VALUE OF SHELTER FOR SHEEP.

Wm. H. Ladd, one of the best farm Wm. H. Ladd, one of the best farmers of the State of Ohio, who has given especial attention to sheep, gives the following careful estimate, in the Ohio Farmer, of the value of shelter to sheep, suggested by the remark of a neighbor that "it won't pay to build shelter for sheep." This neighbor kept 1,000 head, and lost many animals, and it is from his losses that part of this estimate is made:

made:
"Let me make some very low estimade:

"Let me make some very low estimates in reference to the loss occasioned by this treatment in thirty years.—First, if the sheep sheared two pounds of wool per head, under this treatment, they would have shorn three pounds had they received good care. Second, one pound difference per head on 1,000 pounds in thirty years, at 40 cents per pound, is $12,000. It is a very low estimate, counting sheep at the lowest common price, that a flock of 1,000 should yield $500 worth of surplus stock to sell each year, this in thirty years amounts to $15,000. Feed saved by shelter, say $200 each year, worth in thirty years, $6,000; simple interest at 6 per cent., on amount saved in thirty years, $1,000; value of shelter to the proprietor at the close of thirty years, $1,000; and iffound grain feed, say $400 each year, in thirty years, $1,200, interest as above, $16,550; for keeping shelters in repair, $1,000. Total, $32,550.—Difference in favor of shelters and good care, $33,130. Don't look at this as a fancy sketch; it is a reality, and the estimated difference in favor of good keeping is in every particular below the reality." keeping is in every particular below the reality."

COVERING STRAWRERRIES IN WIN-COVERING STRAWBERRIES IN WINTER.—The object of covering strawberries at the approach of winter is often misapprehended. It sometimes happens that a novice covers his plants and finds a large portion of them dead in the spring. He has overdone the thing, and taken too much care of his favorites.—
The object is not so much to keep frost from the plant, as to protect both tops and roots from the disastrous effects of platernate freezing and thawing. Hopes and roots from the disastrous effects of alternate freezing and thawing. Hence the covering should be put on with discrimination, and while it may be quite thick between the rows, it should not be more than an inch or so in depth over the plants themselves. In all good cultivation the plants are covered, and this serves the double purpose of protecting them from injury py alternate heat and cold, and when left on, as it should be, it keeps down the weeds and prevents the fruit from becoming soiled by contact with the earth. As to the material to be used, that will depend much upon the resources of the locality. Probably the worst materials are tan-bark and saw-dust, not that they do not afford the resources of the locality. Probably the worst materials are tan-bark and saw-dust, not that they do not afford sufficient protection, but because they soil the fruit quite as much as if it were exposed to damage from the earth. Near the coast, "salt hay" is much used and where it is obtainable, nothing can be better. It is made from a wiry kind of grass, that preserves its clasticity in a remarkable degree. Perhaps the most generally used unaterial is straw. Out straw, thrashed by the flail, is preferred by some cultivators, but any kind will answer. With machine-thrashed straw it is well to throw a spuniting of earth over it to hold it in place until the snows, and frosts secure it. Do the same when leaves are employed to cover the plan's; these make an excellent mulch, as do spent hops from the brewgries. Pine straw—fallen pine leaves—where they are abundant, are capital for the purpose. Corn-stalks are used in some parts of the West wich success, and lastly, uature's own covering—snow, if we could but secure its permanency, is, as far as winter protection core, the best coverbut secure its permanency, is, as far as winter protection goes, the best covering of all.

SCRAPING AND WASHING TREES. We consider early winter to be the best time for scraping and washing the trunks of trees. It is well-known to all observ-ing truit-growers that the loose bark of trees is the winter-quarters of myriads trees is the winter-quarters of myriads of insects, where they securely remain until the ensuing spring, when they warm and genial weather invites them to quit their cozy homes and begin their destructive operations for the season. We have found a marrow saw, rather hate toothed, to be an exection tool in rasping of the superdinars back. It accomplishes it more uniformly than a hoe, frowel, or other scraper; a frowel or a short-handled hoe, how ver, is very good, when the other may not be passessed. After the back is removed, the trunks should be washed thoroughly with a preparation of whale oil soap and water, say in proportion of a pound and water, say in proportion of a pound of the soap to four gallons of water. It can be applied to large trees with a hickory broom or a stiff whitewash brush, and to small trees, especially dwarfs, with the hand scrub-brush. dwarfs, with the hand scrub-brush.— Sickly trees, which can at this season be easily detected by being covered with a species of fungi, or perhaps more properly a peculiar insectiverous deposit—should be scrubbed so as to completely remove this. The mixture will of itself benefit the tree, while the removal from the stem of all extraneous and injurious substances will give to it new health and vigor the ensuing season—in some instances to a surprising extent. When whale-oil soap is not obtainable, lime may be used, but it should not be rery strong, or it might be injurious to the roots of the tree if applied plentifully and the tree small.—Germantown Telegraph.

PEARS—ROOT PROPAGATION.—In a late number of the Magazine of Horticallure was a communication on the propagation of the pear, from Dr. Van Mons of Belgium. We quote a paragraph:

"I now propagate for myself and intimate friends the most choice varieties of pears, which I obtain by means of the roots. Not a single one fails in this new process. It is immaterial in what manner they are set out. This method I discovered accidentally, in consequence of some roots, on which I intended to graft other kinds of pears, being thrown on the ground and covered with a little earth, to preserve them until used for that purpose, and which were lost sight of and forgotten until the next spring, when all of them sent up stalks, which in the autumn, were as tall as those rais. when all of them sent up stalks, which in the autumn, were as talk as those raised from the seed of two years' growth. They can be set out in the spring as well as autumn. Such roots should be selected as have one or more terminal ribres; and those that are often cut off and left in the earth when a tree is transplanted, succeed well. They cannot be too small, but should not be larger than the finger. The wounds at the large ends should be covered with the same composition to protect as in grafting. composition to protect as in grafting.— They must be set obliquely."

Guard the Health of Your Cows.—If a cow eats anything that has a strong or disagreeable odor it appears in her milk. If a cow eats anything medicinal it comes out in her milk. If she is feverish her milk shows it. If she has sores about her, pus may be found in her milk. If she is fed upon decayed or diseased food, her milk, since it is derived from her food, will be imperfect. It is as impossible to make a good building from rotten timber. If there is anything wrong about her, it will appear in the milk, as that is an effective source of casting fifth from her organism. These facts, should, at all times, be well impressed upon the minds of dairymen and all who keep cows, that they may be carefully kept from disease. GUARD THE HEALTH OF YOUR COWS. Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer

Has stood the test of seven years before the public; and no preparation for the hair has yet been discovered that will produce the same beneficial results. It is an entirely new scientific discovery, combining many of the most powerful and restorative agents in the VEGET-ABLE KINGDOM. It restores GREY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTH-FUL COLOR. It makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors, and falling out of the hair; and will make it grow upon baid heads, except in very aged persons, as it furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft, and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a HAIR DRESSING. It is the cheapest preparation ever offered to the public, as one bottle will accomplish more and last longer than three bottles of any other preparation.

It is recommended and used by the First Medical Authority.

The Wonderful results produced by our Sicilian Hair Renewer have induced many to manufacture preparations for the Hair, under various names; and, in order to induce the trade and the public to purchase their compounds, they have resorted to fatschood, by claiming they were former partion was similar to ours. Do not be deceived by them. Purchase the original: it has never yet been equalled. Our Treatise on the Hair, with certificates, sent free by mail. See that each bottle has our private Revenue Stamp over the top of the bottle. All others are imitations.
