Mr. Hamilton, of Texas, then spoke, charging that the opponents of the negro suffrage agitation had broken their taith with the other members of the Convention, their having been a previous understanding that the body should not adjourn in the hasty manner which was now proposed. He also charged that the programme which the Border State delegations had marked out for themselves was to hurry through their own peculiar expressions of sentiment and then retire to their homes, leaving the remainde the Convention to do as it pleased on the negro suffrage question; they of the Border States thought thus to evade all responsibility or accountability on that score, for they could tell their constituents that the action was taken in their absence. The speaker expressed his belief that if the attempt now made to muzzle the Convention was successful, it would be very gratifying to Andrew Johnson, for it would be a story that his friends and the enemies of human liberty everywhere would be glad to hear.

A. W. Hawkins, of Tennessee.

The times had changed, and now he had the pleasure of addressing a collection of colored people on the subject of their general improvement, and particularly as to their right to exercise the great privilege of voting. It was a parter of privilege of voting. It was a matter of history that colored men voted in Ten-nessee and other States prior to 1834; and among the old politicians in his State he knew many who have in times past sought the colored vote, and who were indebted to that, in part, for their elec-tion to office. He had seen colored men walk up to the polls with white men and cast their ballots, and he never then heard that it infringed the white man's rights, or in any way degraded the fran-chise. Laws were not less just because black men voted for them. But in 1834, a new constitution was adopted in Ten-nessee, whereby all colored men were ex-cluded from the ballot-box. It mattered not to him upon what theory the dis-franchisement was based; he could see no sound reason in any of them. Whether a man be Caucasian, Negro, or Indian, as he is a man, he is entitled to the inalienable right of all men.

The Voice of Georgia.

The Georgia delegation submitted a series of resolutions to the effect that loyalty was a power in the land; that the extension of the right of suffrage in the South would be a protection to loyalty which should be guaranteed by the govwhich should be guaranteed by the government; that a nation never could be true to itself so long as it ignored the civil and political rights of those who fought to maintain its integrity in the hour of peril; that traitors should not be pardoned while loyalists were disfranchised; that the bones of our loyal soldiers are the jewels of the Republic, and should be gathered together and preserved forever, because of their sacredness to the cause of liberty; that Andersonville in Georgia is the Mecca of America, whither the pil-grim patriot should wander to touch its sacred dust and consecrate himself anew to liberty.

The Voice of Tennessee.

We, the undersigned, delegates from the beautiful valley region of Middle Ten-nessee, whose soil is dotted over with the graves of the martyrs of Freedom-graves look into our very windows—a region crowded with defenseless black men, hun-dreds of whom have borne honorable part in defense of American nationality nd liberty,—coming as delegates from this region, more than a thousand miles away, and in view of their constituency, we cannot either be silent or subscribe to a half-way expression of opinion. The dumb eloquence of these honored graves and the defenseless condition of white and black loyalists there plead in trumpet tones in favor of negro suffrage. We tones in favor of negro suffrage. We therefore desire to concur in the report of the non-reconstructed States in this respect, and to add our testimony to theirs in an appeal to the Christian heart of the country in favor of what; in our opinion, alone will bring true peace to the South, and assist to establish the government of

Signed by S. C. Mercer, of Tennessee; Samuel W. Arnell, of Tennessee; James H. Gregory, of Tennessee; John Ruhm, of Tennessee; C. E. Moss, of Missouri. Resolutions.

Resolved, That we are unalternately in favor of the Union of the States, and earnestly desire the legal and speedy restoration of all the States to their proper places in the Union, and the establishment in each of them of influences of patriotism and justice, by which the whole nation shall be combined to carry forward tri-umphantly the principles of freedom and progress; until all men of all races shall everywhere beneath the flag of our counhave accorded to them freely all that their ## virtues, intelligence, industry antinetrism, and energy, may entitle them to treain. The Report.

We affirm that the loyalists of the South look to Congress with affectionate gratitude and confidence as the only means to save us from persecution, exile and death itself. And we also declare that there can be no security for us or our children-there can be no safety for the country against the foll spirit of slavery now orgagovernment, by national and appropriate legislation, enforced by national authority, shall confer on every citizen of the States we represent, the American birthright of impartial suffrage and country right of impartial suffrage and equality before the law. This is the one all-sufficent remedy. This is our great need and cent remedy. This is our great need and pressing necessity.

This is the only policy which will destroy sectionalism by bringing into effective power a preponderating force on the side of loyalty. It will lead to an enduring pacification, because based on the eternal principles of justice. It is a policy which will finally regenerate the South itself, because it will introduce and establish therea divine principle of MORAL POLEMERS. itself, because it will introduce and establish there a divine principle of MORAL POLATICS, which, under God's blessing, will, in elevating HUMANITY, absorb and purify the unchristian hate and selfish passion of man. It will bless those who give as well as those who receive. It will be the crowning act of glory to our free Republic, and when done will be received, as was received the act of emancipation. was received the act of emancipation, with joy and praise throughout the world, as the final realization of the promises of the Declaration of American Independence.

Freemen of Pennsylvania! Ponder seriously upon this record! Keep it before the people until the second Tuesday of October, and then, at the ballot-box, show determination to stand by the government of your fathers. In the same Convention in which the above atrocious sentiments were uttered, a voice of warning to the fanatics went up, but it was unheeded. Governor A. I. Boreman, of West Virginia, spoke as follows: Sir, I feel that the success or defeat of our cause depends upon the action of this Convention—that the maintainance of the Union itself depends upon it. I feel that if this Convention shall adopt this "dogma" of negro-suffrage, as it is called we are again irretrievably gone and gone we are again irretrievably gone, and gone forever.

The record is now made up, and the white freemen of the Old Keystone must meet it at the polls. Geary's flag has written on it the motto, "Negro suffrage and negro equality-at every hazard and at every extremity." Clymer's banner is inscribed with the glorious legend, "A white man's government—Union, Restoration, and Constitutional Liberty!" Choose, ye, between them.
