TEORIC SHOWERS OR "SHOOTING
rs."—It seems to be the general im-ion of scientific men that a meteoric er may be expected on the morning vember 13th, and as such a sight is witnessed once in an ordinary genn, we have concluded to give our rs such information on the subject chance to possess. The foundation e belief that this phenomenon may pected on the 13th, is the fact that ar phenomena occurred on the 13th vember 1800, and on the 13th of No-er, 1833—at an interval of thirty years—which, if there be any fixed governing their recurrence, will it upon the 13th of November, 1866. the morning of the 13th of Novem-1833, we learn from Olmsted's As-my, from two o'clock until broad light, the sky being perfectly serene cloudless, the whole heavens were ted with a magnificent display of ce-al-fire works. At times the air was d with streaks of light, occasioned by particles darting down so swiftly as ave the impression of their light up-the eye (like a match ignited and rled before the face,) and drifting to northwest like flakes of snow driven the wind; while, at short intervals, of fire, varying in size from minute ts to bodies larger than Jupiter and us, and in a few instances as large as full moon, descended more slowly g the arch of the sky, often leaving r them long trains of light, which e in some instances variegated with rent prismatic colors.

tracing back the lines of direction hich the meteors moved, it was found they all appeared to radiate from the e polut, which was situated near one he stars of the sickle, in the Constel-on "Leo;" and in every repetition of meteoric shower, the radiant point occupied nearly the same situation.

his shower pervaded nearly the whole North America, having appeared in ost equal splendor from the British essions of the North to the West In-Islands and Mexico on the South, and sixty one degrees of longitude east he American coast, quite to the Pacifcean on the west. Throughout this nense region the duration was nearly same. The meteors began to attract ntion by their unusual frequency and liancy, from nine to twelve o'clock the evening; were most striking in ir appearance from two to four; ared at their maximum, in many places, out four o'clock, and continued until dered invisible by the light of day. ome authorities fix the date of the t recorded meteoric shower on Novem-12th, 1799, instead of 1800, and conseently fix the time for its recurrence on vember 12th, 1867—being an interval thirty four, instead of thirty three ars. We leave time and the astronors to determine which calculation is e most correct.

Astronomers seem to agree that these riodical meteors have their origin bend the atmosphere, descending to us om some nebulous body with which the rth falls in, and near or through the rders of which it passes; and that this ebulous body has an independent exist-ce as a member of the solar system, ith regular periods of revolution. It is rther established that these meteors onsist of light combustible matter; that ey move with great velocity, amounting in some instances to nineteen miles in a second; that some of them are bodies of large size, sometimes several thousand feet in diameter; that when they enter the atmosphere, they rapidly and powerfully condense the air before them, and thus elicit the heat that sets them on fire; and they are burned up at a considerable height above the earth, sometimes not less than thirty miles.

The "show" will be a free one, and of course everybody will remain awake to see it. If the scene is anything to be compared with that of November, 1833, it will well repay a night's watching. On the occasion alluded to, many thought the end of the world had come, while the more superstitious were stricken dumb with fear. We remember one amusing incident we have heard related of one old gentleman who was so alarmed he ran out of the house without completing his toilet, and there in a fit of hysterics was dodging here and there to escape what he supposed to be the falling cinders of a burning world. His wife called to him to quit his nonsense, come in and put on his breeches. "Breeches, thunder!" he exclaimed, "what's the use of breeches when the world's burning up?"

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.—WHEREAS, It has pleased an all wise Providence to remove from our midst, our Fellow Belles Lettres, Fairfax Oaks Mills, Therefore

Resolved, That by his death the Belles Lettres Society has been deprived of an able, active and efficient member, and a most esteemed friend.—And while we can never forget the many valuable services rendered by him to the Society, we will always remember him with feelings of the strongest affection, and of the highest regard.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathise with the parents of our deceased friend in their bereavement, and we would hope to offer them some slight consolation in the assurance that their son secured the affection and respect of all who were associated with him in our Society.

Resolved, That, as a tribute of respect, our Society Hall be draped in mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the parents of our deceased fellow member, and that they be published in the journals of Carlisle and Lewisburg.

CONSUMPTION CURABLE BY DR. SCHENK'S MEDICINES.—To cure consumption, the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the liver and stomach must first be cleansed and an appetite created for good wholesome food, which, by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution.—Schenck's Mandrake Pills cleanse the stomach of all bilious or mucous accumulations; and, by using the Sea Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is nutritious as well as medical, and, by using the three remedies, all impurities are expelled from the system, and good wholesome blood made, which will repel all disease. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action. Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhœa they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic Syrup to act on the respiratory organs properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the rooms as much as possible, eat all the richest food—fat meat, game, and in fact, anything the appetite craves; but be particular and masticate well.
