TO OUR READERS.

Of course we issue no regular paper this week. Our journeymen and boys partock of the late excitement, and we found it impossible to keep them at work. Indeed we did of rebel invaders. not insist on them working, for they are all connected with families living in our town, who required their assistance. We issue this half-sheet, so that our readers may know what has transpired since our last. We hope to be able to issue our regular paper for next

ALARM IN OUR TOWN,

When the news reached Carlisle-early on Saturday morning-that the robels had postession of Chambersburg, the excitement and alarm became intense. About day-light Gen. Couch and staff, accompanied by many citizons of Chambersburg, arrived in our town, confirming the intelligence we had received by telegraph. Soon hundreds and thousands of horses, cuttle, theep, hogs, wagons, and vehicles could be seen moving down the pike and Walnut Bottom road, all on a full run in the direction of Hurrisburg. Of course the alarm became general in the town and throughout the valley, and our merchants and all others owning goods and valuables redoubled their labors in packing up and sending their boxes to the different ware-houses for transportation. During the day several hundred strugglers from our army-most of them belonging to the commands of Averell and Hunter-arrived in town, notone of whom appeared to know or care where he was goag. Finally an order was received from the garrison ordering the arrest of the skedadlers, and many of them were picked up by the guard and escorted to our Barracks .-Next day they were formed into companies and ordered back to their regiments.

Hundreds of negroes-men, women and children -- streamed into town, some in wagons and buggies, and others on horseback and on foot. Many of them were almost naked and nearly starving. How these poor wretches were provided fer, few appeared to know or care. The rampant Abolitionists paid no attention to them whatever.

On Sunday morning the court-House bell was tolled, when a meeting at once assembled to devise means for rendering assistance to the Chambersburg sufferers. Committees were appointed, who at once proceeded to collect money, provisions and clothing. In a few hours some $500 or $600 in money, together with large supplies of provisions, such as fresh and salt beef, ham, flour, bread, cheese, eggs and vegetables, were collected in the market house where they were placed in a car, and accompanied by a committee, sent to the star-ving people of Chambersburg. This large contribution was worthy of and creditable to contribution was worthy of and creditable to our people:

Of course all business in our town is now and has been, since Saturday morning, at a stand-still. Our people feel uneasy and entertain fears that the rebels may yet pounce upon and serve us as they did the people of Chambersburg.

At this writing (Tuesday afternoon,) all is quiet, and it is hoped that our enemies have been forced beyond the limits of the State.-No one appears to know much about them,

In conclusion, we repeat the suggestion we made several weeks ago, and that is to form home-guard companies for our own protection. If we desire to protect our firesides, our wives and little ones, we must fight for, and, if necessary, die for them.

FAST DAY SERVICES .- The English Luther an Church will be open for service on Thurs day, (the 4th inst.) at II o'clock, A. M.

Gov. Curtin has issued a Proclamation,

THE REBEL INVASION.

CHAMBERSBURG IN ASHES!

Three Thousand of its People are lest Houseless.

Suffering and Want.

THE REBELS ESCAPE,

In company with a number of our citizens, ve paid a visit to Chambersburg-or rather to the place the town lately stood—on Monday. Immediately on our arrival, we took from our pocket pencil and paper, intending to note down interesting items of information; but we soon found the task would prove a herculean one, requiring more time and patience than We could bestow upon it. No one who has not seen Chambersburg since the conflagration, can have an idea of the destructive character of the fire. Nearly every valuable building, both public and private, was reduced to ashes. All the county buildings, the banks, hotels, (except one or two small taverns,) printing offices, churches, the female seminary, law offices, fared the me common fate. Indeed, the very heart (the business portion) of Chambersburg is gone, and the town it may be said, is wiped out. The loss is almost beyond calculation, and no one, we believe, has attempted to estimate

And all this was the work of some 350 rebel cavalry! What an everlasting infamy and disgrace. We will not speak on this aubiect now, for we have no heart to refer to the criminal negligence, the ignorance and imbecility that permitted this great calamity. It is a fact that the people of this State, and particularly the people of this valley, have never been protected or thred for since the war commenced, and, judging from the past, we can expect little for the future. We are now and always have been, at the mercy

But, more anon: Below will be found some of the particulars of the great conflagration, as we find them in a city paper:

The Rebel Raid into Pennsylvania.

CHAMBERSBURG IN ASHES.!! THREE THOUSAND CITIZENS BURNED OUT:

Gen. McCausland, it now appears certain, was in command of the rebel troops when they burned Chambersburg. It will be re-membered that McCausland fired Greencas-tle when the rebels made their great raid a year ago, and that he levied an exorbitant tax upon the people of Hagerstown a few weeks since. He is a desperate, ferceious and untamed freebooter, ready at any time

The burning of Chambersburg is described from those who came in with the prisoners.

After McCausland had taken formal possession of the town he made proclamation to the citizens demanding $100,000 in gold. It was of course impossible to comply with such a demand, a demand no doubt made confi-dent of its failure, and sure of its affording a pretext to execute the premeditated plan for destroying Chambersburg. The fact that the most valuable portion of the merchandize of the town lieving been removed added to the rage and disappointment of the rebels, and when thus inspired the order was issued to fire the Court House, Town Hall and Bank Building.
A strong breeze prevailing at the time con communicated the flames to surrounding buildings. Parties of soldiers, having sacked everal drug and themical stores, had manufactured turpentine balls, which they threw in all directions, thus creating as many different fitmes in different localities of the town, which such united in one general, ter-rific and devouring conflagration. Speedily the scene became heart-rending and appalling, the crackling and roaring of the flames, as they leaped from house to house, the shricks of terrified women, the cries of panic stricken and suffering children, the pitiful appeals of the old and helpless, as they were theird above the noise of the configration, only served to elidit the derision of the base vretches who came thus to sack and destroy wretenes who came thus to sack and destroy the town. Everywhere families werd rushing from their homes to find safety iti the desolated fields around Chambersburg. Women could be seen wildly steking for children that were lost; while children were weeping for parents wild could not be found. A gentleman who communicates these brief acts save that the history of modern warfare contains nothing to equal the atrocity and unprovoked barbarity of the burning of Chambersburg.

The invaders had entered without resist could appease the butcher and incendiary McCausland. He ordered the torch to b applied, and has now a monument of ashes added to his infamy as a thief and a traitor. Retribution will lurk in his path; as the tiger watches in his lair for his victim. There is no doubt that the destruction of Chambersburg is most complete, and that two bundred and sixty-five of its most valuable and prominent public and private build-ings have been destroyed. It will require at least a quarter of a century to repair the damage which the rebels perpetrated in little less than four hours. They fired the town as near as can now be ascertained at 7 o'clock, A. M., and remained just long enough to see the flames spread and get a headway, when the alarm was given hat Averill was approaching the town, Instantly every treebooter was in his saddle, and the incerdiaries hurriedly took to the St. Thomas road, with Averill in the pursuit. The Telegraph open to Chambersburg. CHAMBERSBURG, July 31 .- Two hundred and fifty houses in the centre of the town have been burned by the rebel Gen. Early, who demanded $500,000, but gave the citizens no time to comply with the demand.—

He was in command of a force of 400 cavcalling the Legislature to meet on the 9th inst. to devise means for the protection of the $1,000,000—An Appeal for Aid.

a threat of burning the town.
This requisition was in writing, and was cluding all the rrinting offices, public buildings, stores and hotels, comprising about two-thirds of a town containing 7,000 inhabitants.

Thus a large body of citizens are reduced from comparative wealth to absolute poverty.

Many families have lost all their bedding and all their chething, except such as they had on their persons. The loss will be largely over $1,000,000. Without aid from abroad there will be great sufficient in content of the surface to there will be great suffering in our community

THE NINTH CORPS OPENS THE BALL. SPRINGING THE MINES.

Bombardment of Ciher Works. GENERAL ASSAULT MADE

Two Lines of Rebel Works Carried

Washington, July 31.—Information from the headquarters of the Army of the Poto-mac, dated July 30, says:— "The great event so long anticipated, viz. the explosion of the mine under the enemy's fort in front of the Ninth Corps, came off this morning at 4:40. The picket firing was kept up all night, and, in fact, at the time the match was applied the skirmishers were still engaged on both sides.

"The volumes of dust thrown up was immense, and rising over three hundred feet in the air, resembled an immense fountain of dirt or the crater of a volcano.

"The Ninth Corps at once charged the works, driving the blemy to their second line and taking a number of prisoners, some of whom were dug out of the dirt badly bruised. They state that only about a dozen remain out of their regiment, a South Carolina one.

"As soon as the explosion took place 120 guns opened along our front, while the mus-ketry blazed in one continuous line of fire along the front of the Ninth and parts of the Fifth and Eighteenth Corps.

"The scene was one long to be redictible." to violate the usages of honorable warfare in ed by all who witnessed it. But the smoke order to gratify his dark and malignant passions.

turday as having been terrible and horrible in the extreme.

Surprised, most of those in the fort being asleep at the same time: They state that there were four guns in the fortification, which of course, were buried far out of sight. One prisoner reported that they were cross minmore they would have been ready to blow us up. But we got the start of them, and it is hoped that long ere this reaches you, Petersburg will be in our posession."

LATER. A despatch dated 7 A. M., says :- Reports just in state that we have posession of the en-tire first line of the Rebel works, with a large number of prisoners. Our loss in the charge was seyere, as our men had to cross an open field to reach the Rebels. The troops engag-ed were the Ninth Corps, with the Eighteenth supporting them, the Second and Fifth being in reserve, "The firing is still going on, consisting principally of musketry.

"Generals Grant and Meade, with all the Corps Generals, are at the front watching the progress of affairs.

Further Details from General Grant's Army. BALTIMORE, July 31.—A later displatch from the Associated Press correspondent at City Point states the assault of Petersburg continenced at four o'clock on Saturday morn ing by a terrible explosion which completely destroyed one of the enemy's principal forts in front of Petersburg, containing sixteen guns. This was reduced to a mass of ruins. Immediately upon this explosion our artillery opened with one simultaneous and continlous roar along the entire line of General Grant's army.

Up to the leaving of the mail boat at ten o'clock we had captured two other earthworks and also the entire line of intrenchments.— The battle was progressing with great fury.

WASHINGTON, August 1.—Information from the Army of the Potomac dated July 30, 9 p. m., says: After the explosion this morning everything betokened a brilliant victory, but soon after matters assumed a different aspect, part of the attacking force having given way, thus exposing the balance to an enflading fire from both artillery and in-

The programme was as follows: The mine of the 30th of July, 1864, the rebels, under the command of McGausland, with a force of about 500 men, entered Chambersburg, and demanded $500,000 from the citizens under a threat of burning the town. The command of the Fifth, and the Third division of the Second. The greater part of the arrangement was carried out as ordered, although the commencement was later than the hour designated, on account of the fuse

Brig. Gen. White in command, were pushed forward and ordered to charge and carry the crest of the hill, which would have decided the contest. The troops advanced in good order as far as the first line, where they received a gal-ling fire whiched checked them, and although quite a number kept on, the greater portion seemed to have become utterly demoralized part taking refuge in the fort and the balance running to the rear as fast as possible. They were rallied and pushed forward again; but without success. The greater part of theiroffi-cers being killed & wounded during this time they seemed to be without any one to manage thom, when they finally fell back to the rear out of range of the volleys of canister and musketry that were ploughing through their ranks.

Their losses are very heavy, particularly in officers, as will be seen by the following figures: The 23d U.S. colored regiment had 15 officers killed and wounded, and lost about 400 men; including the missing. The 28th U.S. colored regiment had 11 officers and about 150 men killed, wounded and missing. The 27th U.S. colored regimed had 6 officers about 150 men killed, wounded and missing The 43d U.S. colored regiment lost 6 officer, and a large number of men. The 39th U.S. colored regiment lost several officers and 150 men killed, wounded and missing.

The loss in the Second division of the Ninth corps (Gen. Ledlie commanding) was very severe, being estimated at from 1,000 to 1,200, Among those missing I regret to announce the name of Gen. Bartlett, who reached the fort with his command, and his cork leg being accidently broken he was unable to get off the field. He however held possession of the ground for several hours and only surrendered when all hope of escape was gode.

Some two hundred men, both black and white, were with him it is believed at the time, a few of whom managed to get back to our lines amidst a storm of bullets.

Nearly all of Gen. Bartlett's staff were captured at the same time.

Col. Marshal, commanding the Second brigade of this division, was also taken prisoner, with several of his staff. Col. Wild, of the 56th Mass., colored, is also reported a prisoner. Col. Gould, 59th Mass., lost a leg. Major Barton, 179th New York, also lost a leg. Lieutenant Col. Barney, 2d Pa., wounded; Major Prescott, 57th Mass.; killed; Lieutenant Col. Ross, 31st U.

This division, having been a good deal in advance of the rest of the line, held their position for several hours, but were finally compelled to fall back, suffering heavily doing
