Agricultural.

[From the American Agriculturist for August.]

HINTS ABOUT WORK.

Bushes and Weeds.—August is a season for the most effective and deadly onslaughts upon weeds and bushes. The nature of most weeds is in the first part of the season to make tops, and afterwards to concentrate their energies either upon the production of seed or maturing their roots, so as to live through the winter. If cut in this dry hot weather, it is usually certain death. Even Butter-and-Eggs (Linaria,) that most showy and detestible of weeds, is sometimes killed by thorough hoeing up in an August drouth. As for bushes, once cutting up, and then letting the sheep browse off the young shoots, will make an end of the worst, even wild roses, and blackberry bushes. Do not let any weeds go to seed. The season has been particularly favorable to crops of weeds, and without proper diligence it will take years to do away with the harm that may be done, if they scatter their seeds.

Seed Grain.—Look out early for a good supply of clean plump seed, especially for that to be used this season. Clean in thoroughly from all shrunken kernels and weed seeds by repeated winnowing, using if possible the arrangement described on page 138 (April,) which is applicable to all kinds of grain and grass seeds.

Buckwheat may be sowed now and make a good mass of green manure, to be plowed under in time for sowing rye, or for enriching the ground for spring crops, and with a chance for a crop of grain.

Timothy sowed alone will, on good soil quickened with a top-dressing of bone, guano, or any fine rich compost, usually catch well, and sooner make a good sward than that sown with spring grain, or upon winter grain in the spring.

Wheat.—If the soil be dry in winter and in good heart now, plow early, and giving a top-dressing of some good fine compost, or special manure, drill in the wheat. It is poor policy to risk winter wheat on soil which, from lack of draining, barely allows the plants to struggle through.

Oats.—Harvest before too ripe, and thus have much better straw, more and plumper grain.

Corn.—It is a great temptation sometimes to sucker corn for the sake of getting green feed for cows. We do not believe in sucking corn at all, though with some kinds it may have no evil effects.—With many varieties we feel sure that the suckers are important to secure the proper filling out of the tips of the ears, the tassels coming into flower a little later than those of the main stalks, the later maturing tip kernels of the ear, are thus fertilized. Pull weeds among corn, but do no hoeing after the ground is shaded.

Tobacco begins to ripen for cutting by the middle of the month, if properly topped and suckered. When about 12 to 16 leaves have formed, and the flower stalk begins to push up rapidly, clear of the mass of large leaves below, then it should be broken off. The height will vary with the vigor of the plant, and the earliness or lateness of the season. The leaves increase rapidly in size after this, and suckers will start from the base of each, which must be broken off. The worming must go on all the time; and so vigorously do the suckers grow, and so active are the worms, that a few acres will give very steady work during this month to several hands, even after all haying is done.—When the leaves have their full growth, and have that turgid and mature look and feel, difficult to describe, cut up at the roots in the middle of the day, turn frequently till wilted enough to handle without breaking, and then hang in airy sheds.

Stacks.—If hay or grain stacks settle, re-top them, building them up square and guard against rain.

Water.—There is no more important subject than the supply of fresh and pure water for the stock in the pasture and in the yards, the lack of it cannot be made up by the best of feeding and other care. It is very bad to be obliged to drive cattle far for water. Young calves and cattle are often seriously stunted by a short supply of water in August.

Weaning Young Animals.—Colts, lambs, and calves, left to take their regular allowance of milk naturally, should be weaned about this time, say when 3 or 4 months old. The colts being put in enclosures away from their dams, and allowed to suck at first twice a day, then once a day, then less often, and finally once a week for once or twice, thus they will be weaned quietly and without falling off in flesh through running to and fro in their anxiety. Lambs must be weaned abruptly, and to make it easier for both parties, separate them beyond the sound of each other's bleating, leaving the lambs in the old pasture. Give the ewes very dry feed, and milk those whose udders appear distended and tender. Put two or three old tame ewes or wethers with the lambs as leaders, and to make them manageable. Calves are very easily managed, being allowed to suck only while the cow is being milked, and that but once a day after a few days. The milker can restrict the allowance of milk that the calf gets at his discretion.

Cows.—Use all diligence to prevent the cows drying, giving good pasturage, extra feed if necessary, and plenty of pure water. Farrow cows to be fattened this fall, should be dried off before September, and kept in good flesh, being fed so as to be on the gain all the time.

Oxen.—Be careful not to over-work and exhaust working cattle. If put to hard labor, feed dry hay, and bright straw with bran upon it, in addition to what they pick up nights in the pasture.

Horses need careful treatment, and if kept up should have an armful or two of grass daily; and if worked hard, cut feed and dry hay. Cold water is perhaps the best application for galls by the harness; and do not forget that for all kinds of stock

Salt and Pure Water are essential to their health.

Swine.—Keep them making manure; weeds and all sorts of rubbish which will decay, should be thrown to them to work over. Peas may be fed unthreshed, using such as may have been somewhat damaged, and thus the hogs will be in prime order when corn is fit to feed.

Sheep.—Keep tar upon their noses to keep off the pot-fly, which causes grubs in the head; examine rams about the horns and head and elsewhere for wounds, which soon become maggoty if neglected. Wash them out and apply very warm pine tar.

Poultry.—Give all kinds a share of the daily waste, butter-milk, loppered milk, etc. Collect eggs daily, keep in a cool place in close boxes, set on the points, and packed in Indian meal, bran, or slaked lime, inverting the boxes every two or three days. In the moulting season hens cease laying. Keep chickens well fed, and growing rapidly. Give scalded cracked corn, wheat screenings, Bromus grains, etc., with free run for green food and insects. See that fowls have clean and deep dust paths, in which a little quick-lime or wood ashes occasionally thrown will be fatal to lice. Whitewash roots and nest boxes.

Manure.—Employ any spare time in looking about the neighboring villages or factories for valuable refuse that will pay for hauling. Leather scraps, woolen waste, slaughter-house offal, horn piths, hops and sprouts from the breweries, soapy and oily water from the cloth factories, which may be absorbed by muck or led out upon the grass. Save any choice finer manure from the bottom of compost heaps in the yard for wheat.

Tools that have been in use during the summer should be thoroughly cleaned, the steel parts painted with linseed oil, and set away.

Turnips.—Sow till the middle of the month in most places below latitude 40°, on ground well cleaned of weeds by repeated harrowing.

Pruning should have been finished last month, but if any needs to be done it is not too late yet.
