FARM STOCK.

The raising and care of stock demands the attention of every farmer. The manner in which he performs this part of his labor, is a very true criterion by which to judge of his merits and success as a farmer. The man who keeps a lot of lean, hungry looking cattle, is not the man to stand him as a farmer, not to find farming very profitable in the long run. Too little attention is paid to the choice of stock. Very many farmers, because they can get a little more mony from the butcher for a nice calf than for a common one, sell the best and raise the other. But this course, except for a very short time, is course, except for a very short time, is far from being profitable. It is a trait of nature that "like produce," and from this law there are few deviations. Now, the farmer who raises an inferior calf, not farmer who raises an interior cain, not only makes sure of an inferior animal, but all the descendents of that animal will be of a low grade. This is an item worthy of consideration. The difference in the value of a good and an inferior cow, for the purpose of raising stock, is very much greater than the difference in the price. Feeding is an important part of price. Feeding is an important part of the care of stock. The best breeds of ani-mals, unless well fed, will be of little profit. Many farmers seem to think that the greater the number of cattle they can keep on a given quantiaty of hay, the more profitable it will be. But this is a mis-take. The old maxim, "anything that is worth doing at all, is worth doing well," is eminently true of feeding stock. It is cruel and unprofitable to keep an animal so short for food as-to have it grow poor. Cruel, because nearly all the comfort and happiness of animals consists in gratifying the appetite. Unprofitable, because they are losing flesh, when by a more liberal feeding they would be gaining in flesh and value. Some farmers sell their best hay and feed the poorest, and seem to think they are on the high road to wealth. They are on the road; but they are moving backwards. Good cattle can no more be raised on poor hay than a good house can be built with shaky boards.— In either case there is an utter impossibility, because there is an interimpossibility, because the materials used are not of the right description. Good breeds, good care, and last, but not least, good feed, are the three principal, essential elements of success in this department of farming.

BUTTER.

The secret of making good butter is cleanliness and thoroughness, and the time for the most profitable exercise of the art of butter making is June. The grass is abundant, the cows in full milk, the weather favorable. The milk should not be kept too cool, though this is rarely a fault in dairies. It is enough if it be kept as cool as 60 deg. Farenheit, though 55 deg. is not too cool. Cream will rise at about this temperature better than at at about this temperature better than at any other, and the same is best at which to churn. Milk should stand where the air is sweet and fresh; odors from the kitchen or from the stable, or odors of any kind, indeed except that of fresh air, should be carefully excluded. Stone floors are desirable, for these can be kept content of the stable of stantly moist and so much cooler than others, and the air ought to circulate freely over and under the pans. Shallow pans are better than deep ones. Work out the buttermilk without touching the hands to the butter, using as little water as possible, or none at all. If the butter-milk is all out, and with it all the milk, mik is all out, and with it all the milk, sugar and cheesy portions of the milk, butter will keep with very little salt.—The more imperfect the working, the more salt is required. In keeping cream several days, put it where the temperature will be uniform and cool, and stir well if more added.

How to Make Good Butter.

A lady experienced in making butter says: Before I go to milk, I put a kettle, say one-third full of water, and large enough to let the milk pail into it, on the stove, where it will get boiling hot by the time I come in with the milk, I then strain the milk into another vessel, and wash the pail. (which should always be wash the pail, (which should always of tin,) then pour the milk back into the pail, and set it into the kettle of boiling water till the milk becomes scalding hot, taking care not to let it boil; then pour taking care not to let it boil; then pour it into pans, and set it away in the cellar for the cream to rise in the usual way.— Cream produced in this way will seldom require more than twenty minutes to churn, while by common practice the dairy maid may often churn for hours, and then perhaps, have to throw it away, as I did before I became acquainted with the Russian plan, the essential features of which I have adopted in my present mode, as given above. The method is applicable to all seasons—summer as well as winble to all seasons—summer as well as win-

A VALUABLE Ox.—Mr. L. B. Hemp-stead writes to the Waking Farmer an account of an ox formerly owned in Adel, Iowa. He says: "The ox was born in the spring of 1856, and was broken in harness before he was a year old. As the calf advanced in size and age the vehicle was enlarged, until he came to his growth when he was harnessed to an ordinary one-horse wagon or sled, according to the condition of the roads. For several years condition of the roads. For several years the ox performed the draying and hauling of the village, and finally during the summer of 1864 he was sold to a beef buyer for the sum of $110. His weight was something over 1,600 lbs. I am satisfied that old 'Bright,' (or that is what he was called,) could not only draw more than an ordinary ox, but much more than any single harnessed animal I was ever acquainted with."

WINE MAKING.—All grapes are fit for wine before they are fit for the table. It can be made as easily as cider. The fermentation should be vigorous and all start at once, and hence the cask should be filled and finished as soon as possible. A temperature of 65 to 70 degrees is doubt-less the best of this control of the start of less the best. In this way it will take from four days to three weeks. The slow-er the fermentation the more aroma to Freezing is fatal. Nearly 26 per cent. of sugar is necessary to make good wine, and if this quantity is lacking it must be added. The quantity of sugar in the grape depends on the season. If a new laid egg will float a part of its surface an inch in diameter above the liquid, it has sugar enough. it has sugar enough.

Fowls.—Give hens as much space as possible, if confined, throwing them fresh sods daily, as at this season grass will be a good part of their living. Provide clean gravel and lime, and a good dusting box, and limewash the houses, nest boxes, and roofs frequently. A hen with chickens will do little scratching if her feet are tied up in a little bag or too her feet are tied up in a little bag or toe of an old stocking, and the brood will do much good in the good in much good in the garden.

CUTTING TIMBER.—This month is a good one to cut rail and other timber.—Timber cut during the summer months will last longer than at any other time, as it will season rapidly. When cut in the fall or winter, it becomes sap rotten; but in the summer it hardens and dries, and lasts longer. and lasts longer.

the hay crop will be short, but the wheat looks fine. It is the general opinion that if nothing occurs to prevent within the coming few weeks, the crop will be the best that has been had in that section for some time. The oats crop is said to be short.

Taylor, of East Goshen township, Frank-lin county, recently hatched fourteen goslins out of thirteen eggs. One was a double egg—which produced two perfect and distinct goslins.

MR. H. T. HELMBOLD:

Dear Sir.—In regard to the question sked was to my opinion about Bucht I would say to have used and sold the article in various for the past thirty years. I do not think the any form or preparation of it I have not used known to be used, in the various diseases we used medicate agent would be indicated for a warre as well as myself, that it has been tensively employed in the various diseases we had the property of the property accquired in my judgment is warranted by facts,
I have seen and used; as before stated, and form of Buchu—the powdered leaves, the simple decoction, tincture, fluid extracts—and I am so cognizant of any preparation of that plantis equal to yours. Twelve years' experience out I think, to give me the right to judge of is men and without prejudice or partiality, I givery precedence over all others. I do not have would out do yours, but I hold to the doction that bulk and quantity do not make up take if they did a copper cent would be worth muchan a gold dollar.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patter that bulk and quantity do not make up take if they did a copper cent would be worth muchan a gold dollar.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patter than and the cured with it, and seen cured with more diseases of the bladder and kidneys had have ever seen cured with my other Buch, any other proprietory compound of whiten name.

Respectfully, yours cc.
