EARTH WORMS IN FLOWER POTS. Sometimes horticultural troublesseem to be epidemic, and we have a succession of letters all of the same purport, as is now the case with reference to the comnow the case with reference to the common Earth or Angleworm in flower pots. There is a difference of opinion in regard to the food of worms, some claiming that they actually eat the roots of plants, while others hold that they live upon the decaying matter contained in the soil. Whichever may be the case, there is no doubt that they do much injury to potted plants; in passing through the son. Whenever may be the case, there is no doubt that they do much injury to potted plants; in passing through the soil in all directions they not only perforate it with small channels, but they so compact that it is difficult to water a plant thorougly, as the water will run off by the worn holes before the mass becomes wetted through. Worms should be kept from entering the pots, and those already in them should be removed. Those who, in taking up plants, use common garden soil for potting, are quite apt to introduce the trouble themselves. Potting soil should be prepared beforehand and frequently worked over, during which operation the worms may be seen and picked out. Worms frequently enter pots that are set outdoors for the sammer, or are plunged in the borders. We have frequently cautioned against this in our "Notes for the Month." The pots should be set upon a layer of coal ashes, and when they are plunged, a quantity of the hole made for the recoption of the

When a pot is infested by them, it is not very difficult to remove them. We have found that if the earth is allowed have found that if the earth is allowed to get as dry as may be without injury to the plant, the worms will usually collect together, probably attracted by the moisture of one another, at the bottom or sides of the pot. By turning the ball of earth out of the pot ticy may be removed. This turning out the earth from a pot seems to those who have never practiced it, a difficult operation as well as one dangerous to the plant. It is very easily done, and will not disturb the growth of any but very recently potted as one dangerous to the plant. It is very easily done, and will not disturb the growth of any but very recently potted plants, in which case the roots have not sufficiently permeated the earth to hold it together in a ball. Spread the ingers of the left hand over the surface of the earth, invort the pot, and hold it in the right hand; then give the edge of the pot a slight downward rap upon the edge of a table, shelf, or the like, and out will come the ball, which must be carefully received in the left hand. A few pickings in this way will soon free the pots of worms. Where the trouble occurs with plants in the boxes or in tubs, some other means must be resorted to. All infusion of soot is very disagreeable to them, and will drive them to the surface; this, to many plants, will act as a manure. Lime water will kill the worms; it is made by slaking a hump of lime of the size of one's flst, and stirring it in pailful of water. When the liquid has become perfectly clear, it may be used in moderate quantity upon the earth containing robust upon the earth containing robust shurbs. We have no experience in its use upon tender plants, and that must be a matter of experiment.—American Autoritation Agriculturist.

STRAW AND ROOT CUTTERS. If you once make a careful trial of cutting the fodder for a stock of cattle, horses included, you will realize how much corn fodder, straw and hay of an indifferent quality you will be able to work up, and at the same time become convinced that your stock has grown laster, or made more fat and flesh, than under the old practice of feeding out entirely long hay.

tirely long hay.

We fed six or seven cows and five We fed six or seven cows and five horses hast winter on corn fodder, English hay, meadow hay and barley straw. It was all cut and thoroughly mixed, and sprinkled with cold water and a little salt as the mixing proceeded, then throwing into a heap. At the end of two days, one end of the heap was broken down and ment mixed with it.—That for the horses being equal to about three quarts of corn meal per day; and that for the cows, equal to one quart of corn meal per day. All the stock did well, and it seemed to use at a considerable less cost than in the old way of feeding. The experiment was not an exact one, but confirmed several others of a similar nature, toale some years before.

It roots are used instead of grain, they theyor the mass of dry folder, so that cattle eat the whole cagerly. We know one farmer to feed 30 or 10 cows through an entire winter on wheat straw, cut, and flat turnips, also cut. The cows were in sufficient flesh, and were producing a fair wavene of mulk. ducing a fair average of milk.

VALUABLE RECIPES.—The following have been used in many families of this borough, for the purpose of coloring cotton goods; carpet rags, &c.; and have been found both cheap and serviceable. The colors are bright and unfading:

BLUE.—Dissolve 4 oz. of copperas in two buckets of water; boil the goods to be colored in two buckets.

BLUE.—Dissolve 4 oz. of copperas in two buckets of water; boil the goods to be colored in two hours, put 2 ozs. prussate of potash, dissolved in two buckets of water, boil the cloth in this fifteen minutes; then lift out the yarn, muslin, or other articles, and pour in an onnee of vitrol; stir it well, then throw in the material and let it sonk a few minutes; after which rinse thoroughly.

YELLOW.—Put 8 ozs. sugar of lead into two buckets of water; 4 ozs. of bicromate of potash in one bucket of water; heat as warm as you can bear to handle the material in wringing. Put into the lead solution first, then into the other, four times from one to the other alternately, wringing them each time.

Dip the above in lime-water to make a bright orange color.

BLACK.—Put 1 oz. extract of logwood into 1 bucket of cold water; stir it until hot; put 4 oz. of blue vitrol into a bucket of cold water; heat it. Put goods in the vitrol and heat five minutes; after which put them into the logwood dye half an hour—airing it several times.—Then dip in salt water scalding hot.—Rinse in cold water.

mr Farmers, look well after your hen manure. Place boards about two feet below the roosting place, upon which may fall all the manure. Then, once or twice a week, have it well scraped, and put in barrels. You can then have in the course of a year, the very best manner you could possibly use for corn and other crops.

HOW TO FATTEN GEESE. - An Irisl agricultural paper says the best way to fatten goese is to put three or four in a darkened room, and give each bird one pound of oats daily, thrown in a pan of water. In fourteen days they will be found almost too fat. Never shut up less than two together, as they pine if left alone.

STUFFING FOR TURKEYS.—Chop finely one quarter of a pound of suct, and mix double the quantity of bread crumbs, a large spoonful of chopped parsley, nearly a spoonful of thyme and marjorom mixed, one eighth of nutmeg, some grated lemon peal, salt and pepper, and bind the whole with two eggs. A tenspoonful of finely shreded shalot or onion may be added at pleasure.—Ex.—We have no doubt the "stuffing" is good and just the thing but what does the stuffing amount to without the "turkey?" Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer

Has stood the test of seven years before the public; and no preparation for the hair has yet been discovered that will produce the same beneficial results. It is an entirely new scientific discovery, combining many of the most powerful and restorative agents in the VECET-ABLE KINGDOM. It restores GREY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTH-FUL COLOR. It makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors, and falling out of the hair; and will make it grow upon bald heads, except in very aged persons, as it furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nowished and supported. It makes the hair mosts, soft, and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a HAIR DRESSING. It is the cheapest preparation ever offered. glossy, and is unsurpassed as a HAIR DRESSING. It is the cheapest preparation ever offered to the public, as one bottle will accomplish more and last longer than three bottles of any other preparation.

It is recommended and used by the First Medical Authority.

The Wonderful results produced by our Sicilian Hair Renewer have induced many to manufacture preparations for the Hair, undervarious names; and, in order to induce the trade and the public to purchase their compounds, they have resorted to falsehood, by claiming they were former partners, or had some convection withour Mr. Hall, and their preparation was similar to ours. Do not be deceived by them. Purchase the original: it has never yet been equalled. Our Treatise on the Hair, with certificates, sent free by mail. See that each bottle has our private Revenue Stamp over the top of the bottle. All others are imitations.
