Agricultural.

THE NEW-BUGLAND HERD BOOK. MESSRS. TUCKER & SON-The Country Gen tleman has already announced the publication of the Short-Horn Herd Book issued by the "Association of breeders of Thoroughbred Neat Stock." This Association was organised at Hartford, Connecticut, on the 2d of April 1859, and has thus existed four years of April 1609, and has thus existed four years before presenting any of the results of its labors to the public. Its object and labors were highly commendable, as set forth by the organ of the Association, the Hartford stead. In announcing on the 10th of March 1859, that a cattle breeder's convention was soon to be called, we were told that its purpose is, " protection against false ped-igrees and impure blooded animals offered for sale or for premiums of agricultural so-cieties." And in a call made for this convention, dated 17th March, 1859, signed by eighteen gentlemen, sixteen of whom were from Connecticut and two from Massachusetts they connecticut and two from massacrusetts they say the objects is "to adopt some system by which as far as possible, all purchasing animals as thorough-breds, may be able to rely thoroughly on the purity of their blood, and the correctness of their pedigrees—a system which will prevent animals of impure blood which will prevent animals of impure blood. or suspected pedigrees, from competing with our thorough-breds at our County and State Fairs, as is now often the case." Again the Homestead says, breeders "have seen their thorough bred stock slighted at County and State Fairs, and preference given to animals known to be grades. They have seen committees viewing thorough bred stock and awarding premiums, who did not so much as there was a herd-book or a scale of Weak Nerves, of Disease Harrar of Disease thorough-bred stock slighted at County and points, and they have known of unprincipled breeders, time after time, selling stock as thorough-bred, to those who are ignorant of the value of pedigrees, or unable to judge of them from their internal evidence which were not thorough-bred—an operation which is greatly to the discouragement of whoever commences the breeding of this kind of ani-mals, and to the weakening of confidence in the whole system of breeding thorough-bree stock." And again the Homestead pledges itself and the Association to the public—it informs us that "there are mistakes, and grave ones, in all our Herd Books, and the business of the committee on pedigrees appointed by this body is to receive and delibcrately determine the authenticity of every pedigree submitted. The animals endorsed by this association are of undoubted purity of blood, the creme de la creme of the stock they represent, and being put on record afford a chance for the purchaser to know to full certainty that he is buying what he bargains for when he gets an animal so endorsed, or one of its progeny. He has not to wade through the various volumes of the different Herd Books, but can, by reference to the records of this Society, assure himself of the value of the animal he is in treaty for. We look upon this society as one of the best mu-tual security institutions that we know of.— We have the fullest confidence that this committee will act deliberately, impartially, and certainly, no matter whose stock is injured or whose is benefitted—no matter whose frauds are exposed or who is made to sustain pecun-

And as though all these reiterated assurances made to the public would not suffice, the same authority in another paragraph in-ferms us that "the Society is determined to have the most thorough investigation, so that is shall record no animals concerning which there can be the least doubt, or in whose pedigree a flaw can be found."

This Association, as its original organization, at its first meeting, treading in the footsteps of other organized bodies, adopted its platform as follows: "That we deem no animal to be thorough bred that cannot be traced by record, in direct line, on the side of both sire and dam, to animals in Great Britain, of undoubted pu Animals of undoubted purity of blood must by record evidence be sought for and found in Great Britain, to which all animals here must be traced on the side of both sire and dam, in order to be recognized as thorough-bred by the terms of this platform, and all that cannot be so traced must be rejected as grade animals. Nor is this platform original with this Association, for many years ago, the New York State Agricultural Society adopted, for the purpose of excluding grade animals from competition with thorough-breds at their and In all their Stages; At little Expenses; nual exhibitions, the same rule as far as I Little or no change in diet; No inconveniences recollect, but I have not now before me the means of referring to it.

Mr. Error:—In hurrying seasons, when there is much bad weather, it is sometimes necessary to get hay in when imperfectly cured, or not sufficiently made to prevent its becoming musty when mowed. When this is the case, the use of salt is found to be highly beneficial; it prevents must, and gives a be found enough to prevent mould, unless the hay is very damp, when the application of half a bushel, or even a larger quantity, will be allowed. Meadow hay may be preserved by the use of salt, and its value greatly increased thereby for feeding purposes especially when given to sheep. And here permit me to remark that the very best ar-ticle of winter feed that can be provided for sheep, if cut before it becomes over ripe, and properly made, is the coarse grass abounding in our natural meadows. I have generally cut from five to eight tons of this grass, and although not of the best quality of meadow hay, I have wintered my sheep on it without the assistance of any other hay, and carried them through more successfully, and with less loss than I am confident could have been done by providing them with any other keep. There is something peculiar about this hay that renders it extremely palatable to the sheep, and which prevents their becoming soon clogged; their appetite for it continuing unimpaired through the season, unless vitia-ted by the occasional use of other and more luxuries food. Since the introduction of chaffling machines, I have used but little long feed, prefering to cut all articles used for fodder, be its character or quality what it Price $1 Per Bottle or Six for $5. may. I am assured that a very great saving is effected in this way.

One thing, however, should be borne in mind, and that is, that the actual value of all fresh grass is greatly increased by early cutting: To let it stand until the fibre has hecome hard and wiry, and the seed mature, is always an injury to the grass. Probably the same rules for cutting and curing meadow hay should be adopted in curing Timothy hay. The seed constitutes a valuable portion of all hay, and when the outting takes place about the period of inflorescence, the hay, although it requires somewhat more time and labor to make it, is of greater value than when it is cut at a later period.

The poorest grasses produced in our bogs and swamps, if out before they become dead ripe, and cured with salt, will be eagerly eaten by most animals, and may be made greatly to assist in carrying through a stock of cattle when there is a scarcity of other feed. Hundreds of tons of meadow hay, generally of the coursest kind, are cut in some sections, and thousands may be cut, annually, in the same townships, without exhausting the natural supply. When its value for feed-ing purposes is duly appreciated, a more strict economy of so valuable an article will be observed, and no inconsiderable saving effected by those who can procure it, and who know to what important uses it is capa-
