OUR CANDIDATE.

An exchange, speaking of the State ticket, says that Hon. Charles E. Boyle, Democratic candidate for Auditor General, is a self-made man. He is a practical printer. For several years he was editor of the Genius of Liberty, the old organ of the Democracy of Fayette county. At the same time he studied law, and soon after being admitted to the bar, was chosen District Attorney. He served the past two years in the State Legislature, and in that short time established a State reputation which has given him the nominatio for the high office to which he has been selected. Mr. Boyle is yet a young man-we presume not much over thirty years of age. He is a lawyer of ability, and above all, a man of high character-strictly honest and fair in all his transactions, and will make a competent and laithful officer. He is a good ocratic faith. His election can and men was esteemed desirable by the exmust be made sure.

Let it not be forgotten that the laboring men of this country are the source of all its wealth and its most deserving creditors. They are entitled to the blessings of a just and equitable government, which bears equally upon all classes of citizens. When we deprive them of these, and rob them of the result of their nonest toil to stuff out the blethoric pockets of a bondholding aris tocracy, the country has no longer any claim to their allegiance, and they would be justified in driving off the public robbers by the use of any means within their power.
