELLAN, Major-General Commanding.

LATER FROM GEN. MCLELLAN. The importance of our victory increasing hourly.

WASHINGTON, June 2. Dispatches of an official character, received from headquarters of the army at Potomac, say that the importance and dimensions of our victory increase as they are hourly developed.

OFFICIAL FROM GENERAL POPE.

WASHINGTON, June 2. The following dispatch was received at the War Department this morning: HEADQUARTERS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE MISSISSIPPI, Camp near Corinth, June 1, 1862. To the Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War: The following dispatch has been received from Gen. Pope: To the Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War: It gives me pleasure to report the brilliant success of the expedition sent out on the 28th inst., under Col. Elliott, in command of the Second Cavalry.

After forced marching day and night, through a very difficult country, he finally succeeded in reaching the Mobile and Ohio railroad at Booneville, at 2 o'clock, a. m., on the 30th. He destroyed the track in many places, both south and north of the town, blew up one culvert, destroyed the switch and track, burned the depot and locomotives, and a train of 26 cars, loaded with supplies of every kind—destroying 10,000 stand of small arms, three pieces of artillery, and a great quantity of clothing and ammunition, and paroled 2,000 prisoners which he could not keep with his cavalry.

The enemy had heard of his movements and had a train of box cars and flat cars, with flying artillery and 5,000 infantry, moving up and down the road to prevent him from capturing it. The whole road was lined with rebel pickets.

Col. Elliott's command subsisted upon meat alone—such as they could find in the country through which they passed—for several days. For dining and dispatch this expedition has been distinguished in the highest degree, and entitles Col. Elliott and his command to high distinction. Its results will be embarrassing to the enemy and contribute greatly to their loss and demoralization. He reports the roads full of small parties of the retreating enemy, scattering in all directions.

(Signed) JOHN POPE, Major-General. H. W. HALLECK, Maj. Gen. Comd'g.

A number of years ago a free black man of Washington raised sufficient money to purchase a black woman. By her he has since raised a family of six or seven children. As by the law of the District the child follows the condition of the mother, of course these children are slaves. He has therefore, filed his claim, and asked payment from the Government, valuing his "piscanninies" at $300 each.—Boston Post.

GEN. SCOTT, whose large, loyal heart could not at first realize the terrible and wicked character of the rebellion, now declares that there must be a liberal hanging of the leaders. This is the sentiment of all the loyal people of the country. Nothing also can atone for the blood of the gallant defenders of the Union and Liberty.
