thrown out of the gear and made harmless; and upon resuming his place they are again ple, exceedingly simple; but, as it appears to us exceedingly valuable also. In the midst of war excitements, we fear this invention has been somewhat overlooked. We do our farmers, we think, a a kindness

We do our farmers, we think, a a kindness in thus adverting to it, as the expanse of its adoption is but triffing, while it relieves the machine of a serious objection. One of the most extensive firms engaged in tho manu-facture of agricultural implements in New England, has examined and approved of the patent, and that it will be generally adopt-ed the coming season, there will be no doubt. -N. THE STRAWBERRY .- The strawberry now THE STRAWDERRY.—The strawberry now ebjoys more celebrity than any other Amer-ican fruit. More people are devoting time and money to its culture, more exhibitions are held in its honor, larger prizes are awar-ded for the finest specimens of its growth, and altogether more ado is made about it than about any other product of our bounts-ous soit. A large (annual) strawberry aphicus soid. A large (annual) strawberry exhi-bition hns just closed at No. 41 Park Row, at which the heaped-up plates of blushing manuschs were upprecedented in number and beauty. Another strawberry show is in progress at the American Institute, under the direction of the Horticultural Committee of direction of the Horneultural Committee of that body, which is a great success, as the efforts of the Institute in the cause of fruits and flowers always are. Besides these for-mal and imposing affairs, there are innumer-able strawberry festivals, held this week, in New York and other sitias in aid of calibration New York and other cities, in aid of soldiers, charities and other deserving objects. There is nothing like the strawberry for supplying hospital with food and medicines, clothing and educating orphans, and paying off church debts. It is truly a power in the land. As a social agency, for bringing peo-ple-together performing the same delicate and useful office as the sewing-circle, the so-cciable, and the other ingenious devices to keep up and multiply acquaintanceship--it is not to be despised. New York and other cities, in aid of soldiers, not to be despised. The cultivation of the finest kinds of straw-The cultivation of the finest kinds of straw-berries is so general that the exhibitions of them in the cultivation of the finest kinds of straw-folks. In the country one may see large beds thick with strawberries nearly as big as the biggest shown upon the exhibition tadas, and growing by hundreds on a single plant. Every progressive farmer has a strawberry ethibition, and festival too, all to himself, in this month of Jdne. He can show abundance in quantity if not in varieties. The devel-opement of varieties is the important object which the American Institute and the other scientific patrons of the strawberry serve to promote. They also have done, and are do-ing, a substantial public benefit by the in-terest which they are creating all through the country in the culture of this luscious and healthful berry.

A member of the Lazy Society was complained of last week, by another, for run-ning. His defence was, that he was going down hill, and it was more labor to walk than to run. He was let off easy.

"Is it poossible, Miss, that you do
