In the military service, also, they were not intermixed with the white soldiers, but were separated in the organies and regiments of color, and this not by way of disparagement, but from motives of wiedom and prudence, to avoid the antagonisms of variant and unmixhle races. Law and custom having sanctioned a separation of races, it is not the province of the judiciary to legislate it away. We cannot say there was no difference in fact, when the law and the voice of the people said there was. The laws of the State are found in its constitution, statutes, institutions and general customs. It is to these sources Judges must resort to discover them. If they abandon these guides, they prohouse their own opinions, not the laws of those whose officers they are. Following these guides, we are compelled to declare that at the time of the alleged injury there was that natural, legal and customary difference between the white and black races in this State which made their separation as passengers in a public conveyance the subject of sound regulation, to secure order, promote comfort, preserve the peace, and maintain the rights both of carriers and passongers.— The defendants were therefore entitled to an affirmative answer to the point recited at the beginning of this cointon. It only remains to add that this cause arose before the passengers in a cocunt of race or color, and our decision pronounces the law only as it stood when the case arose, leaving the act to operate upon such cases as shall fail within its provisions.— Undeed the act interface in the decision pronounces the case arose, leaving the act to operate upon such cases arose, leaving the act to the port of accor or other and our decision pronounces the law only as it stood when the case arose, leaving the act to operate upon such cases arose, leaving the act to operate upon such cases arose, leaving the act to a part of the set of the actor operate upon such arose the actor operate upon such arose the such and arose the act of the the interests of those he carries. If the ground of regulation be reasonable, courts of justice cannot interfere with his right of justice cannot interfere with his right of property. The right of the passenger is only that of being carried safely, and with a due regard to his personal comfort and convenience, which are promoted by a sound and well regulated separation of passengers. An analogy and an illustra-tion are found in the case of an inn-keep-er, who, if he have room, is bound to en-tertain proper guests; and so a carrier is bound to receive passengers. But a guest in an inn cannot select his room or his bed at pleasure. In or can a yourger falle pose. in an inn cannot select his room or his bed at pleasure; nor can a voyager take pos-session of a cabin or berth at will, or re-fuse to obey the reasonable orders of the captain of the vessel. But on the other hand, who would maintain that it is a reasonable regulation, either of an inn or a vessel, to compel the passengers, black or white, to room or bed togather? If a right of private nervorate graften we stalt

MEXIGANO. We met a number of ox trains going to Lyon from the Hurafano with corn.— These teams are driven by Mexicans of a still darker complexion than any we had yet seen. They look wonderingly at us and ask "Adonde va usted ?" Those who understand the Spanish reply " Yoy a la California." On hearing which the Mexi-caus get together and express by word and gesture their surprise. They part from us with a "Quede ustedes con Dlos." It is no doubt out of place here to men-It is no doubt out of place here to men-tion my feelings, and that of the majority of Americans 4 have met in the far west. of Americans 4 have met in the far west, towards the Mexicans. A people who could act as they have done towards the misled but admirably noble and brave Maximilian must be lacking in the quali-ties that make a people great. And the "freedom" of Mexico, culminating in an act so barbarous, will but fit the people for a heavier yoke, and sharpen with a keener edge the next swords drawn against them. TOPOGRAPHY. Ravines cut down from the plateaus on either side, making a continued series on either side, making a continued series of buttes that project into the bottom lands. The land bordering on the river grows richer, and spreads out into exten-sive fields of dark rich loam, that only need industry to be very productive. Back six miles from the river the land is poor, desert-like, being covered with broken shale and occasional drift boulders, under-laid with sandstone. There is no obstacle, so far, to the construction of a railroad.— Indeed. ^{an} manu decadation unit bouldes, under the service of the service

A DARKEY JURY.—A friend of ours vouches for the truth of the following: At a recent session of one of the courts in Bouth Carolina, an entire colored Jury was empanelled. A case was brought be-fore them—the witnesses examined, and the attorneys made their respective ar-guments. The Judge, after laying down the faw, and recapitulating the testimo-ny, gave the papers into the hands of the Foreman—an intelligent looking darkey —with instructions that, as soon as they found a verdict, to bring it in without delay.

found a verdict, to bring it in without delay. Thirty minutes or more elapsed, when the Jury returned, headed by the Fore-man, and stood before the Judge. As the Foreman appeared to hesitate, and to wear a disappointed look, the Judge asked— Mr. Foreman, have you found a ver-dict? "No, Massa Judge, we haben't found but the state of private property confers no right of control, who should decide a contest
