

AMERICAN VOLUNTEER.

JOHN B. BRATTON, Editor & Proprietor

CARLISLE, PA., JULY 6, 1865.

Wm. Blair & Son, Carlisle, make liberal offers to retailers. Please call and learn prices.

The 4th or July—Its Celebration in Carlisle.—After four long years of bloody and cruel strife the American people are again enabled to celebrate the Anniversary of our National Independence in the hour of peace and prosperity. Thanks be to a kind Providence for vouchsafing to us this blessing. In our town of Carlisle the 4th of July, 1865, was celebrated in an old-fashioned manner. The day dawned brightly, the weather being mild and pleasant, and not quite so warm as we experienced last week. The stores and banks were closed, and work of all kinds suspended, and the people—both young and old—all united with joyful hearts to celebrate the 80th anniversary of our independence.

The day was ushered in by the firing of a national salute on the public square at sunrise, and the ringing of the Court House and Church bells. This was the signal for a general awakening from night's slumbers and our citizens at once aroused themselves for the festivities of the day. During the firing of the salute and ringing of the bells the Carlisle Brass Band played several national airs, which were well received by the assembled crowd. After thirty-six rounds had been fired (one for each State) our citizens returned to their homes to prepare themselves for the procession, which was formed at 10 o'clock on the public square, under the direction of Jacob Zee, Jr., Chief Marshal, in the following order:

- Chief Marshal and Aids.
- U. S. Barracks Band.
- The Returned Soldiers, under the command of Capt. Wm. M. Porter.
- The I. O. O. F. in full Regalia. Joseph C. Thompson, Marshal.
- [The Odd Fellows very solemn appear in our public processions, and on this occasion they turned out in strong numbers, making a fine display, and were much admired along the route for their uniform appearance.]
- Union Fire Company. Geo. Sheaffer, Marshal.
- Dress—Black pants, white shirts, felt hats and belt. 34 men. Engine and Hose Carriage beautifully decorated with flags.
- Marshall Music.
- Cumberland Fire Company. Robt. McCartney, Sr., Marshal.
- Dress—Same as Union. 22 men. Silver Manned Hose Carriage decorated with flags.
- Good Will Fire Company. Jos. W. Ogilby, Marshal.
- Dress—Black pants, red shirts, New York Fire hats and belt. 28 men. Engine trimmed off in fine style.
- Empire Hook and Ladder Company. Geo. Dress—Same as Good Will. 24 men. Truck handsomely festooned with Stars and Stripes.

After parading through the several streets of the borough, the procession was halted at the College Campus, where a stand had been erected and a large crowd of citizens and ladies assembled. A meeting was organized, and Capt. Wm. M. Porter chosen as President, with a number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries. Capt. Porter, in a few brief remarks stated that the object of the celebration was double in its purpose, namely—the celebration of the glorious achievement of our patriot forefathers in making us a free and independent nation; and the celebration of the triumph of our arms over the Southern rebellion. The exercises were then proceeded with as follows:

Prayer by Prof. H. M. Johnson.
Reading of the Declaration of Independence by Col. Wm. M. Penrose.
Welcome speech to the returned soldiers by Wm. Weakley, Esq.
A National Address by Capt. R. M. Henderson.
Music—"Star Spangled Banner."
The President then invited the soldiers and firemen to partake of a collation prepared for them by the citizens at Rheem's Hall. The procession was reformed and marched to the Hall, where the craving appetite of the men was satisfied and the burning thirst quenched with a little lemonade. This concluded the exercises of the day until evening, when a second national salute was fired and a small ball set off from the public square, which ascended the air as far as the eye could see in beautiful style, amidst the applause of the assembled crowd. A grand display of fireworks concluded the celebration of July 4th, 1865, in the classic town of Carlisle.

By way of conclusion we would remark that with the exception of a few feeble fights, caused by bad whiskey, the day passed off quietly and pleasantly.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.—The commencement exercises of Dickinson College passed off remarkably well, a large number of visitors from abroad being present. Col. JOHN W. FORNEY delivered the address before the Literary Societies, and, as was expected, it was political from the beginning to the end. It is a grand mistake to allow political speakers of either party to interfere with the collegiate studies of the young. Judgment affirmed.
The graduating class numbered six teen young men, three of whom were from Carlisle. Their names are JOHN GREENMAN, ALFRED M. HOBBS, and EDGAR E. HASTINGS.—The Barracks Band attended the exercises with their charming music.

SALE OF GOVERNMENT MULES.—To-day, at 10 o'clock, about 200 Government Mules will be offered for sale at the lot adjoining Weakley's hotel. The mules are represented as young, sound and serviceable, thoroughly broken for the harness. Our farmers should attend this sale.

General Hobbart is spoken of as the Democratic nominee for Governor of Wisconsin. General Fairchild, it is thought, will be the Republican candidate.

"LOYAL" INCONSISTENCY.

Most of the selected orators who made addresses on the subject of President Lincoln's assassination, took the ground that his death was a national calamity—that it was ordered by God for some wise purpose, &c. This was the position of the clergy, &c. It was the argument of Forney, in his political harangue last week, before one of the societies of Dickinson College. Now, we have not much faith in this kind of doctrine; we don't believe that God willed that ABRAHAM LINCOLN should visit a theatre, there to be murdered by Booth. But, if the friends of the deceased President do believe this, then why is it that they were so fierce in demanding the blood of Booth, and all others who conspired at the murder? According to the belief of the "loyal" clergy—according to Forney's belief, Booth and his accomplices were God's agents to commit this atrocious crime. Then why punish them? why even denounce them? Ah, we fear these sycophants who take this position are bad teachers, and know very little of God's doings. Too long have they, impiously, attempted to back up their wicked sayings and devilish doings, by claiming that the Almighty approved them. "This is God's war," were the stereotyped words thousands of acres used for four long years, when addressing the people. Sanctimonious preachers spoke these words from the pulpit, as they taught their people to put at defiance the teachings of the Son of God. Shoddyites and thieves re-echoed the sentiment from horse throats as they thrust their big hands into the people's treasury. "All God's belongings," said they, as they gloated over some brutality or theft committed by "boast Butler," or some other licensed marauder. And now they tell us that Mr. LINCOLN was murdered in God's theatre by command of God! And yet they say "hang the murderers—give them no quarter!" Here is an inconsistency that we would like Mr. Forney or some other political mountebank to explain.

No, no, the Almighty had nothing to do with the assassination of President LINCOLN. Had it not been for bad brandy and whiskey, in all probability the crime never would have been thought of. It is wicked, infamous and reckless to thus trifle with the name of the Almighty, and the man who does it is either an infidel or a fool.

BAIRD TRUENING.—A darkey in the grocery business.—Last Thursday a colored man, named Girt, in the employ of Wm. Blair & Son, Grocers of this place, was arrested for stealing goods from the store of the above firm. The darkey was employed to carry away packages of goods, and do all the necessary drudge work about the store. So much confidence as to his honesty was placed in him by the firm, that they intrusted to his care the keys of the store after he was closed to business at night. He had been closely recommended to them for his honesty. But how grossly has he deceived them; instead of proving himself an honest man, he is discovered to be an expert scoundrel. In the absence of the clerks he had the entire control of the store, and then the temptation to steal entered into his black heart at once.—Coffee, tea, sugar, molasses, rice, oranges, hams, dried beef, dishes, knives and forks, &c., &c., were carefully extracted from the store and taken home to adorn his own table and enable him to feast like a king. For three months he had been enjoying these luxuries at the expense of his employing employers without being detected. But his thieving career has at last been checked.—The missing goods could not be accounted for by the clerks, who declared that they had not sold them. The feasting darkey was then questioned, but, of course, he knew nothing about "de matter." A search warrant was then placed in the hands of Constable Warr, who made a thorough inspection of the darkey's residence, where a small branch of the grocery business was found to have been established. This was too much for the darkey, and he openly acknowledged to the theft and that he had been in the business for some time, which was evidently so from the pile of goods discovered in his cellar. He was ordered to carry the goods back to the store, and then taken into custody. The Messrs. BLAIR, however, offered to let him go unpunished if he would leave the town by Friday night; this he failed to do, and he is now in jail awaiting his trial at the next term of Court, when he will discover to his sorrow that the Grocery business "is a hard road to travel."

It is said that this thieving scoundrel gave tea parties nearly every evening, to which he invited a great number of his sable brethren, who all lived fat and jolly at the expense of their honest brudder.—We also hear it said that this "honest brudder" pretended to be a minister of the gospel, and that he preached a sermon on the "Forgiveness of Sins" the Sunday previous to his arrest, when he exhorted his sable brethren in this style: "Don't do as I do, but do as I tell you." His recent thieving propensities have no doubt convinced his deluded followers that his advice had better be heeded.

OPINIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT.—The Supreme Court held a session on Friday last in Philadelphia, at which were present all the Justices. Quite a number of opinions were delivered, and among the rest the following:
Hollferstein vs. Leonard and Leonard, Cumberland county. Judgements reversed, and venire facias de novo awarded.
Clark vs. Watson, Cumberland county. Judgment affirmed.
Ely's appeal, Cumberland county. Decree affirmed, at cost of appellant.
Arnold vs. Corman, Cumberland county. Judgment affirmed.
Gorden vs. Oyster, Cumberland county. Judgment affirmed.

The rendezvous for drafted men at Carlisle Barracks has been entirely broken up, and the men and officers ordered to report at Harrisburg. What disposition will be made of the buildings we have not learned, but presume they will be used for the regular army.

MORE APPLICANTS FOR PARDON.—Among the recent applications for pardon received by the President, was that of ex-Governor Vance, of North Carolina, and John A. Gilmer, formerly a prominent American or "Know-Nothing" member of the United States House of Representatives from that State.

SECOND LETTER FROM THE 202d REG'T.

From the Patriot & Union.
We ask the attention of our readers to the following letter from officers and soldiers of the 202d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers. It is the reasons for their immediate paying off and muster out of the regiment, are so well and forcibly stated that anything we could say would be but repetition and supererogation. We can only say that we sincerely hope that the War Department will immediately accede to the universal desire of the men and their friends, by ordering the regiment to Harrisburg for pay and muster out. The men are really not needed where they are, but are urgently required at home:

TAMAQUA, PA.,
HEADQUARTERS CAMP 202d P. V.,
June 30th, 1865.

Editor Patriot and Union.—Your fearless and able pen in behalf of the rights of the people induces us to appeal to you to give us your aid in making a statement of what we believe to be an imposition upon a large majority of the citizens of Schuylkill county and upon nine hundred soldiers, as well as a disgrace to our whole State.
This regiment (the 202d P. V.) was mustered into the service of the Government to serve one year, unless sooner discharged, at Harrisburg, on the 5th of September, 1864. In accordance with general orders from the War Department, dated as far back as the latter days of May, all of the regiments from the 198th to the 215th P. V., were to be discharged just as soon as they had been mustered into the service. The regiments were farworn and discharged except the 202d, and gone to their homes. When we left Virginia it was generally understood that the 202d was to be discharged, and that the men were to be sent to their homes. We were mustered out; but we were most egregiously mistaken. Instead of being sent to our farms and workshops, where we are so greatly needed, the regiment was farworn on a class of laboring men, who perform labor which an uninitiated man would not do for less than $20 per diem. A class of men, according to the same number, whose equals cannot be found in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth, and to recognize their dangerous and arduous work, far down in the dark pits, where the light of day is entirely shut out from them. It is true as well that the market for the sale of the product of their labor is at this time equally not so good as in any other locality for strict conformity to the laws of the Commonwealth. It is true that there exists an indisposition on the part of these people to labor for less than what they are worth,