It is inso opinion that death resulted from prussic acid, but he does not cause intailibility. In absorption of poisons taken into the system does not go on after death (when the circumstion censor) and any time the pressure of the death.

Absorption implies vital activity—infilitation any take place after death.

Question.—Was the prissic acid in the stomach of the deceased maternity lessened by militration up to the time you made your examination?

Answer.—Prussic acid is very peculiar in that respect. It impully disappears after death, for fire the continuous control of the deceased maternity lessened by militration up to the time you made your examination?

Answer.—Prussic acid is very distable, prone to decinquantion that it is very distable, prone to describe the fire that it is very distable, prone to describe the fire that it is very distable, prone to describe the properties of the conclusion.

An interval of twelve or foorteen days would suffice; but profing is certainly known.

Question.—If nothing is certainly known.

Question.—If nothing is positively known, &c., as you have testified, how can you come to the conclusion that death in this case was caused by prussic acid? Answer. That brings us to a question of morphylysics. I distinguish between science and facts—I understand science to be the more or less probable deductions from establish. A facts. Therefore, from facts observed, I deduce my conclusions, which may or may not be correct; that death was consequent in the action of prussic acid, is a mere cancissian deduced from the facts. MESSIS, R. E. SELLEUS & CO.,—This is to correct that for the last sixteen years I have been severely afflieted with Rheumatism, otten confroed to my house, and even unable to walk. Being in the post office, about two monts ago, Mr. Chark observed my crippled condition, and urged in otry a bottle of Johnson's Rheumatic Compound. I followed his advice, and now, by the bessing of God and the use of haff a bottle of your compound, I am free from all symptons of rheumatism, and can walk, without the aid of my staff, as well as ever.
