FIELD CORN.

Every man has a definite notion of what field corn is—yet how different are these ideas. To the Canadian or Maine reader it means a little 5-foot variety, with 8-inch ears, and 8-rowed; the kermind s-fitch ears, and s-fowed; the ker-nels usually yellow as gold, and hard as flint. He plants it in rows, 3 feet apart, and in hills 20 to 24 inches apart in the rows. It may be planted in June, and cut up in 90 days. To the Connecticut Valley and New York farmers, field corn is larger, courser, taller, of larger cars, of is larger, courser, taller, of larger ears, of more various colors and qualities—planted in hills 3 to 3½ feet apart, usually in May and harvested in September, allowand and narvested in September, anowing 110 to 120 or more days for it to mature enough to be cut up. As we go West and South, the size of the plant and the length of season required for its development and perfection increase; 4 and 5 openent and perfection increase, in the feet apart is no unusual distances to find the hills, and the ears, instead of being 8-rowed and 12 to 14 inches long, as in the Middle and Eastern States, are short, thick, and 12 to 20 rowed, while the kernels lose the flinty character, in measure, and gain a certain mealiness, and in shape resemble a gourd seed or horse's tooth.— The varieties of corn are almost infinite, (if we may use the expression), and yet it is remarkable that the plant is everywhere governed by the same rules of cul-ture, and instructions good for Maine will apply in Louisiana.

apply in Louisiana.

Corn needs a deep and rich soil, or especial manuring, and the ground must be dry and warm. The culture should be thorough previous pulverization, with the dissemination of manure throughout the soil, by plowing and harrowing, unless, indeed, the corn be planted on a good sward, turned under, in which case manuring with a good compost stable manuring with a good comp nuring with a good compost, stable ma-nure, or some concentrated fertilizer in the hill is desirable on soils which need manuring to ensure a good crop. After planting, the culture should consist in keeping the weeds down, and the sur-tace free and open, for the action of the air and the absorption of dew and other moisture.

The stalks should not be so crowded that they cannot mature well; and, if the culture be thorough, farmers generally err in putting the drills too far apart and letting too many stalks stand in each hill. It is much more economical of space to plant in drills: the stalks a foot apart, and the drills 30 inches to 4½ feet, according to the variety—this distance being a little less than half the height of the stalks, on an average. Never allow more than 4 stalks to a hill. If all the culture is to be done by horse-power, it pays to sacrifice a little of the land to convenience, and put the corn in hills equally distant, and in true rows, running both ways.

CORN.—To prepare for planting. Take hot water enough to cover a bushel of corn 3 inches above the surface; dissolve half a pound of nitre or muriate of Am half a pound of nitre or muriate of Ammonia in the water and while, warm; put the eorn in, and leave it soak 20 hours, strain off the water and add 4 lb. of nitre for another bushel of corn, plant the first soaked so soon as dry—4 to 5 grains in a hill, cover 2 to 2½ inches deep. So soon as the plant has 3 leaves drop a table-spoonful of ground plaster thereon. Plant from 10 to 15th of May.

HORSE SHOEING.

An old blacksmith sends a communi cation to the Meadville Republican, and talks so sensibly that we take pleasure in making an extract from it:

There is no kind of work, perhaps, the whole of the blacksmith's trade, that ought to be done with more care than ought to be done with more care than horse-shoeing, and there is nothing done with less. Many blacksmiths seem to think that all that is necessary is to put the shoe on so that it will stay a reasonable length of time. This is in fact but a small consideration in horse shoeing. I would much rather a shoe would come off years seen than level it.

off very soon than have it hurt the horse while it is on, as is the case too often.

The trouble, in my opinion is, that the workmen seldom learn the trade. It used to take five years to leave the blockwith. to take five years to learn the blacksmith trade; now a boy will learn it in five months, or think he has learned it, and will go to work on his own hook. Then because he can nail a shoe so it will stay a few weeks, men let him shoe their horses: and that is the reason there are so ses: and that is the reason there are so many poor traveling horses.

No man has a right to shoe a horse until he knows all about a horse's foot. It is a peculiar job to put on a horse's shoe so that it will set easy. The hoof should be pared in such a way that when the shoe is on the horse will hardly feel it.—A horse's foot is full of delicate fibres, and if a shoe sets too hard on them by wrong paring, or paring too much at the wrong paring, or paring too much at the heel, the horse's health is injured as well heel, the horse's health is injured as well as is his traveling powers; that is the reason why so many horses run down when they are worked hard and well fed. Their feet hurt them, and not their feet alone, but their stomachs, all, however, proceeding from the poor shoeing. They will be down after a hard day's work before thay have caten helf the work, before they have eaten half the food set before them.

All that is wanted is a little care to set the shoes right. The usefulness of the horse is in the hands of the shoer in a great measure; so I say that a man ought not to call himself a horse-shoer till he has learned the trade and knows all about a horse's foot, and what effect it will have to pare here or there, or to set a shoe here

TO FATTEN FOWLS.

It is conceded that the fowls of France are the fattest and whitest in the world. The method for preparing them for the market is this: Fifteen days before they are to be killed they feed them with dough made of wheat flour of the previous year with ten grammes of salt to every quar with ten grammes of salt to every quart of water, and three or four gravel stones to a mouthful of dough. Twelve hours before they are to be killed they should scarcely eat anything, in order to leave the intestines empty, and thus avoid the acid fermentation, which would produce decomposition, and make it impossible to transport them any distance.

Not a feather should be plucked till the fowl has been thoroughly bled, which is done without cutting off the head. So long as the blood is in circulation, each little vegetale of the resulting of the head. little vescicle at the root of the feather is filled, and causes spots if this is plucked till it is entirely drained. If they are killed immediately after they will keep only eight days; but if they have fasted twelve hours, they will keep fifteen days.

IMPORTANCE OF MANURE.

The importance of manure to the practical farmer, can hardly be over estimated. With its use, good farming begins and in neglect to use it, good farming ends, by cropping a farm without manuring it, the crops are soon diminished in quantity, and the land in value. If this process is long continued, the green will process is long continued, the crops will be hardly worth gathering, and the land becomes a barren waste. To have a good farm; without manuring it, is an utter impossibility. There is no such thing as successful farming, for any great length of time, without the use of manure.—
This is not theory alone, but is a fact, that has often been demonstrated.—Rural CATERPILLARS NESTS .- W. Batty, Delaware Co., Pa. The nests sent are those of the Basket or Drop worm, figured in Nov. 1864. The eggs mentioned and illustrated in the January Agriculturist belong to an entirely different and usually more abundant insect, the Tent Cater-pillar. Cutting the nests off and burning them, is sound in theory, and emclent in practice.

Bugs in Peas.—The bug in the pea comes from an egg laid in the pea when it is young. The egg batches out a grub, which finally changes to a beetle. Scalding the peas, before planting, will kill BUCHU LEAVES, PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; their tastes bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES,

Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs, producing diuresis, and like other similar medicines, exciting diaphoresis, when circunstances favor this mode of action.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravei, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate, and Retention or Incontinuance of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections, and Dropsy.

Chronic Intentitution, Cutaneous America, and Dropsy.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is used by person's from the ages of 13 to 25, and from 35 to 55 or in the decline or change of life; after confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-wetting in children.

Dr. Keyser is a Physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia.

MR. H. T. HELMBOLD:

Dear Sir.—In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has accounted in my judgment is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used; as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves, the simple decoction, the cure, fluid extracts,—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits, and without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others. I do not value a thing according to its bulk, if I did other Buchus would out do yours, but I hold to the doctrine that bulk and quantity do not make up value—if they did a copper cent would be worth more than a gold dollar.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. than a gold dollar.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients,
I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with my other Buchu, or any other proprietory compound of whatever manne.
